DEFENSE OF STALINGRAD AND VOLGA IS CRITICAL

United States Just Beginning To Feel Pinch On Manpower

Interpretation By

Kirke L. Simpson

(Wide World War Analyst)

The latest official reminder of the mounting demands of the armed forces means that the United States is just now beginning to feel the manpower pinch that long since has become painful on Britain, Germany, Russia and every major belligerent.

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, selective service chief, says men are needed "at a rate which would have been considered super-human a year ago." He advises married men without children to prepare for early summons to military duty.

Nearly a half million American married men were drafted in the first World war and every prospect is that married men will be called on in this conflict in far larger numbers and possibly in larger proportions.

The background of the manpower situation is so obscured by details and by wartime restrictions on information that a quick survey—using privileged figures—is timely.

The United States is rapidly draining the pool of men fully fit to fight. With more than 4,000,000 already under arms, as reported last month by President Roosevelt, probably more than half of the presently available, physically qualified men already are in uniform.

Unless the war shows signs of reaching a victorious conclusion far earlier than anyone has a right to expect, nearly all the remainder will be needed before the end of next year. Hershey warned months ago of the prospect that "every able-bodied young man eventually will enter the war."

The officially disclosed goal is 3,500,000 in service by the year's end, including about 1,000,000 in the navy. So there is no apparent early likelihood of reducing the rate at which men are being inducted—about 300,000 a month, congress has been told.

How much further the armed forces will be expanded is a matter of speculation, but there have been repeated estimates of 10,000,000 in 1944. The army air force alone expects to go up

MARINES EXACT HEAVY TOLL OF JAPANESE LIVES

Kill 22 Of Enemy For Each American Lost In Solomons Action

COMMANDER NIMITZ SENDS HEARTY CONGRATULATIONS

Eight Tons Of Bombs Dropped On Rabaul Airfield Runway

PEARL HARBOR, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The United States marines are settling old scores with the Japanese by wide margins, taking the lives of 22 of the enemy for each American devil-dog killed in recent actions in the Solomons.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, United States Pacific fleet commander, translated into words the actions of the marines, who met the Japanese last Wednesday and Thursday and eloquently chalked up the one-sided score with bayonets and bullets.

In the Wednesday action, Admiral Nimitz's communique said, a Japanese detachment of 92 men and officers fought "until the last man was dead," while the marines' loss was only six killed and 13 wounded.

Wednesday night, the marines de-

Last Letters Of A Hero

By R. F. Dixon

WESTFIELD, N. J., Aug. 22.—(Wide World)—Never before this global war has America's military might been spread so far and so fast. By plane and by ship it has been sent to all parts of the world.

It's a gigantic picture, made up of human beings, of men with loved ones behind them and an unknown future before them.

What goes through the minds of these men as they embark on submarine-infested seas or attempt to fly across them?

Off on a particularly perilous flight, Captain Arthur La Roe, of Westfield, army air force medical officer, put his thoughts on paper. He put down love and encouragement for his wife, but for their sons, Thomas, 19, and Robert, 17, he put down his doubt of reaching a "tiny island" and charged them to carry on.

One day after the letters were delivered there came to the La Roe home a telegram that the captain was four days overdue on a long flight. No word has come since.

To his wife the soldier-surgeon wrote:

"Dearest:

"The fact that you get this will mean that we've completed the next jump (to the take-off point for a long ocean hop to a tiny island). I wrote this on the way. We're here for a day or two to rest up, check everything extra carefully and then hop off some night before midnight. There is very little reason for worry, for every possible precaution is being thrown around the next two hops. Johnny simply says he won't let us go till he's sure everybody will make it. We will. Loads of love.

"DAD."

But to his older son Captain La Roe wrote:

"Tom:

"I'm leaving now, tonight, on the greatest adventure of a long and very full life. There's no call for worry if it fails, but I do want you and Bob to stick together and help each other to see things through. You're the older, so a little more of the responsibility falls on you. Take it and carry it. It will help to make a better man of you. My one wish is that you be a credit to your name—be good to mother and treat Bob with a brotherly respect. If I can know that I don't mind trying this jump. There is a serious question if we ever find our landing spot, but we'll do our best; you do yours always. Loads of love,

"DAD."

And to the younger lad:

"Bob:

"This is the zero hour so far in my almost fifty-one years. If we get by the next 24 or 48 hours, we'll probably be all right for a good many more years. If we don't I want to be sure you'll do your best. Do it on your own, for your own sake. It pays well in the end. Get along with Tom, help mother all you can and honor your name—it has never been sullied. Don't let it be now. I'm counting on you. And if I come back at all, I'll never leave again. We'll stick together, won't we? Loads of love.

"DAD."

In authorizing publication of the letters, the office of censorship sent this epilogue from Washington:

"They raised a lump in the throat of every newspaperman in this office who read them. What a fine character he must have been!"

Brazil Declares War On Germany And Italy

Makes 29th Nation To Enter Conflict Against Axis Countries

DECLARATION STIRRED BY RUTHLESS RAIDS ON SHIPS

More Than 600 Lives Lost In Sinking Of Five Craft At Week-End

(By Associated Press)

Brazil declared war on Germany and Italy yesterday, plunging her 46,000,000 people and the last continent into the global conflict which saw the United States on the offensive in the Pacific and the Russians fighting a resolute defense of Stalingrad and the great Volga river.

Uruguay was expected to follow her huge neighbor into war swiftly. Brazil's action was in angry reply to piratical attacks on her ships, six of which were sunk in a week, some carrying troops to their deaths.

As a military factor, Brazil will be useful chiefly in patroling shipping lanes in the south Atlantic. She has [illegible] from the United States. Politically, her step will cement all Latin-America closer to the Allied cause. Brazil is larger than the United States but smaller than Canada.

Brazilian policy has long been based on friendship with the United States

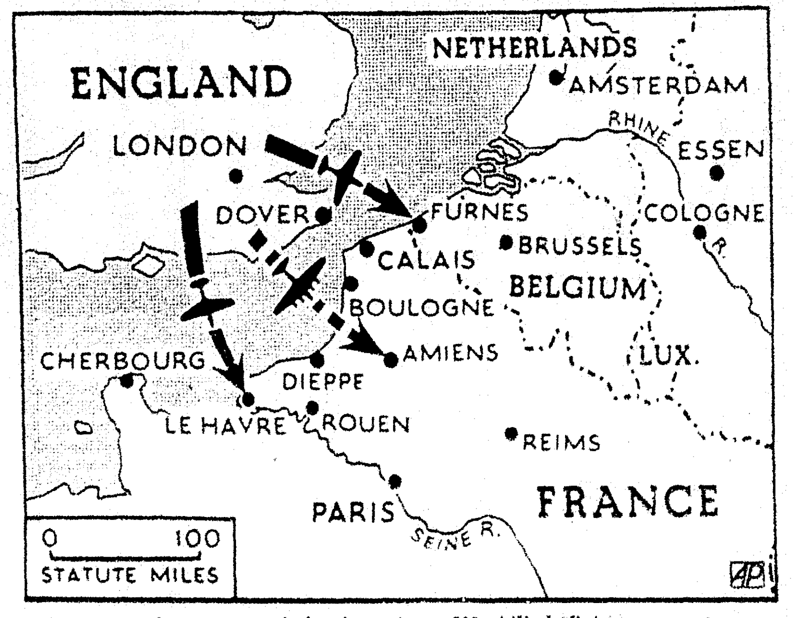
With Brazil at war against the Axis, the United Nations now number 29, as follows:

The United States, Brazil, Britain, Russia, China, Australia, Belgium, Canada, Costa Rica, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, India, Luxembourg, Mexico, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Philippine Islands, Poland, South Africa and Yugoslavia.

Where Allied Planes Continue Raids



Arrows and plane symbols show how 500 Allied fighters swept across English Channel in an unprecedented daylight follow-up attack on heels of the smash against Nazi-held Dieppe, France. In the attack United States Flying Fortresses bombed the Amiens railway yards (broken arrow) and returned without loss. Virtually no opposition was encountered from Nazi planes, leading Allied sources to believe a major blow had been struck against Nazi air power on this front.

SOVIETS SUFFER TWIN REVERSES IN NAZI DRIVES

Russians Announce Withdrawals To New Positions In Caucasus

GERMANS USE INCREASING NUMBERS OF CAVALRYMEN

Heavy Fighting Under Way On All Sectors As Pressure Increased

By Eddy Gilmore

MOSCOW, Sunday, Aug. 30.—(AP)—German troops driving relentlessly toward Stalingrad have succeeded in crossing the Don river southeast of Kletskaya and have rammed a wedge into Russian positions northeast of Kotelnikovski in twin reverses for the Soviets, it was reported officially today.

In the Caucasus, the Russians announced a withdrawal to new positions south of Krasnodar.

Heavy fighting was reported under way in all sectors as the Germans increased their pressure upon Stalingrad's defenses and the Caucasus.

(Just how far from Stalingrad the Germans succeeded in crossing the Don was not disclosed, but previous reports said the Nazis were about 40 or 50 miles northwest of the Volgacity on the Kletskaya sector.)

The Soviet midnight communique gave this terse report of the grave action northwest of Stalingrad:

"Southeast of Kletskaya fierce fighting continued when the enemy attempted to cross to the eastern bank of the Don river.

"Soviet troops inflicted heavy losses on enemy groups which had crossed the river."

The communique announced, however, that counterattacking Russians in another sector of the Kletskaya front had driven the Germans from several inhabited localities.

The other serious menace to the industrial city on the Volga was from the southwest, in the battlefields northeast of Kotelnikovski.

There, the midnight communique said, the Germans "passed to the of-

MORE RAIDS ON NAZIS PROMISED

Air Minister Says Allied Bomber Strength Increasing Steadily

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—More 1,000-plane raids on Germany were promised today by Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair in a carefully worded speech emphasizing that soon "the four-figure raid will be a less infrequent occurrence."

"You must not expect four-figure raids to be a frequent occurrence," he told a public gathering at Swansea, Wales. Rather, he stressed, they would be "less infrequent."

Sinclair said that with the help of the United States Air Forces the Allied bomber strength is increasing steadily and already "the zest of the German people for war has begun to fail" under the pressure of aerial offensives.

But, he warned again, the Nazi war power still is unbroken and "when the weather breaks in Russia the Germans may bring their bombers back here."

"Already, in a normal raid like the one on Osnabruck the other night, when the size of the force was such as we could send on any suitable night to Germany, our fliers dropped a heavier bomb load than the Germans dropped in any single night of the blitz on this country." (The size of the attacking force in the most recent raid on Osnabruck was not stated.)

Sinclair said the commando raid on Dieppe developed the biggest air battle of the war with the R. A. F. flying 3,000 sorties, or single plane missions. Of 93 German planes confirmed as shot down in the Dieppe battles, 48 were Focke-Wulf 190s and 29 were DO 217s, the latest and most formidable German fighters and bombers.

In a comprehensive survey of Britain's air policy, Sinclair defended the

Dieppe Battle Fun For Four U. S. Rangers

LONDON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Four American Rangers who believe they may have been the first United States soldiers to fight on French soil in this war when they scrambled ashore at Dieppe with British Commandos agreed today they're ready to tackle almost anything after their experiences in that foray.

The quartet—Corporal William R. Brady of Grand Forks, N. D.; Staff Sergeant Kenneth Stemson of Russell, Minn.; Corporal Franklin M. Koons of Swea City, Ia., and Sergeant Alex J. Szima of Dayton—sprayed the Germans they encountered with new Garand rifle slugs and, as one said, "we were picking 'em off like ducks all day long."

"We found we were having fun," they said.

Their first task was to scale a 75-foot cliff north of Dieppe and knock out two German pillboxes.

"It looked like a suicide mission, but we made it," said Corporal Brady. The first pill box was empty when they arrived.

"We thought we'd go get the other one," Brady related.

They were heading for the second pillbox under fire from German snipers when two British sitfires flew low and put it out of action with machine-gun bullets.

With their British Commando unit, the Americans moved on to a cross-roads and found a ten-man German patrol. In the shooting that followed five Germans were put out of action, they said. The others, Brady declared, "got out of there."

All four of the Americans praised the British for their courage and fighting ability and said the Canadians were "one fine bunch."

"The British were so calm about it that it seemed like a maneuver," one said, telling how they crossed a field under fire. Four of the British were killed and three wounded.

Sergeant Szima, new to war like his three American companions, was a little puzzled when a French housewife became very angry because he

DEAD IN BOMBER CRASH SET AT 9

Relatives Are Notified And Names Of Victims Made Public

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The army officially listed nine dead today in the crash of two medium sized bombers in mid-air as rescue workers continued their search of the wreckage in a thickly wooded section just north of Harding field, a few miles from here.

Wingtips of the two big planes, part of a flight of five bombers engaged in an "operational mission," became engaged and the planes plunged to earth late yesterday. The other three planes landed safely.

The army announced the following men had perished and their next of kin notified:

Second Lieutenant William J. Dover, 23, pilot, Robbinsdale, Minn.

Second Lieutenant Wilbur R. Weber, 22, pilot, Kenmore, N. Y.

Second Lieutenant Bill P. Mayhood, 26, pilot, Sacramento, Calif.

Corporal Frederick C. Edmonds, Jr., 22, engineer, Bradfoyd, Pa.

Private First Class Philip J. Peterson, 22, radio operator, San Diego, Calif.

Private First Class Frederick A. Spiess, 25, engineer, Davenport, Ia.

Private First Class Clyde E. Warden, plane mechanic, Fresno, Calif.

The four officers and five enlisted men met instant death when their planes struck ground, one bomber catching fire immediately with machine-gun bullets and shells exploding from the heat, the other plane becoming embedded 15 to 20 feet in soft earth, the army said in an official description of the disaster.

Rescue crews from Harding field still searched the area which was under military guard. Airbase authorities said they had found no evidence to substantiate civilian reports that some airmen had been seen parachuting from the two planes as they fell.

NEW DEMAND FOR YOUNG MEN SEEN

Congress Expects Request For Drafting 18 And 19-Year-Olds

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Major General Louis B. Hershey's warning that the selective service rolls soon would be exhausted of single men led congressional circles to speculate today that the armed forces might renew their request for the drafting of youths 18 and 19 years old.

Congress now is in informal recess and any such request might well be deferred until after the November elections lest the question be made a political issue but one well-informed house member who asked that his name not be used remarked that "in my judgment, the army and navy will insist upon lowering the draft age."

"And, if our generals and admirals tell us this is essential to insure victory," he added, "I believe congress will amend the selective service act. I believe this will be done before Christmas."

The draft ages now are 20 to 44 inclusive. Army men have estimated there are 2,500,000 to 3,250,000 youths in the 18 and 19 classification. All men between 18 and 65 already have been

'Washed Out' Flier, Half Conscious Pilot Heroes

Big Bomber Brought Down Safely After Airman's Arm Badly Torn

By Wes Gallagher

WITH THE UNITED STATES BOMBER COMMAND IN BRITAIN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—A slight young Florida bombardier who "washed out of flying school" and a half conscious pilot with his arm nearly torn off emerged as the heroes today of the great North Sea sky battle which saw American flying fortresses shoot down or damage 12 German fighters although outnumbered five to one.

Stubble-bearded airmen who had not been to bed for 36 hours told how the gravely wounded pilot and the bombardier who had never flown a fortress before brought the big ship back safely after Nazi bullets had riddled two of the four motors and killed the co-pilot.

A re-check of the crews' reports of the attack showed four of nine fortresses on the sortie had done all the fighting in the battle against about 25 Focke-Wulf 190s and Messerschmitt 109s. They shot down three confirmed and heavily damaged at least nine more instead of the six originally reported damaged or destroyed.

Five other fortresses in the leading wing flight had not been attacked.

The thin, tanned bombardier, Second Lieutenant Swart Sconiers, 26, of De Funiak Springs, Fla., with eyes bloodshot from loss of sleep and nervous tension, reported on the terrific fight of the plane, "Johnny Reb," in this manner:

"We were in the tail end formation when we were jumped by about 25 Focke-Wulf 190s and Messerschmitt 109s at over 20,000 feet. They set up a decoy out to our right. I was lying in the nose of the ship shooting at

APPROPRIATION PROPOSAL MADE

Reopening Of State's General Law Placed Directly Before Jones

BATON ROUGE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—A proposal to reopen the state's general appropriations law was placed directly before Governor Sam Jones today by three opposition senate members as a suggested solution to the impasse facing the 12-day special session legislature.

Senators Brooks Oliver of Bastrop, Marshal Woodard of Arcadia and A. A. Fredericks of Natchitoches, made the proposal to Governor Jones at the capitol executive offices but there was no immediate reply from the chief executive who indicated he would give his answer before Monday.

The senatorial trio, part of the opposition forces allied with Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans in voting against a proposed 2 per cent sales tax at a recent regular session of the legislature, said that Governor Jones had appeared to consider the proposal.

Maestri's opposition forces have sought to have Governor Jones reopen the question of authorized expenditures of state agencies in order to spread presently available funds out so that sufficient money would be available for the New Orleans Charity hospital, presently scheduled to close September 1 for lack of funds.

The regular legislative session ended a month ago without enactment of additional revenues and Governor Jones, in dealing with a top-heavy budget left by the same legislature, vetoed the entire appropriation of $8,200,000 for the biennium for the New Orleans public hospital as well as curtailed state relief funds and money for a number of other state agencies.

Jones called the legislature into session to avert closing of the New Orleans hospital, though admitting en-

ALLRED LEADS IN TEXAS ELECTION

Close Race Expected To Keep Outcome Undecided To Last

DALLAS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The Texas senatorial run-off primary levelled off into a tight race tonight between incumbent W. Lee O'Daniel and challenger James V. Allred, with indications the issue would not be decided until the last vote straggles in.

Returns tabulated by the Texas election bureau at 9:30 p.m. from 124 of 254 counties, 14 complete, gave Allred 52.50 per cent of the total counted with 191,917 votes to O'Daniel's 173,671.

Allred, 43-year-old Roosevelt-appointed former federal judge, took an early lead on tabulation of returns from the cities, including Houston, his home. Weather conditions in eastern sections of the state, following a tropical disturbance, were delaying the report of rural votes.

O'Daniel faced the stiffest battle of his short but heretofore always-successful political career during the run-off campaign with Allred.

Allred, a former governor, said his defeat would constitute a repudiation of President Roosevelt and aid his opposition, including "the big bankers and oil millionaires who hate Roosevelt first, last and always and Hitler only incidentally."

Allred, accused O'Daniel of being an isolationist, and the senator, who rose to political power in Texas in 1938 from the obscurity of flour-selling, repeatedly denied the charge. He affirmed that he had "gone down the line" with the administration on war

2, BADLY HURT, TAKEN TO CLINIC

Texas Men In Hospital Here After Injury In Truck Accident

L. W. Cagle and R. S. Duggin, Texas men who were brought to the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic here Friday morning after they were injured in a truck accident near Crossett, Ark., were said by attending physicians to be in a serious condition yesterday.

A third man who was injured in the accident, W. B. Cooper, is also in the clinic with general contusions and lacerations. Cagle suffered a fractured vertebra which resulted in paralysis of the lower body and a lacerated scalp, and Duggin's left leg was so badly mangled that it had to be amputated above the knee.

Members of a 12-man crew employed by the Favrot and Peterkin Pipe Line Company, Corsicana, Texas, to take up a Standard Oil pipe line near Hamburg, Arkansas, these three were the only ones of the group to need hospitalization after the open truck in which they were riding overturned. The other nine escaped with minor bruises and lacerations.

Cagle, Duggin and Cooper were brought to Monroe from Crossett in an ambulance.

The truck was said to have turned completely over in a roadside ditch after the steering rod came off. No blame was attached to the driver, W. C. Watts. Men who were riding on the truck said they were proceeding to work at a moderate speed and that the accident occurred at 6:45 a. m. Friday, about two miles north of Crossett.

In addition to the driver and the three injured men, the members of the Texas crew were Jess Smith, Barney Richards, Alva Keathley, Chester Foster, Roy Illian, Frank Adian, John Spangler, and Walter Jackson.

YOUTH CONFESSES SEVEN BURGLARIES

A series of daytime burglaries which has alarmed the south side of town during the last four weeks was solved Friday with the arrest of a 16-year-old boy, according to Chief of Police Frank V. Reitzell.

The juvenile burglar confessed to entering seven houses during the past four weeks, police said. His latest attempted burglary occurred Friday when he entered the home of R. W. Wood, 3109 Gordon avenue, and fled empty-handed upon discovery. He had previously entered Wood's home and stolen $5 August 8.

According to police, his hauls were usually money but in one case he was said to have stolen a watch also. He admitted to having stolen almost $100 during his four weeks of concentrated burglary.

ASSERTS MANEUVERS GREATLY IMPROVED

HEADQUARTERS THIRD ARMY, SOMEWHERE IN LOUISIANA, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Major-General Dan. I. Sultan told officers assembled for the critique that marked improvement had been shown over previous problems by troops in the Louisiana maneuvers.

He also declared that the sick rate in the strenuous war games so far had been remarkably low. Sultan reported that there had been no epidemic of any kind and only a few deaths due to accidents despite the rigorousness of the combat training and toughness of the terrain as well as climatic conditions.

Sultan attributed the record chiefly to the Third Army medical units and paid high tribute to them for their efficiency.

The general singled out Colonel A. A. White, assistant chief of staff (G-4) of the Eighth Army Corps, for special mention for work in provisioning the hundreds of units participating in the maneuvers.

"I am pleased to be able to state," said Sultan, reviewing the combat problem just concluded, "that many lessons of the previous problems have been taken to heart and it is indicative of the progress that has been made. This steady improvement is most encouraging and I want all elements to keep up their excellent work. We still have much to learn and little time to do it."

Old Cossack Warriors And Families Drive Long Stream Of Livestock Into Mountains

Russians Are Determined Not To Leave Anything For Invaders

By Henry C. Cassidy

MOSCOW, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Their faces black from the rays of the burning sun and the dust of battle, hundreds of old Cossack warriors, with their women and children were driving an endless stream of livestock into the Caucasus mountains today rather than let them fall to the Germans.

"The Cossacks have been in many wars," growled 80-year-old Nikolai Dmitrivish Onuprienko to a Red Star correspondent. "They never have become prisoners."

His daughter tugged at the old man's jacket that bore four ancient crosses of St. George and one of the Red banner.

"Come along, father; we must hurry," she told him. The grumbling old warrior trudged along while the women and boys rode oxen and cows, driving their sheep, hogs and chickens ahead.

The Red Star account was the first story of the mass exodus of the Cossacks from their beloved Kuban villages.

The roads are hot. The sun beats down. The trees still are green and the lush fields of wheat, corn, sunflowers and tobacco still wave gently in fitful breezes as the saddened columns of refugees hurry toward the sanctuary of the mountains.

A bedlam of noise was reported over great areas as the long columns moved down the roads. Women, children and old men constantly were hurrying along bellowing cows, hogs and bleating sheep.

The Cossacks were moving everything movable into the mountains, determined the Germans would get nothing, the army newspaper said. They even hastily raided laden trees in the orchard.

Red army trucks carrying bombs, shells and wounded flashed up and down the roads, threading the lines of refugees. The report said the refugees were clogging some highways. This is easily understandable to anyone who has traveled a Russian road.

Military trucks slow down for nothing. Some of the world's wildest drivers operate them. When a civilian sees a truck coming he gets off the road "sechas"—meaning immediately.

The refugee columns passed through Cossack villages whence hundreds have gone to fight since July. At one village, the people told the Red Star reporter that horsemen galloped off in saddles belonging to their grandfathers and swinging sabers that had passed down to them through the generations.

Petro Putrusenko was one of these. He told how his village had sent 400 men, some of them 50 years old, to the front.

Sadly the columns moved on toward the high Caucasus mountains.

Some women complained that they wanted to stay at the front, pointing out that the Cossacks don't belong in the rear when wars are about. But wiser counsel persuaded them that this is the way to win the new-type war—what you cannot burn you take with you, leaving the invader as little as you can.

Above the noise of the cattle along the dusty roads bearing the footprints of war came a cry like a chorus: "We will be back."

Onward they went, disappearing into long shadows of the snow-capped Caucasus ranges.

SOLDIERS INJURED IN JEEP COLLISION

THIRD ARMY HEADQUARTERS, SOMEWHERE IN LOUISIANA, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Army officials announced today that Technical Sergeant Baldemar Torres, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felipe Torres, 526 Navidad, San Antonio, Tex., was injured August 18 in the collision of two army jeeps.

The army previously had announced that Private Oscar Harvey of Jacksonville, Fla., was killed in the accident which happened when one jeep slowed up to cross a wooden bridge and the other hit it from the rear. The jeep was knocked off the bridge and fell about 30 feet. Private Beauford A. Peterson, son of Louie Peterson, Browns Valley, Minnesota, also was injured.

Torres received fractures of the shoulder and will be evacuated to Fort Sam Houston tomorrow. Peterson received a fractured skull and a dislocated and fractured left shoulder and brain concussion. He will go to Fort Sam Houston early next week. Parents of both injured men have been notified, the army said.

CONDITION OF INJURED JOCKEY REMAINS 'FAIR'

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The condition of Eric Guerin, 17-year-old jockey from New Orleans, injured at Washington park yesterday, remained fair today.

Guerin, the nation's leading jockey with 161 winners, suffered a brain concussion and a head cut when his mount, Jump Bid, stumbled and fell, hurling Guerin to the ground.

EXPLOSION VICTIM DIES IN SHREVEPORT

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Douglas Holloway, Jr., 32, who was brought to a local sanitarium Friday night suffering from burns caused by the explosion of two gasoline tank cars after a train wreck on the Louisiana and Arkansas railroad about one quarter mile south of Cotton Valley Friday night, died today.

Four other persons who received injuries and burns in the explosion were A. C. Fowler, 40 and Joe Ford, negro, 40, both of Cotton Valley; Raymond Fowler, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fowler, Sr., of near Haughton. Jim Hudson, 40, of Cotton Valley was knocked off a box car by the force of the explosion and suffered a sprained neck. None of the other injured were brought to Shreveport.

MAX BROADNAX IN CONGRESS RACE

Morehouse Parish Resident Labeled 'Farmer Candidate'

Labeled the "farmer candidate" in the race for congressman from the Fifth Congressional district is Max Broadnax, Bastrop, Morehouse parish tax assessor and farmer.

Born on a farm near Bastrop, Mr. Broadnax is well known throughout the district, having lived during his 56 years in Monroe, Ruston, and Bastrop. He received his elementary and high school education in Bastrop and attended business college in Quincy, Ill.

He married Madelyn Barnes of Parkdale, Ark., and has two sons, Max, Jr., 16, and Louis, 15. In 1936, Mr. Brodnax was elected Morehouse parish tax assessor and was reelected over two opponents in 1940 by a large majority.

For many years, the Bastrop man has taken an active interest in politics and is known to stand for high principles of good government.

In his own words, "I stand firmly behind the president in his effort to bring this war to a successful ending, and in the peace that follows I hope to play a part befitting a courageous American."

Listed on his platform is advocacy for federal old age pension law payable wholly by the United States government, the immediate payment of a bonus to soldiers upon their discharge, and the equalization of freight rates throughout the nation.

"I am constitutionally opposed to a sales tax and would vote for one when and if a great majority of the people of the Fifth Congressional district desired one," the tax assessor says in his platform.

Terming the farmer the "Forgotten man of the nation," Broadnax proposes breaking down certain trade barriers with foreign governments in order to establish freer markets for American farmers.

Thinner and less fancy glass containers are to be used for the duration, but there will be an increase of 30 per cent in the number of containers available, to meet the shortage of tin cans. A new limitation order reduces unnecessary weight, requires simpler designs, and establishes a trend to "stock" containers which can be made on a mass production basis.

SOVIETS SUFFER TWIN REVERSES

fensive and succeeded in driving a wedge into the Soviet positions.

"Fifty German tanks were disabled during the day. Heavy fighting is in progress."

In another action in the Kotelnikovski area, the Russians said, the enemy was repulsed with one battalion of Rumanian infantry being annihilated.

The Russians reported they were on the defensive south of Karsnodar, northern Caucasus city. Two enemy attacks were reported repelled but in one sector "after heavy fighting our troops withdrew to new positions," the communique said.

The defense of Stalingrad and the Volga continued in a critical stage tonight as the Germans massed huge new forces in the Don bend despite Russian counterattacks and hammered endlessly with tanks and dive-bombers in the Kotelnikovski sector southwest of the great industrial city.

Deep in the Caucasus, the Germans continued to pour large numbers of tanks and infantry into the battles on the high plains southeast of Pyatigorsk, threatening the Grozny oil fields less than 100 miles away, and southwest of Krasnodar, where the Nazis were driving toward the foothills to the Black sea and the naval base of Novorossisk. Mountain defenses in the Krasnodar sector were reported stiffening.

The Germans were reported using increasing numbers of cavalrymen south of Krasnodar, presumably to meet the Cossacks who have hindered the infantry and motorized columns in the mountain fighting. Izvestia said the Russian resistance was increasing, although the Nazis still moved forward.

Southeast of Kletskaya where the Germans have put some automatic riflemen across the Don, Russian units were making one counterattack after another with bayonets and even rifle butts and in some places throwing the Nazis on the defensive, the Moscow radio said. Most Germans who crossed in the Don elbow have been killed, the Russians said.

"Today in the furious fighting, Soviet detachments continued to inflict heavy blows on those Germans who still clung to the eastern bank of the Don," the radio said of the fighting within 45 miles or so of Stalingrad. "German losses are extremely high. Fighting continues day and night."

Despite these local successes, there was no denying that the Russian position was critical and deteriorating as the Germans, disregarding immense losses, continued to send seemingly exhaustless reserves and machines into the battle, being fought in midsummer heat.

BRAZIL DECLARES WAR ON GERMANY

and Chile. Her entry into the war may speed a Chilean diplomatic break with the Axis and completely isolate Argentina as the lone western hemisphere nation maintaining ties with the enemy. Brazil's positive move doubtless will have profound effects in the Argentine, where the government and army admire the Axis and the people like the Allies.

The Brazilian declaration came against a background of United States successes in the western Pacific. Submarines prowling waters dominated by the Japanese sank four ships, damaged and probably sank a destroyer and scored a torpedo hit on a sixth vessel. The victims were three large cargo ships—one sunk in the Aleutian area—and a large transport.

The latest navy success came soon after the marines on the Solomon islands had annihilated 762 Japanese who attempted surprise attacks on the Solomon islands they had captured, and had devastated enemy installations on the Gilbert island of Makin. Further news was lacking on the United States offensive against Hitler's Oriental partner.

DECLARATION OF WAR IS MADE BY BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Brazil formally recognized today a state of war between herself and Germany and Italy as a result of U-boat raids in which 17 Brazilian ships have been sunk since the war spread over the world.

The declaration that a state of belligerence existed came just a week after the beginning of a new submarine campaign in which six Brazilian ships have been sunk and three submarines destroyed by Allied counteraction.

More than 600 lives were lost in the sinking of five ships last week-end, among them 169 officers and men from a Brazilian army transport.

Japan, which obviously could not have been involved directly in the sinkings, was not mentioned in the war declaration although Brazil broke diplomatic relations with all three of the Axis partners January 29.

The declaration came after two days of rumors which reached a climax when the Brazilian embassy at Montevideo announced that Brazil had entered the war. It was believed the decision was reached in the early hours this morning after many private consultations.

The announcement was not made here, however, until 5:25 p. m., after a cabinet meeting with President Getulio Vargas at the presidential palace.

The move was not unexpected, for since early April the army had been calling up many reserves for active duty. Recently almost all army men who had been assigned to other government departments had been recalled.

By today's declaration Brazil becomes the first South American country to admit open warfare against the Axis. Just what role Brazil's 46,000,000 citizens will play in the war was not yet known, although it was believed the Brazilian navy and air force would immediately go into action against Axis submarines operating off the South American coast.

(In Washington Brigadier-General Amaro Soares Bittencourt of Brazil said his country's "first job" as a belligerent was to defend herself and concentrate her military force on the "bulge of Brazil" against any invasion by the Axis.)

U. S. IS NOTIFIED OF BREAK WITH AXIS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Brazil declared a state of war with Germany and Italy in defense of her dignity and sovereignty after Axis torpedoing of five coastal passenger ships claiming more than 600 lives, the Brazilian embassy said tonight.

In a three-page statement, the embassy made public the text of the note by which Ambassador Carlos Martins notified the United States government of his country's answer to "an act of direct aggression against Brazil by which the war was extended to South America."

The note recalled that previously Brazil had lost 13 ships by submarines against which it had protested as "violation through such unnecessary and brutal acts of the rules of international law and of the principles of humanity which are held to govern warfare on the high seas."

Then on August 15 the five Brazilian coastal boats were torpedoed within twenty miles of the coast and the heavy toll of lives taken.

The Brazilian note said that these ships were "engaged in essentially peaceful activities, by their own nature devoid of objectives capable of favoring any belligerent country or causing injury to their interests."

"The sinking of these vessels in Brazilian waters was undoubtedly an act of direct aggression against Brazil, by which the war was extended to South America."

The note declared that as a result of these sinkings "despite the traditionally peaceful attitude of Brazil it is not possible to elude the fact that these two countries (Germany and Italy) have committed acts of war against Brazil, thereby creating a state of belligerents which we are forced to recognize in the defense of our dignity, of our sovereignty, of our safety and of that of the Americas. These acts we are forced to repeal to the extent of our powers.

ARGENTINA TO STUDY CHANGE IN SITUATION

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 22.—(AP)—President Ramon S. Castillo told newspapermen tonight that the Argentine government would consider Monday its new policy in view of Brazil's entrance into the war.

It was considered likely that a special cabinet meeting would be called that day.

APPROPRIATION PROPOSAL MADE

actment of any new taxes would depend upon a change of heart on the part of the city's Old Regular political organization which had led the fight against his 2 per cent sales tax.

In the three days since the special session legislature convened, indications have been apparent that the forces of Mayor Maestri and those of Governor Jones are as far apart as ever in seeking a solution to the revenue problem, which a citizens' committee, after an audit, declared requires between $8,000,000 and $11,000,000 additional state tax funds.

Maestri's cohorts have suggested reopening the schedule of expenditures of present tax funds in order to provide for the New Orleans hospital, administration leaders have claimed, at the expense of other state agencies now provided for.

Resolutions asking Governor Jones to permit renewed discussion of the appropriations for other agencies have been introduced in both house and senate, and while the house summarily defeated its resolution 51-34, the senate has postponed a vote. Both resolutions sought to request the governor to amend his call to permit revising of allowable expenditures.

Observers freely predicted that Governor Jones would have declined to permit the legislature to reduce expenditures for other state agencies, as proposed by Mayor Maestri's adherents, in order to provide for the New Orleans Charity hospital—especially since legislators from New Orleans, who declined to vote for a state sales tax though supporting a city sales tax, had worked against imposition of additional state tax levies.

Meanwhile, the house ways and means committee in a session today gave favorable reports to bills proposing a 40-mile state-wide highway speed limit during wartime and assessment of railroad rolling stock by respective parishes. The committee also approved a bill to repeal an act dedicating excess funds for highway bond security.

A 1½ per cent sales tax measure, suggested by Governor Jones as a possible solution to the financial impasse, already has been given the ways and means committee okay and will be before the house for final action when both house and senate reconvene tomorrow night after week-end adjournment.

tramped through her vegetable garden. But he didn't worry about it.

"Any minute I thought I'd see a German helmet followed by a handful of grenades," he said.

Moving into an orchard, they found a German anti-aircraft gun crew at work.

"I saw them getting ready to fire at the Spitfires," Szima said. "I was getting ready when a British officer said we'd do it the quick way. So he calls up some Bren gunners and they chopped down the gun crew.

"They started firing back. My hat fell off. I bent over to pick it up and found a bullet in it. Then I got a bullet over my shoulder. Another hit the concrete. That guy had me picked as his meat."

The Americans said the Germans were "plenty tough," but they agreed that "after that experience on the beach at Dieppe we are no longer afraid of invading the continent."

to 2,000,000. It is not under-estimating the demands of total war.

One obvious way to meet some of the demands is to lower the draft limits to take youths of 18 and 19, as was done late in 1918. The war department has urged this step repeatedly.

Our own past experience and the experience of other industrial nations in the current conflict are the best guides to what lies ahead.

In Britain, two of every three persons between the ages of 14 and 65, we are informed, are working full time in the armed forces, civilian defense or war industry. This, it is estimated, is equivalent to a mobilization of 60,000,000 persons in the United States, or nearly half our total population.

In Russia, possibly 20,000,000 men are soldiers. Nazi Germany, with a population a third less than ours, is notoriously hard put to maintain 9,000,000 men in its armed forces and at the same time keep industrial wheels turning with workers from vassal lands. Japan long since was completely mobilized for war.

Altogether, such warnings as Hershey's seem conservative enough. (Written by Edward E. Bomar in the absence of Mr. Simpson.)

2 HEROES BRING BIG CRAFT DOWN

that when over the intercommunicating system I heard the waist gunner shout, 'Here come three more from above.

"I heard a thud in the pilot's cabin and heard the pilot grunt and ask me to come up."

The fortress never wavered from its course although it lagged behind the formation a little, but when Sconiers entered the cabin he found the pilot covered with blood. His eyes were glazed with pain and his arm half torn off by the cannon shot which had killed the co-pilot.

(Casualty regulations forbid release of the names of the pilot and the co-pilot.)

"I dragged the body of the co-pilot from his seat. It was a terrific job as I had no oxygen mask," Sconiers said.

"I then took his place. The pilot's oxygen mask had been ripped away and he was fighting for breath. He motioned me to take the ship down to 5,000 feet. I never had flown a fortress before, having been washed out at flying school and coming back as a bombardier. But some way we got down.

"All this time the crew did not know what was going on as the telephone system in the plane had been knocked out."

Sergeant J. C. Simmons, of Union, Miss., the tail gunner, interrupted at this point to say:

"I thought we were falling into the sea although I did not know a shell had hit the pilot's cabin."

The pilot by this time was only half conscious, the bombardier continued.

"Blood was streaming all over but he kept directing and helping me," he said.

"We were nearing England and saw a flying field and I started to set her down. Somehow between us I got her down without even a bounce. All this time the pilot did not cry out or say one word except to ask for water."

When the rest of the crew reached the ground they heard for the first time that the co-pilot had been killed and the pilot gravely wounded.

Simmons got one of the three confirmed Nazi planes. He fired a 150-round burst from his .50 caliber machine gun which he supposed would be good for only a 75-round burst.

Great chunks came out of the barrel but the gun held together. Technical men at the field called the showing "a tribute to American workmanship."

"I let fly with everything I had from about 300 yards and the wings started falling off the Focke-Wulf 190," Simmons said. "I caught a glimpse of her going down but I was so busy right then firing at other ships that I didn't see her end."

Other members of the "Johnny Reb" crew were Second Lieutenant Harold Spire, of Los Angeles, the navigator; and Sergeants Roy N. Allen, of Owensboro, Ky., John M. Hughes, of Whitestone, N. Y., William Adams, of Easley, S. C., and William Schimke, of Manistee, Mich.

Second Lieutenant Malcolm K. Anderson, 24, of Hixton, Wis., navigator of another fortress, "Bat Out of Hell," flown by Captain Robert Coulter, 28, of La Grange, Ill., claimed another of the Focke-Wulfs.

"I fired a burst and the German plane seemed to start disintegrating in midair," he said.

The flight of the four fortresses which engaged in all the fighting was led by Captain Rudolf Flack, 25, of 831 Wellsby avenue, Los Angeles.

"This fight proves beyond all question the ability of the fortresses to fly escorted or unescorted anywhere," Flack said. "Some Germans pressed home the attack from close to 300 yards, but we beat them off."

Flack flew the "Yankee Doodle" which Brig. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the United States bomber force in Europe, piloted in the fortress raid on Rouen last Monday.

Col. Frank A. Armstrong, of Nashville, N. C., who took part in the Rouen raid, echoed Flack's sentiments.

"The Germans must have been amazed they could not knock the fortresses down," he added.

plan for systematic pulverization of German industry, asserting, for example, the destruction of the Renault and Matford plants in France had deprived the Axis of rolling stock for five armored divisions at the cost to the R. A. F. of "twenty-five gallant lives."

He said bombers had destroyed "between a quarter and a third of the whole of Cologne—third city in Germany," and destroyed or damaged more than 250 factories there.

On the other hand, Sinclair said, in April more Axis bombs fell on British Malta in the mid-Mediterranean than on all Britain itself during any one month of blitz. Twenty thousand houses, including three-quarters of Valletta, were destroyed.

Concerning the battle of the Atlantic, Sinclair said the R. A. F. was "assuming even a larger share of the responsibility for keeping open our sea routes," and disclosed that three submarines had been destroyed in their slips in a raid on one German shipyard which would be felt for months to come in U-boat production.

MARINES EXACT HEAVY JAP TOLL

tected a well-equipped force of 700 Japanese which had landed from speed boats on an island beach with the intention of hewing their way through American lines. When the action ended late Thursday, 670 of the enemy had died and the remaining 30 were prisoners, the communique said. This victory cost the marines the disproportionate toll of only 28 killed and 72 wounded.

Totaling the figures, they come to 762 Japanese to 34 Americans in the two actions.

"Some shootin', brother," the marines might say, but Admiral Nimitz's comment was more dignified. He messaged Major General Alexander V. Vandegrift, commander of the marines on the Solomons:

"Your shipmates in the Pacific fleet are intensely proud of you and your gallant marines. Heartiest congratulations to you all."

This score, of course, doesn't include the 80 or more Japanese killed in a marine raid last Monday night on Makin island in the Gilbert group.

The marines, covered by naval ships whose guns sank two Japanese ships offshore, wiped out seaplane installations on the island.

Second in command of the marine raiders was Major James Roosevelt, the president's eldest son. Admiral Nimitz said the raid was a success and that American casualties were light.

The attack on Makin, coincident with continued action in the Solomons, made it clear that the United States was putting powerful pressure on the most eastern and southern penetration of the Japanese.

The Solomons are the southernmost of the most easterly prong of Japanese strength south of the equator. Makin, in the Gilbert group, is among the most easterly Japanese strongholds north of the equator.

Regarding the Solomons, the admiral's communique said, mopping-up operations, with daily skirmishes, have been in progress since the initial landings of the marines August 7.

BOMBS DROPPED ON AIRFIELD RUNWAY

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sunday, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Allied heavy bombers dropped eight tons of bombs on the runway and hangar area at the airfield at Rabaul, New Britain, one of Japan's major invasion bases, a communique said today.

Fires were started.

Japanese planes on the ground at near-by Lae airdrome also were bombed, the announcement said.

The attacks were made at night.

There was no Japanese fighter opposition, the communique said, and all Allied planes returned to their bases.

The text of the Allied command communique follows:

"Northeastern Sector—Rabaul: Our heavy bombers made a night attack on the airdrome, hitting the runway and hangar area with more than eight tons of bombs and starting fires. There was no interception. All our planes returned.

"Lae: An Allied unit on reconnaissance raided the airdrome, dropping bombs in dispersal areas among grounded enemy planes. Results were not observed."

registered, those 18 and 19 and above 45 being included for purposes of cataloguing the nation's manpower.

Secretary of War Stimson wrote the house military committee last December that "the traditional age for liability for military service in this country is 18 to 45." His communication was in connection with an army request that the draft ages be broadened from 21-35 to include all men between 19 and 45. Congress, instead, put the bottom age at 20.

A congressman discussing today the prospects of draft revisions mentioned that many military men contend that "victory lies between the recklessness of youth and the caution of a man."

Another observed that "these 18 and 19-year-old youths are crying to get in."

Forecasts that youth of the "daring" age, 18 and 19, might be drafted came shortly after Hershey, the selective service chief, advised men with no other dependents than wives to "begin making arrangements now" to enter the army. He said in Chicago yesterday that the available supply of single men, 20-44, had been virtually exhausted.

AVIATION CADET KILLED

PENSACOLA, Fla., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Aviation Cadet Lloyd Edward Sidener, 25, was killed today when his training plane failed to come out of a dive during gunnery practice, the naval air station announced. He was the son of Charles Sidener of Ada, Okla.

Both O'Daniel and Allred campaigned for increase old-age pensions.

The run-off race for the Democratic nomination, tantamount to election in Texas, was made necessary when O'Daniel failed to attain the necessary majority in the July primary. Opposing him then were Allred and Dan Moody, also a former governor.

Also at stake in today's balloting were the lieutenant governorship and a post on the oil-regulatory railroad commission.

HOME FRIENDS BOOST BROADNAX FOR CONGRESS

We, the folks back home, urge you to consider very seriously the candidacy of our friend and neighbor, Max Broadnax, for Congress.

Max was elected Tax Assessor here in Morehouse Parish for a second term which expires in 1944. During these two terms he has made us one of the very best Assessors this parish has ever had. As evidence of the people's appreciation of his services as Assessor, he was elected for his second term with a very substantial majority over his two popular opponents in the first primary.

We consider him capable, honest, sincere and a true friend of the people.

His interest in the farmer and the laboring man is truly genuine due to actual experience. He has farmed all his life; has operated a country store and has worked side by side with the boys in the pulp wood business here in Morehouse. He has a rather wide experience in the business world, having served as special agent for some of the largest fire and life insurance companies in the past 25 years.

His patriotism and devotion to his country is unquestionable and we feel that through his broad experience as a business man, farmer and laborer he could contribute very materially toward ironing out some of the kinks we all know exist in the Congress at Washington.

If you elect him your next Congressman, we believe he will exert his entire efforts and abilities for the general improvement of conditions in the Fifth district.

'V HOME PLAN' IS TO BE WAGED

Eighth Civilian Defense Region Head Announces Procedure

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 22.—(Special)—R. E. Smith, director of civilian defense for the eighth region, calls attention to the fact that an intensive campaign will be carried on by the civilian defense organizations to mobilize citizens under the "V Home Plan." This plan, as explained by James M. Landis, director of the office of civilian defense, is as follows:

"Local defense officials are authorized to award a 'V Home' certificate to any home which has made such air raid precautions as are deemed necessary locally and which asserts that it has participated in certain practical measures to strengthen the war effort. These measures include conservation, salvage, refusal to spread rumors designed to divide the nation, and regular purchases of war savings stamps and bonds. The 'V Home' certificate is to be signed by the air raid warden or other appropriate local defense official and it is designed as a window sticker for display purposes.

"At the same time the protective measures of business establishments in strategic areas are being checked, Director Landis said. This survey will include hotels, large apartments buildings, stores, shops, factories and office buildings. An official certificate for approved business establishments will attest that 'Air Raid Precautions Have Been Taken Here.' It also may be used as a window sticker.

"'The purpose of this program,' Director Landis said, 'is to make sure that all homes and all business establishments for which civilians are responsible in strategic areas have made the proper precautionary arrangements for an air raid, and that American homes everywhere are fully and actively enrolled in constructive war work.'"

The qualifications for a "V Home Certificate" are outlined as follows:

1. This home follows the instructions of its air raid warden, in order to protect itself against attack by air.
2. This home conserves food, clothing, transportation, and health, in order to hasten an unceasing flow of war materials to our men at the front.
3. This home salvages essential materials, in order that they may be converted to immediate war uses.
4. This home refuses to spread rumors designed to divide our nation.
5. This home buys war savings stamps and bonds regularly. We are doing these things because we know we must to win this war.

UNDERWOOD WILL REOPEN HIS PLANT

The Monroe Tent and Awning Company, South Grand and Wood streets, which was closed because of inability to secure canvas because of governmental priorities, will be reopened at once and will deal hereafter in lines for which supplies will be available at least for two or three years, M. M. Underwood, the company's manager, announced.

Mr. Underwood said that fully two-thirds of the business in times past has required extensive use of canvas and that the lack of supplies caused the closing of business. For several months he has made trips through the south and a survey that he completed showed him that certain lines can be carried on even under war conditions and it is to conduct business in this readjusted manner that he now plans to pursue.

The business he heads has been in operation for 16 years and has become well established. Each year up to the past year, saw a business expansion.

The lines in which the business will now engage are the following: Glass curtains, luggage covers, Venetian blinds, wooden slat shades, draperies, upholstery, window shades, repairing and repainting Venetian blinds and awnings when it is possible to secure the materials.

STEPHENS CALLS FOR VOTE FOR DEMOCRACY

RACELAND, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—"If our boys are willing to die for democracy, the least we can do is vote to preserve it," E. A. Stephens, candidate for the United States senate, said at a meeting here today.

"The most important civilian defense activity of them all is the preservation of the vote. The power of the ballot together with the love for free speech and a free press are the most sacred possessions of a democratic nation and must be guarded against the incendiaries of propaganda as we guard our industrial developments against destruction by the saboteurs' fire," Stephens declared.

"The people who lay down their right to vote are doing no less than the soldier who lays down his arms in the face of the enemy's fire," the candidate said, "and we who live close to the Gulf realize only too well the danger which faces us if, through our lack of leadership, we should be defeated in this war."

On Sunday, Stephens will speak at Arnaudville at 3 p. m.; Breaux Bridge at 4 p. m.; St. Martinville, 5 p. m.; New Iberia, 8 p. m. Monday's itinerary includes Sunset, 10 a. m.; Churchpoint, 11 a. m.; Gueydan, 2 p. m., Abbeville, 3:30 p. m. He will broadcast over a statewide radio hook-up at 8 p. m.

WATSONS RETURN FROM LONG TRIP

Rev. R. T. Watson, pastor of the First Christian church, his wife and daughter, returned late Friday night from a 3,000-mile auto trip which included attendance at the annual convention of the Disciples of Christ church in Grand Rapids, Mich.

The convention was unusually well attended when the war situation is considered, Rev. Watson said. There were 3,000 delegates present and 10 countries were represented by mission workers present. One woman missionary told of her experience when confined in a concentration camp in Germany.

The communion service, one of the most impressive events on the convention program, was largely attended and 200 deacons were required to officiate.

In the election held, C. E. Lemmon, Columbia, Mo., was named president of the next convention which will be held in Cleveland, O., in 1944, there being no convention scheduled for next year.

The Watsons visited in Ohio and Kentucky on the trip homeward, stopping to renew acquaintances in Bryan, O., near Toledo, where Rev. Watson preached up to the time he came to Monroe. They then visited relatives in Kentucky.

Altogether they had a most enjoyable and restful trip, but Rev. Watson said he is glad to be back home. He will occupy his pulpit for the first time in many weeks at both services on Sunday.

CHESS TOURNEY SET FOR TODAY

15 To 20 Players Will Compete For Northeast Louisiana Title

Between 15 and 20 chess enthusiasts will meet this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home of E. K. Flournoy, 100 Hudson lane, in a tournament to decide the champion chess player of northeast Louisiana.

Among those who have registered for participation in the tournament are representatives of the air navigation school recently installed at Selman airport, several persons from northern states who have been engaged in war construction work at the field, members of Northeast Junior college staff and student body, a number of young city players who have recently demonstrated their strength and several of the so-called "old-timers" among the city players. The two youngest players entered in the tournament are only 13 years of age and at least one of them promises to give his opponents plenty of trouble, as he has shown extremely rapid development in about a year of play.

The tournament is open to anyone now living in northeast Louisiana. There is no entrance fee or charge of any kind, as the tournament is being held entirely in a spirit of competitive fun and for the purpose of acquainting chess players with each other.

Those entering the tournament this afternoon are requested to bring their own sets of chessmen, if possible, but it will not be necessary for them to bring boards or tables, as plenty of these will be on hand.

TRUCK CATCHES FIRE FOLLOWING ACCIDENT

A three-way traffic accident involving a truck and two sedans occurred at the intersection of Louisville avenue and Sixth street yesterday afternoon, according to police reports, but no one was reported hurt. Monroe firemen were summoned to the scene, however, when the truck caught fire.

Traffic Sergeant J. M. Busby reported the accident involved Fred E. Price, 207 North Fifth street, driver of a Twin City Gravel company truck, and B. W. Reagan, 605 Park avenue, and John Middleton, 601 K street, drivers of the sedans.

Firemen said the fire that started in Price's truck was slight and was out in three minutes.

SEES MANY WOMEN IN WAR WORK SOON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Katherine F. Lenroot, chief of the labor department children's bureau, estimated today that 4,500,000 women would be working in war industries by the end of this year.

Her office is working out a plan with other federal agencies to assure care for children of working mothers.

VALLERY RITES HELD SATURDAY

The funeral of Bruce Vallery, 24, who died in a Mobile, Ala., hospital soon after he was shot near that city Wednesday night, was held at the First Methodist church in West Monroe, Saturday at 4 p.m. The pastor, Dr. C. Karlos Smith, officiated, assisted by Rev. E. L. Tanner, pastor of the Assembly of God church in West Monroe. Interment, directed by the Dixie Funeral Home, was in Hasley cemetery.

The fatal shooting of Vallery, who was employed at a defense plant in Mobile, occurred during a dispute that arose near an inn. Immediately after the shooting the injured man was rushed to a hospital where he died soon after. Mobile police arrested Ernest E. Ratcliff, 38, who is said to have confessed the shooting.

Three other men are being held in connection with the case.

Vallery, a former employe of the Bancroft Bag factory in West Monroe, had worked in Mobile for some months. He attended Crosley school and Ouachita Parish High school.

He leaves his parents; four brothers, Albert Vallery, Birmingham, Ala.; Marshall Vallery, Memphis; Oliver Vallery, New Orleans, and George Vallery, Alexandria; and two sisters, Mrs. Glenn Hanley, of West Monroe, and Miss Loyce Vallery, Louisville, Ky.

PLAN BRIEF LOCK CLOSING IN CITY

In connection with the work of repairing the lock gates at Lock and Dam No. 2, on the Ouachita river, it will be necessary to close the lock to navigation from 8 a.m. September 2, 1942, to 8 p.m. September 5 and from 8 a.m. September 8 to 8 p.m. September 11, it is announced at the office of the United States engineering department in Vicksburg, iss.

All interested parties are requested to communicate with this office expressing any objections to the interruption of commerce on the dates indicated, or suggesting any dates more suitable to navigation interests. It is requested that such communications be forwarded so as to reach the engineer's office not later than August 29.

LIEUT. MARSALA IS HOME FROM CAMP

Lieutenant A. J. Marsala, of Camp Barkley, Tex., is in Monroe visiting his wife and baby on a 10-day leave of absence. He will return to camp Tuesday, and if it is possible to find accommodations he will take his wife and baby back with him.

He went with the national guard to Camp Hulen, Tex., January 6, 1941, and later was assigned to San Diego, Calif. Later still he was assigned to the medical administrative corps at Camp Barkley, Tex., where he recently was commissioned as second lieutenant.

Three months ago he had the pleasurable experience of seeing his three-month-old baby for the first time.

ONE KILLED, FOUR HURT IN ACCIDENT

AMITE, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—J. C. Holstead, chief deputy sheriff, said Fred M. Baird of Brookhaven, Miss., was killed Friday night in the collision of his automobile with a truck on Highway 51 between Osyka, Miss., and Kentwood, La.

Baird's wife and son were injured seriously and his two daughters slightly. Holstead said one of the vehicles was attempting to pass a parked truck when the crash occurred.

To Discourage Inflation

Congress is trying to draft a new tax schedule which will achieve two principal purposes. One goal is to raise every possible dollar of revenue to finance the war. The other is to place an effective brake upon inflation.

These two objectives would not necessarily involve the same approach to taxation. In this case it happens they do.

Both call for a radical departure from the old "soak the rich, forget the wage-earners" philosophy.

The rich, and even the moderately well-to-do, have been rolled over the tax barrel until it is evident that they cannot produce much of the new income that is needed.

Even the most rabid of spread-the-wealth advocates now concede that the treasury must get down to business and collect nickels and dimes from the lower income brackets, even for revenue purposes.

More than four out of five Americans fall into the class whose income, last year, was not more than $3,000. Ninety-four out of a hundred had incomes that did not exceed $5,000. Only one out of fifty received as much as $10,000.

Obviously this war cannot be supported on the taxes from the one-sixteenth of our people who fall into the $5,000-and-up bracket.

Neither can inflation be curbed by drastic taxation of those who receive one-third of the national income, unless something positive is done also about the group which gets two-thirds of the national income.

A spokesman for the New York Teachers' Union (which was captured and long dominated by Communist party members and notorious fellow travelers) claims that low-paid workers will get only $1,400,000,000 out of an 11-billion-dollar income rise this year. He says that persons in the $10,000-and-up class will get seven billions of the increase.

That is not the way we heard it—from the Office of Price Administration's research division.

The $3,000-a-year-and-under bracket last year received 69 per cent of the national income.

On that basis the $3,000-and-under workers will get almost nine billion dollars more this year than last, while the $10,000-and-up class will get less than four billion more—before taxes.

If Washington wants to mop up the excess income that would inevitably make for price inflation, that eight billion dollars going to the lower bracket cannot be ignored.

BOND CURIOSITIES

Foreign bonds, in which America formerly traded freely, have fallen upon evil days. But such trading as is still indulged in reflects the hopes of the buyers as to the outcome of the war and develops some curious pricings.

A few days ago $99 was bid for some Finnish bonds, even though the United States appears to be not far from war with that republic. On the same day some Canadian bonds were selling for $95.

Mexican issues, in default for a quarter of a century or longer, are today quoted 1,200 per cent higher than in the 1930s, indicating the better hopes American investors have of an improved economic arrangement with Mexico. All of the Latin American bonds are strengthening, even those that have been in partial default for 10 years or more.

Jap bonds were selling at $90 and higher until Pearl Harbor and are now barred from trading but probably would bring only a cent or two on the dollar in a free market, so poorly do Americans regard Japan's prospects. German bonds are still traded in London, bringing about six cents on the dollar. Bonds of Poland were bid in at 14 cents on the dollar in New York recently.

The United States has $5,650,000,000 of foreign bonds, more than half of this amount being in complete or partial default. Canadian, Cuban and Australian issues make up the bulk of the bonds on which full service is being met.

WE KNOW WHY

A correspondent returned from Italy says that Britain has launched a whispering campaign to undermine Mahatma Gandhi with the American people. "Just why the British are trying to undermine Gandhi's prestige in this country I do not know," says the traveler.

We know. The British want to undermine Gandhi because the Mahatma's influence threatens to permit Japan to capture India, join hands with the Nazis, and turn this world over to the most brutal, uncivilized type of totalitarianism for generations to come.

If Gandhi has any influence or prestige left in this country, let's undermine it, fast.

HARSH DISCIPLINE

Edgar Brook, 68, who on principle never in his life had bought anything on installments, was ordered off his job by a Detroit C. I. O. shop steward for refusing to buy war bonds on a salary deduction plan. Already he had bought, for cash, $1,050 of American and Canadian war bonds.

Union officials said that apparently there was a misunderstanding. Perhaps it started when a private organization was given the power to say whether a loyal American can or can not work for a living.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 22.—A hot Washington tip is that Hollywood's "civilian officers" will be asked to "get in or out"—no more executives and stars drawing studio salaries while holding army or navy commissions. Jack Benny goes into a hospital for an operation after "The Meanest Man In the World" (20th C-F).

Comedian Joe E. Brown will be a grandpop soon; his son, Joe L., is the father-to-be. . . . Franchot Tone just bought Robert Montgomery's house; paid $40,000 cash. . . . The reconciliation of the Forrest Tuckers has turned sour. . . . Norma Shearer has bleached her hair a brassy blonde; this reporter no like. . . . War bonded people are peace minded people.

Craig Stevens was reclassified from 4-F to 1-A and inducted, all in one day; he goes into uniform the 27th, and he and Alexis Smith are trying to decide whether to wed before then. . . . Doris Dudley is going to have a nose bob. . . . Rosemary Lane is screen-testing at Warners; it's her first prospective job since her Broadway hit.

Ginny Simms' new ring, bearing the initials R and H. flanking a pearl, is no romantic pledge; it's Ginny's way of saying "Remember Pearl Harbor" . . . A California business man is the reason for the Greer Garson-Richard Ney farewells. . . . Zorina didn't get to New York, but waited here to reconcile with George Balanchine, who came West.

Most intriguing situation in town is the Dorothy Lamour-Randolph Scott-Claire Trevor triangle, with Randy in the middle as I wrote it. . . . Susan Hayward was hurried back to Cedars of Lebanon with a relapse. . . . James Ellison is very sick with the flu; he was rushed home from the studio in an ambulance. . . . The doctor says the Ken Murrays' baby will arrive Tuesday (26th) and will be a girl.

Laugh of the week: Victor Jory's rib-tickler about the man who was about to be hung. Asked if he had any last words, he replied with a terse "Nope." The trap was sprung, but the rope broke and the victim escaped with no more than a severe jolt. Brought back to the gallows, he again declined to voice any last words. So once more the trap was sprung, and the rope broke. Returned to the platform for a third takeoff, the prisoner was asked for the third time, "Are you sure you have nothing to say?" "This time I do," snapped the culprit, "What do you think I am—man or yo-yo?"

Preview nights: Pic of the week: Paramount's "Wake Island" (Brian Donlevy - MacDonald Carey - Robert Preston). Faithful to fact, and a factor to American faith. . . . Preferred: MGM's "Seven Sweethearts" (Kathryn Grayson-Van Heflin). A sentimental intermission between too many war films. . . . Good: 20th Century-Fox's "Orchestra Wives" (George Montgomery - Ann Rutherford - Cesar Romero). Hot music, sexy intrigue and potent fun. . . . Warners' "Desperate Journey" (Errol Flynn-Ronald Reagan). Unbelievable but good enough to make you want to believe it. . . . 20th Century-Fox's "Iceland" (Sonja Henie-John Payne). The ice queen cuts new figures that'll look good on the studio financial report. . . . Fair: Monogram's "Phantom Killer" (Dick Purcell-Joan Woodbury). A gory hallelujah for the whodunit addicts. . . . Not so hot: Monogram's "Hillbilly Blitzkrieg." Will give theaters blackout troubles.

Confidential communiques to: Linda Darnell: Since you say your studio gave out that "by-line" magazine story about why you left home, you should demand the right to okay future articles on such distasteful subjects. . . . Claudette Colbert: You'll get a kick out of the reason that Western Union boy insisted on delivering a routine wire to you in person. By so doing, he got your signature on a receipt—and sold it to an autograph collector for four-bits. . . . Priscilla Lane: Sometimes I wonder if your studio's lack of interest in your obvious fine talents isn't due to your own lack of interest in your career.

Odd-formation: John Payne, a fanatical physical culturist, eats four meals daily, each carefully pre-measured for calories and vitamines. . . . Ida Lupino lost so many car-keys that she had combination locks installed on her auto's doors. . . . Bulldogs are rarely used in movies; they can't stand the hot lights. . . . Although Charles Chaplin makes only one picture every three or four years, he keeps favorite aides and supporting actors on constant full pay. . . . Universal Studio has insured Abbott and Costello for a million dollars. . . . Charlie (Bergen's partner) McCarthy's personal laundry bill is over $1,000 a year. . . . General Pershing once borrowed Bob Burns' bazooka and played it in a Paris restaurant.

Penny Singleton's daughter came out of the kitchen the other day with a large, red apple. "Watch out for the worms, darling," warned Penny. To which little Miss Singleton replied: "When I eat this apple, let the worms watch out for themselves!"

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

The home that has been run on the Boss plan is about to be changed for the better. Father and mother are too busy to oversee every detail of the children's day and the opportunities for self-direction and self-help and growth through self-reliance are more plentiful than ever before in the children's lives.

That is no hardship to anybody, but a great blessing to the children. In their early teens children try to break loose from parental authority and tend to go off on their own. This has limitations because of their inexperience, but wise parents encourage the idea and help their children to go alone as often and as far as possible with safety.

Safety is not assured any child no matter how watched and tended. The child who is so safeguarded that he cannot make a mistake will not be able to stand alone in the time of need. Allow him some freedom of choice and action, allow him the ordinary risks of childhood, the weight of his own behavior now and then, and he will learn fast.

The boy from the wrong side of the tracks may need the rituals of the bath and the drawing-room, but the boy on the right side is in dire need of the first-hand give-and-take of daily life. Give each of them a balanced day, a varied experience, and both will go farther and fare better.

Don't try to sterilize life for any child. It cannot be done, and he is sure to find that out and discredit your efforts thereafter. Don't make the mistake of being wise for any child who has reached the stage of reflection. He must now start to grow his own power and if you insist upon his running on yours because you know best, he never will learn to develop his own ability, his own judgment, his own job. He will have to depend upon yours and some day you may not be on hand.

Let the children grow up. This is a good time for them to begin and for you to stand back and give them room and free play.

The household will not run as smoothly as it did when you were Boss. Things will get out of place; work will not be as perfectly performed; engagements will not be met with clockwise regularity and the laundry will be late and the dog's food forgotten. What of it? It is better that the children learn how to carry on than that the household machinery move with precision.

Adjust and correct and praise mightily, and don't put yourself and your pattern of life upon that of a child. His own is likely to be better for him than any you can bestow.

The measure of a parent's worth is the happiness and success of his children. There is no one way to that end; there is no easy way. Each child is born with his talents hidden within him, and the only thing we can do is try to help him unfold himself, enrich himself by valuable experiences, rear himself as he was intended to grow, into the image of God.

No Boss can ever hope to do that, but a friend may well hope for it and believe in its success.

Sunday School Lesson

Sunday School Lesson For August 30
Text: Genesis 32:2-12, 27-29
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
(Editor Of Advance)

Jacob, in our lesson, was at the place where his sins, and particularly the crucial sin of his life, had caught up with him. As a matter of fact, they had been catching up with him for a long time. The man who had been a trickster and deceiver had been tricked and deceived, and for a long time the sharper, shrewder, and more unprincipled Laban, his father-in-law, had been inflicting upon him bitter experiences.

These things Jacob had borne chiefly for his love of Rachel, and here in the romantic story of his devotion, as in some other respects, we have evidence of those finer qualities that have given Jacob a worthy place among the patriarchs in spite of his serious shortcomings and the deception of his brother, Esau.

It was this particular sin that years after was now confronting him. The trickeries and oppressions of Laban had reached the stage where Jacob felt that he could bear them no longer, and with the consent of Laban's daughters he had decided to strike out for himself, returning to his homeland. With his company and his possessions he had left secretly, but Laban had pursued and overtaken him, angry over Jacob's departure and particularly outraged because he claimed that his household gods had been stolen. As a matter of fact, they had been, though Jacob was not aware of the fact, for Rachel, who along with her attractiveness seems to have had something of her father's trickery, had taken the idols, and so concealed them beneath her as she sat on the camel that Laban had sought them in vain.

Appeased as to the loss of his gods, Laban had made a treaty of peace with Jacob, but Jacob was now facing what he conceived to be the greatest danger of all. As he neared his homeland, word came that his brother, Esau, was approaching with a great company of men.

The sin that he had long ago committed came home to Jacob with startling effect. But it stands to his credit that he was far more concerned about others than he was about himself. In fact, we see the former trickster now as a man of admirable courage and good strategy, carefully considering how he may dispose his forces in case of a hostile reception by Esau, affording the greatest possible protection to the women and children, and arranging so that if one part of his company was overwhelmed the rest might make good their escape. We have the spectacle of a guilty conscience, and a recollection of grievous wrong done a brother, in conflict with the conquering force of a purpose to do what is in his power to retrieve a bad situation. It is a striking evidence of the way that the consequences of sin remain long after a sinner has repented or even after he has been forgiven his sin.

As it turned out, Jacob had nothing to fear. Esau also had improved with years. From a careless, easy-going man who had lightly sold away his birthright, he had become a man of substance, and in him also his finer qualities had prevailed. His easy-going nature was now dominated by a great magnanimity which led him to receive his brother with joy and without the slightest reproach concerning the ancient wrong that had been done to him. It was a glorious ending to a story that has many incisive lessons.

IN WASHINGTON

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of several articles telling how Baltimore is trying to solve critical manpower problems in guinea-pig experiments which may furnish a guide for the rest of the nations' war production centers.)

By Peter Edson
(Monroe Morning World Washington Correspondent)

Keep your eyes on Baltimore for the next few months, if you're interested in knowing whether there is to be a national compulsory war labor law to draft workers and force their transfer to essential industries. For Baltimore is the public guinea pig No. 1 on this whole business of solving all the problems of war labor supply and demand by voluntary cooperation of labor, management and the general public.

Baltimore gets this dubious honor by reason of being the first city in which the war manpower commission has set up a regional office, with a labor-management advisory committee which will try to work out all these complicated problems of labor pirating, labor hoarding, increased employment of women, control of labor migration, increased training of unskilled and semi-skilled labor, housing, transportation and all such headaches. If Baltimore can solve these problems by voluntary cooperation within the community, the voluntary cooperation method might stick for the duration. If it's no go in Baltimore, then look out for increased agitation for a law that will draft labor the same way it has drafted men for the army—a law that will give the government power to say in effect, "You, buddy, have the rare talent for pouring sand in a boot, while you, sister, are God's gift to the buttonhole industry. You will therefore immediately repair to St. Louis, Mo., to pour sand and cut out the goods that a buttonhole goes around, for the duration. And you will like it."

There may have to be a law like that, anyway, no matter how the Baltimore experiment works out. After election, when Congress gets back on the job, the lawmakers may cut loose on the theory that nobody else is better than a soldier and therefore everybody that doesn't fight will have to do war work.

Stage In Transition

It is doubtful if a law that drastic could be forced through Congress, but in the same breath it must be admitted that winning a long war with only voluntary regulation of labor supply is like going to bat with two strikes already called. The war manpower commission's stepping into the Baltimore and other critical war production areas calls for big league pinch hitting. But whether it fans out or knocks a home run, this effort to do the manpower regulation job on a voluntary basis is a necessary play in the transition from a free to a rigidly controlled war labor market. It must be proved that the democratic voluntary system won't work before something else is tried.

The effort to coordinate Baltimore's manpower problems under government supervision is less than a month old, so perhaps it is unfair to make any guesses as to whether it is going to be successful. But the problems in Baltimore are fundamentally the same problems that may have to be faced in New Orleans, Los Angeles, Cincinnati or wherever.

To start the ball rolling, War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt's organization picked one of its bright young men and told him he was to be regional war power commissioner for the Baltimore area. The man picked was A. A. Liveright of Chicago, who had been on the McNutt Washington staff and knew what the manpower problems were, though he didn't know Baltimore.

The responsibility falling on tall, dark Mr. Liveright was considerable. His first job—his first two jobs, really—were to get about a dozen federal, state and local government agencies together and get them all shooting at the same target, which was mobilization of manpower for increased war production. Included were the United States employment service, selective service administration, civil service, the labor division of the war production board and all the outfits running labor training schools, such as WPA, NYA, training within industry, vocational education, apprentice training and the army services of supply. Principal agreement among all these was to let the United States employment service be the one agency which would handle hiring.

A Committee Is Born

Right along with this came the problem of setting up a labor-management advisory committee to run the show for the Baltimore area. Getting a good strong committee was important. It was also tough. WMC's original job freezing order had been a [illegible]. Every employer had been grabbing labor for himself, looking out for his own interests. Management wasn't any too anxious to sit on a committee with the unions. But finally a committee of nine was agreed on, four from A. F. L., C. I. O., Machinists and Maritime labor unions, a general manager of Bethlehem Steel, a vice-president of a Koppers company division, a vice-president of Martin Aircraft and the president of Cross and Blackwell, which was picked because it was not an essential war production industry. Young Mr. Liveright was chairman.

DAMAGE TO RICE IN LOUISIANA SLIGHT

LAKE CHARLES, La., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Little damage was done to the rice crop of Louisiana by the wind and rain Friday but growers in the Beaumont, Nome, and Devers, Tex., area will suffer heavy loss, it was stated today by Homer Brinkley, manager of the American Rice Growers' association.

"It is impossible to determine the extent of the loss this quickly," Brinkley said, "but it certainly will be heavy. The storm struck in the heaviest rice producing area of Texas and much of the rice reaching maturity was blown down."

New York Day By Day

By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg. U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—Diary: A quiet evening with two young men who are reporting for military service tomorrow, one of them for parachute work. . . . Although the two boys have been friends a long time, one had not told the other that he was enlisting next day, his 21st birthday, so we talked of everything except war and service. . . . I had observed that those who do the dangerous work often prefer to let others do the talking about it. . . . I observe with much satisfaction that my friend, Joe Israels, is blossoming as a fairly regular writer for the Saturday Evening Post, while he is reducing his weight with the hope of getting into the navy . . . and Friend Bill Lundell reports that he has taken off 15 pounds with a diet consisting largely of tomatoes and eggs. But he admits that he is as weak as a cat from the fast, and couldn't do his own housework if he had any to do.

The fake story about the fifth column arrows pointing to bombing objects for the enemy was regrettable to every newspaperman, for newspapermen are conditioned against hoaxes.

To me it was especially regrettable, since I know Major Lynn Farnol, who takes responsibility for the story, and like him. I am certain that he was innocent in every way. His misfortune is that he knows nothing about farming and contour plowing.

You can fly over almost any agricultural area in the United States and observe thousands of arrows and other fantastic designs, plowed and planted into the landscape. It's today's method of saving soil from water erosion, and in some cases, wind erosion.

You can't point an arrow, or even a finger, in this part of the world, without pointing at an airport or a factory.

I have no doubt that these arrows looked sinister to Major Farnol. I am certain that he thought he was doing his patriotic duty when he released the story. He is a patriot, who, after reaching middle life and achieving white hair, gave up his prosperous business to serve his country.

There will be a lot of clamoring for his blood now, but I think that the worst that can be said of him is that he made a mistake. And don't we all?

I can remember when George Creel was crucified for sending out fake reports of a battle at sea that never happened, in the beginning of the last war.

Lying was called creeling for years, on account of that incident.

Creel lived it down. His intentions were good. But, in his anxiety to serve his country, he made a mistake. It's hard to put yourself in the paces of these men who control information on war. They know so much that they can't tell. They are bursting with information that they can't divulge. The nervous strain gets them, sometimes, and they send out stories unwisely conceived.

And that reminds me that you can pick your own story about the Nazi saboteurs in any Manhattan cafe or saloon, and feel sure that you've got the inside low-down facts, sensational and astounding.

I'm not going to repeat any of the stories, just for fear one of them might have some grain of truth in it.

The landing of the Germans from submarines was sensational enough. The secrecy connected with the trial and executions led to "inside" stories galore, and every fellow who used to know just what stock was going to make a ten-point rise before Christmas now knows all about the saboteurs. And the tales they tell are as fantastic as any ever related about John Wilkes Booth and the Lincoln assassination plot.

As for parachuting Nazis who land in our midst, we have those stories daily now, with trimmings.

Right around here, there are some indications of war nerves.

WILEY JONES IS FINISHING STUDY

Aviation Student Wiley L. Jones of West Monroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Jones of Luna Star route, has reported at the Lubbock army flying school, Lubbock, Tex., for the final lap of the training which is preparing him to be a flying sergeant.

At the large Lubbock twin-engine school, commanded by Colonel Thomas L. Gilbert, Jones will complete the training he began in March at Stamford, Tex., and continued at Brady, Tex. Upon his graduation he will be commissioned as a staff sergeant and assigned to active duty with an air force unit.

He was engaged in farming until called to active duty with the national guard and later transferred to the air forces.

ACCIDENT CAUSED BY BOX OF BREAD

Hudson Dunn, 49-year-old negro, Ninth street, was in the Vaughan-Wright and Bendel clinic yesterday in what doctors said was a serious condition because he bought too much bread Friday night.

Dunn received serious brain injuries at 8:30 p. m. Friday when he was hit by a car driven by L. C. Latham, 516 Hilton street, manager of the Rose Oil company, as he started across Louisville avenue after purchasing a week-end supply of bread.

The negro was carrying a box of bread on his shoulder, Latham said, and evidently could not see the approaching car over it.

ALUMINUM PLANT STRIKE IS ENDED

Construction Work Remains At Standstill At Tank Arsenal

(By Associated Press)

Construction work on a Detroit tank arsenal remained at a standstill yesterday after a walkout of 475 A. F. of L. workers in protest to the employment of C. I. O. sheet metal men, but production moved back toward normal at the Vernon plant of the Aluminum Company of America and threats of work stoppages at two other plants were removed.

Three thousand workers had walked out of the Vernon Aluminum plant in Los Angeles Friday in what leaders of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers of America termed an unauthorized work stoppage but returned at the urging of union leaders.

William B. Taylor, West coast director of the union's aviation division, said the cause of the walkout was the alleged dismissal of 30 skilled craftsmen, but M. M. Anderson, Alcoa personnel director, said no one had been discharged and that the dispute involved one worker who quit and then changed his mind.

A threatened tieup at the Henry J. Kaiser shipyards in Richmond, Calif., was removed when members of the A. F. of L. Boilermakers' local voted to ask government aid in settling a jurisdictional dispute with another A. F. of L. union.

A C. I. O. strike called for Monday at General Motors corporation's Harrison radiator division in Lockport, N. J., was indefinitely postponed upon notification that the case would be certified to the war labor board. The union seeks a 10-cent hourly wage increase above the present 75-cent minimum and the company offered a five-cent rise.

Production of tanks in the main plant of the Chrysler corporation tank arsenal at Detroit proceeded as usual, but E. J. Hunt, operating manager, said the walkout of construction workers "definitely holds up our future production schedule." The dispute was before an agency of the war production board.

The war labor board meanwhile appealed to striking Midwestern truckers to return to work. The WLB said the dispute, which involves 96 companies and about 10,000 workers, was contrary to the national agreement of labor unions not to strike during the war. The strike is in connection with the date when certain wage rates are to be made retroactive.

Delegates to a C. I. O. Aluminum Workers of America conference at Pittsburgh returned to their jobs in seven big Alcoa plants primed to urge the locals to reject the war labor board's decision denying them a general wage increase. President Nick A. Zonerich said he would be empowered to call a strike in the event the rejection is approved by the locals.

He said, however, that first he would appeal directly to the president, asking an audience for himself and a representative of each local.

Apart from the labor disputes, Secretary of Labor Perkins announced that work injuries in 1941, particularly in manufacturing industries, increased more sharply than either employment or total number of man-hours worked. She attributed the increase to inexperienced workers in war industries, crowding of employes and "failure of safety activities to keep full abreast of the war program."

Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, said in a radio interview last (Saturday) night under A. F. of L. sponsorship that shipyard workers have increased their output "considerably more" than 12 1-2 per cent since Pearl Harbor.

Here is a story which would never have been told, had it not been for a broken arm.

The story concerns Staff Sergeant Ray Hildebrand, and the broken arm belongs—or belonged—to a pianist who shall be nameless. This pianist fits into the story only as the artist who gave place to Sergeant Ray Hildebrand, one day in 1938, as pianist in the orchestra of Shep Fields.

Sgt. Hildebrand

For Sergeant Hildebrand, sergeant major of the post personnel section, is a pianist of accomplishment and experience. He had played since 1938 with Shep Fields' orchestra—at Chicago's Black Hawk, at metropolitan New Jersey's Meadowbrook, and at college dances at Cornell university, Syracuse university and Georgia Tech.

Here's the way the sergeant tells the story.

A native of Hartford, Conn., he attended St. James school in Manchester, Conn., and Manchester High school, graduating from the latter institution in 1936. For a year thereafter he worked for the Travelers Insurance company in Hartford, running a printing press which produced the policies and printed forms of the institution.

Then the sergeant reverted to an earlier hobby—which he had manifested as a high school orchestra leader—music. He began playing with dance bands.

Early in 1938 he got his chance. The pianist of Shep Fields' orchestra broke his arm, and Sergeant Hildebrand was called upon to pinch hit. After this trial, it was decided to keep him as the band's regular pianist.

Sergeant Hilderbrand entered the armed services in February, 1941. He spent the next four months at Maxwell Field, Ala., after which he was sent to Turner Field, Albany, Ga. He put in fourteen months at that station, a period terminated by his arrival in Monroe with the motor convoy which reached here about two weeks ago.

At Turner Field he held the distinction of being the bridegroom at the first wedding solemnized on the field. On September 15, 1941, he married the former Miss Robbie Harvard of Montgomery, Ala., at Turner Field.

The post ofifcer of the day is not the only officer who is on the qui vive 24 hours a day. Among others there is the medical officer of the day.

This officer, who performs his duty in the same manner as the regular O. D., that is, by roster, also sleeps by a telephone where he is available at once should need arise for medical attention. His location is known at all times by the post ofifcer of the day, in anticipation of the contingency where the post O. D. might be notified of a sudden illness.

The medical O. D. takes the part of the post surgeon during the hours that this officer is not on duty.

When the Advanced Navigation school arrives here from Turner field, Ga., and flying begins, not only the medical O. D. but also the alternate, will be available at all times on the field. At present the alternate need not be on the field during his tour, though he must be at all times available.

Under the present dispensation, the alternate medical officer of the day succeeds to the duty of medical officer of the day after completion of his tour as alternate.

Officers occasionally have the deuce of a time getting paid.

Frequently delays intervene between the presentation of bills by the butcher, the baker and their cohorts and the arrival of the treasury check.

During this exasperating, and sometimes embarrassing period, the officer rarely stops to think of the reasons for the delay of his salary. But he does take time out to express his irritation and usually he makes a scapegoat of the finance officer.

An analytical appraisal of the reasons for delay, however, will usually reveal that the injured officer, whose responsibility it is to submit his own claim for his salary to the finance officer, has not made out his papers properly, or has failed to include supporting papers in the approved form and number.

Nevertheless, the finance officer, who takes financial responsibility for any disbursement improperly made, is blamed for not making payment on improperly submitted papers.

Apropos of this situation, it is of interest to note that the navigation school's finance officer, Captain Robert H. Shirley, was so solicitous of his brother officers' exchequers that he was one of the last officers to be paid for the month of July.

WAR PRODUCTION UNSATISFACTORY

July Output Falls Seven Per Cent Below Goals Previously Set

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board said today that war production had reached an unavoidable stage of unbalance and that readjustments, long foreseen as necessary, were being applied to correct the situation.

July production was uneven, he said, with too many of some things and too few of others. The consequence, he reported, was that while overall production rose 16 per cent for the month, it still was seven per cent below the goals previously set.

Explaining the situation with a prepared statement and at a press conference, he said that when he took charge of the industrial war effort he set about increasing production in every possible direction, regardless of whether this resulted in a well-coordinated output.

He and his associates knew then, he said, that the present phase was unavoidable, but believed that in the long run more war equipment would be produced by this method than by the alternative method of a pause to place American industry on a carefully worked out, long-range plan. He still believes, he added, that that decision was right.

"The big job ahead of us right now," he said, "is to bring our program into balance and make sure that we use our materials and facilities as wisely as possible. This is one of the principal tasks on which the WPB is engaged. We must make sure that we produce promptly those most important fighting weapons the services must have; but in addition, we must speed up the slow items and slow down the fast ones so that the unbalance which now marks part of the program is brought into readjustment.

"This means that we must redouble our efforts, particularly on the low spots, if we are to make our goals by the year's end, and the recent realignment of WPB plus the further development of scheduling and use of the production requirements plan—now our basic device for controlling industrial operations—are all designed to help us to do this job."

American Aviation, Inc., Finds Girls Are Harder To Discipline

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Aug. 22.—(AP)—H. Oliver West of Boeing Aircraft may be happy to hear that he is not alone in his troubles with women employees.

Romance has reared its pretty head at North American Aviation, Inc., as well, we learned today from J. L. Atwood, executive vice-president, when he talked with correspondents on the National Association of Manufacturers tour.

Like West, Atwood is generally pleased with his women welders, riveters, machine operators, etc.—1,200 of them work at North Americna—but there is, none the less, a certain disciplinary program.

"Sometimes, it's just a matter of a young and inexperienced foreman and rather aggressive girls," said Atwood. "You find that everywhere. An occasional girl just uses the talents she was born with to make headway.

"We don't mind, as long as it doesn't interfere with production."

Atwood intends to hire more and more girls, he said, because they do excellent work in many departments, particularly in those requiring manual dexterity.

"Girls are a little more independent and harder to discipline than men," he went on. "They are used to getting by with things that men don't get by with.

"They often violate safety rules. They will not keep their hair under control. We cannot seem to convince them that flying hair can get caught in revolving machinery, and cause a terrible accident. Such accidents have happened, although not in our plant."

Atwood said that perhaps he and other industry executives were to blame, in a way, for the girls' disregard of rules.

"At first we made the rules absolute, and applyicable in all parts of the plant," he explained, "girls working at other jobs than those involving dangerous machinery naturally rebelled.

"Now we've amended our rules. Girls can wear their hair as they please, except where there is danger."

Atwood considers his women employees as intelligent as the men, he said, although "they generally do not progress to better jobs as rapidly."

This is easily understandable, he said, in view of the fact that the work is new to them, and that most of them plan on marriage rather than lifelong careers.

North American, maker of B-25 bombers, the plane that was used by Brigadier General Doolittle in the Tokyo raid, is as considerate as possible of its employees. The firm provides inexpensive meals, and a little go-cart with coffee and sandwiches makes the rounds of the shops all day long, in case anyone needs refreshment.

Cigarets are forbidden, of course, as a fire hazard, but chewing gum, peanuts, candy, are provided in vending machines scattered through the plant.

At the lunch hour, music is broadcast through the amplifier, and for after-hours entertainment the company provides sports and dances.

Atwood would like to hire women engineers, if he could find capable ones, but is "not too optimistic" on this point. Some 300 women now work in the engineering department there, but their tasks are mostly routine.

M'KENZIE RAPS MILLS' RECORD

Candidate For Lower House Makes Swing West Of River In Campaign

JONESBORO, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—C. E. McKenzie, candidate for congress from the fifth congressional district, made a swing through a section west of the Ouachita river Saturday and challenged several statements by Congressman Newt V. Mills in six speaking engagements.

Mr. McKenzie spoke here from the same platform from which Nathan Ewing, also a congressional candidate, addressed the crowd. He was introduced by the mayor of Jonesboro.

"I agree with Congressman Mills that a man fit to represent the fifth district in congress should be a man of truthfulness and integrity," Mr. McKenzie said. "However, I am wondering just which of the candidates are attempting to deceive the people of the district. After mature thought, I am convinced that it is Congressman Mills.

"Recently Mr. Mills made the statement that he had voted to fortify all of the Pacific islands belonging to the United States. I ask Mr. Mills to tell the people the answer to this question: Did he or did he not vote against the fortification of Guam island when it was proposed long before Pearl Harbor? And there's another question which he should answer truthfully: Did he or did he not advocate abolishment of the United States army and navy, and campaign on this issue, as a means of securing world peace, and that, too, long before Pearl Harbor?

"Everyone knows that we would have been beaten long ago if we had followed Mr. Mills' advise and scrapped the army and navy. Everyone also knows that farsighted statesmen in Washington were emphatically urging strengthening of our outlying possessions instead of weakening of our defenses.

"If Mr. Mills refuses to answer these questions truthfully, the answer may be found in the Congressional Record."

CONTRACT AWARDED

VICKSBURG, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—The firm of Newton and Glenn of Hattiesburg was awarded a contract for construction of buildings in Desha county, Arkansas, it was announced by the United States engineers here today. The contract amount was between $100,000 and $499,000.

MISSING

Private First Class G. V. Prewett, 21, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Prewett, Sr., of Monroe, is reported as missing somewhere in the Pacific. He was born in Baton Rouge and educated there. He joined the air corps in 1939 and spent one year at Barksdale field and one year at Savannah, Ga. He was assigned to the Philippines where he arrived November 21, 1941, shortly before the battle of Pearl Harbor. His mother heard from him last on August 11 but the letter had been written on February 10.

HOME FOLKS HEAR NATHAN L. EWING

Speaks In Interest Of Campaign For United States Representative

JONESBORO, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Nathan L. Ewing was greeted by the "home folks" at Chatham and Jonesboro where he spoke today in the interest of his campaign for United States representative from the fifth congressional district of Louisiana.

Mr. Ewing's speeches were consistent with his own high personal level, and he emphasized the fact that he is an independent candidate "welcoming the fine support received from all."

He stated his firm belief in that faith of our forebears that "all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights."

"Our failure," he said, "to live up to those priceless principles upon which our government was founded is gradually bringing our farmers to the brink of ruin and our working men to a possible calamity.

"You saw me securing my high school and college education the long and hard way. You know my record, and we cannot change it. Nor would we want it changed if we could.

"Our boys are writing a record on far-flung battlefields with the blood that spills from their broken bodies. This record cannot be changed and it must not be forgotten.

"We must back our fighting forces with all that we have and when victory is ours we must write and administer a total peace with a special army and navy if necessary."

Mr. Ewing plans an extensive speaking tour of the fifth congressional district.

FLYING TIGER IS READY FOR REST

Robert Neale Credited With Bringing Down Thirteen Japanese Planes

SEATTLE, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Seven months of knocking Jap planes out of the Burma and China skies is enough for any man's nerves, says Robert Neale, one of the famed Flying Tigers.

Neale, credited with downing 13 Jap planes and destroying three others on the ground, came home to his bride yesterday with the estimate that a Flying Tiger's life was the kind that no man could lead for very long.

"Less than a year really does it," added the modest airman, with a smiling glance at the bride he left behind shortly after their marriage last summer. The Flying Tigers, or American Volunteer Group, was disbanded when the U. S. Air Force took over in China July 4.

Today he planned to register for selective service.

Neale rode the full round of thrills and narrow escapes during his term in the service of China, in which he wrote some spectacular chapters in an historic saga of American heroism in the air against staggering odds. He felt the chills that come from Zero fighters riding your plane's tail. He experienced the pung-pung of shells piercing the cockpit beside him. And he exulted with his fellow Tigers in the thrill of watching blazing enemy ships plummet earthward.

His arduous months at the controls, when a typical working day started at 3 a.m., took his weight from 175 to 147.

Once his plane was shot down. Another time he escaped into a cloud with two Jap fighter planes on his tail and came out of it with 20 bullet holes in his ship.

Once a Jap bomber literally blew up in his face.

"Seven bombers came over Rangoon," he related. "I wanted to be sure of getting mine and so I closed in on it. We usually open fire at 600 yards, but I was less than 200 feet away when I opened up that time. The bomber blew up. Part of it came down in the leading edge of my wing. That same part or another tore half of my aileron off. It knocked my plane out of control.

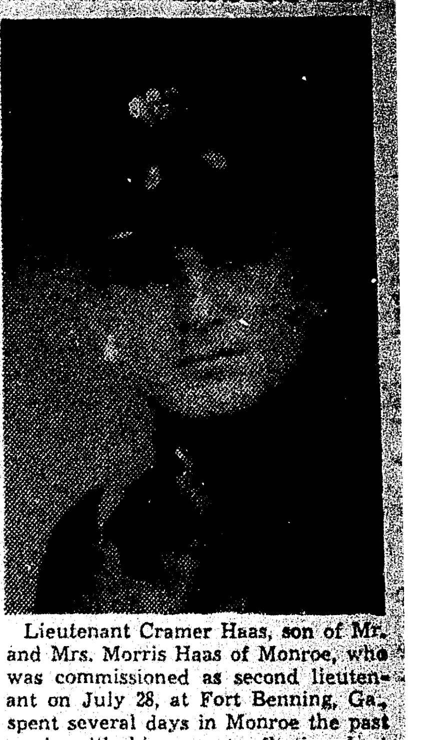
"I brought it out, and then after a while two Japs jumped me. The bullets came in the cockpit. I shook them off and came on home."

SOLTAU ARRESTED

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Charles William Soltau, 33-year-old research engineer who tried to organize an Indianapolis unit of the German-American bund four years ago, was arrested today on a charge of violating the selective service act.

Snake charmers do not charm snakes. They merely tame and accustom them to handling.

NEWLY ASSIGNED



Lieutenant Cramer Haas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Haas of Monroe, who was commissioned as second lieutenant on July 28, at Fort Benning, Ga., spent several days in Monroe the past week with his parents. Stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss., until last May 4, he is now en route to assignment on the west coast. He enlisted December 5, 1940.

FAMOUS FIGURE IN RAILROADING DIES

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Finley Johnson Shepard, 74, whose name for half a century was linked with the progress of America's railroads, died early today at Roosevelt hospital after an illness of six months.

A native of Saybrook, Conn., he began his railroad career with the Northern Pacific railway at St. Paul, Minn., and after serving several other roads was transferred to New York where he met and married Helen Miller Gould, daughter of Railroad Pioneer Jay Gould.

Railroads with which he had been associated as a director or in other executive capacity included the Missouri Pacific, the Texas and Pacific, the New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, the Denver and Rio Grande Western and the Western Pacific.

Besides his railroad affiliations, he was a director of the Merchants Fire Assurance corporation and the Ampere Bank and Trust company.

He resided in the old Gould mansion on Fifth avenue. Surviving are his two adopted daughters, Mrs. John Read Burr and Mrs. A. Harris Gaines, who were at his bedside when he died, and an adopted son, Finley Jay Shepard, now in military service.

Mrs. Shepard died in 1938.

HE DIDN'T MEAN IT

MARION, O.—(AP)—Sidney Brown, billed as a "fire eater" in a carnival, went to a hospital when his act went awry.

While "swallowing" flames, Brown accidentally spilled gasoline on his shirt front. When the gasoline ignited he leaped from the platform and rolled on the ground. Spectators watched, thinking it was part of the act.

The flames were extinguished, but Brown suffered burns about the face, head, hands and chest.

PROGRAM STATE WIDE IS PLANNED

Food For Freedom For Negro Leaders Will Be Topic Discussed

A state-wide campaign to stimulate interest among negro leaders of Louisiana in the food for freedom program is being held from August 18 to 28, inclusive, it is announced by H. C. Sanders, agricultural extension director, L. S. U.

D. L. Bornman, Jr., parish agent, and Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, home demonstration agent, will help A. G. Facen with the arrangements for Ouachita parish. The meetings will serve as a training school for negro leaders, and will be held in Ouachita parish on August 25, at 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 4-H club camp in Mineral Springs community.

National and state agricultural leaders will participate in the discussions, including: E. A. Miller, representing AAA; R. M. Crown, extension swine and meat specialist, L. S. U.; Clyde Ingram, extension poultryman; A. L. Holsey and James P. Davis, southern division AAA.

Subjects for discussion will embrace various phases of the food for freedom program and the importance of cooperation by negro farmers throughout the state. Some of the accomplishments already achieved will be presented by negro local agents and T. J. Jordan, negro state agent.

The program will include lectures on: Why Food for Freedom Goals? Accomplishments in 1942 and Plans for 1943; Providing the Farm Meat Supply; Provisions of AAA Program; How Farm Plan Sheets Aid in Food for Freedom; Louisiana Poultry Program as Related to Food for Freedom; Problems in Meeting Goals and Their Solution; Cooperation Necessary in Wartime; What Negro Ministers Can Do To Help Farmers in Food for Freedom Goals.

Negro ministers and other race leaders are especially invited to attend the all-day schools in this parish.

NEW OWNER TAKES OVER BARBER SHOP

The Pilcher Barber Shop, at 104 North Second street, has been purchased by Dell Bielkiewicz, for 12 years with Clouatre's Barber Shop, and will hereafter be known as Dell's Barber Shop. Incidentally she will be the first woman in Monroe to own and operate a barber shop.

Dell's Barber Shop will have associated with it the following well known barbers: A. H. Morrison and C. L. Lindel, formerly with Pilcher's and H. L. Odom, formerly with Clouatre's.

Miss Katherine Medaries will be the manicurist.

All the staff are well known and have a good following of clients and business is said to be starting off with a bright outlook.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

BY RENE RYERSON MART

COPYRIGHT, 1942, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CHAPTER IV

Puzzled by the unexpected familiarity of the face before her, it was a moment before Enid found her voice. She couldn't remember ever having seen the man before, and yet she had a feeling that she ought to know who he was.

"I've come to inquire about the apartment for rent," she managed at last.

He smiled a quick and easy smile. "Oh, yes, of course. The janitor usually shows these apartments, but he's not here just now." He held the door wider. "If you'll just step in a moment, I'll get the keys and show it to you."

Enid stepped timidly into the room and subsided into the chair nearest the door. It was a straight chair with rounded back and thin curved legs and covered with a greenish brocade. She discovered too late that it was an authentic antique. The springs in the seat were gone and it was as comfortable as sitting on a rock pile. She remained poised gingerly on the edge of the seat, fearing that even her slight weight might wreck it.

The young man smiled more broadly sensing her predicament. "I think you'd be more comfortable over here on the lounge. That chair is strictly for ornamental purposes."

Flushing with confusion, Enid changed her seat to the deep-cushioned divan he indicated. He nodded his satisfaction, excused himself, and vanished.

Enid looked curiously around her. The room was long, with plain yellow walls, and carpeted from wall to wall with a rich red carpeting that matched in color the divan on which she sat. Opposite her was the most enormous desk she has ever seen. She was staring at it with fascinated eyes when the man came back.

He had discarded his dressing gown and was more properly clad in gray slacks with a blue shirt and tie. He went to the great desk, carelessly pulled out a drawer and took a bunch of keys.

"That desk—" Enid said timidly. "I've never seen anything like it. Is it an antique, too?"

He was obviously pleased at her interest. He smiled his pleasant smile again. "It's an antique all right. It's made out of an old rosewood piano that my great-great-grandmother brought over with her from England. My mother handed it on to me when I fitted up this bachelor apartment."

Enid apologized. "I didn't mean to be curious."

"That's all right," he assured her. "Do you like antiques?"

"I—that is—I don't know. I've never seen many." The words were out before Enid realized that they made her seem ignorant. "I mean," she amended hastily, "that I never paid much attention to them."

She was vexed with herself and her even upper teeth caught the edge of her lower lip.

He smiled again broadly. "Well, you're much too young and pretty to bother your head about antiques anyway."

Enid wasn't accustomed to being complimented, and her flush deepened. In an embarrassed silence she followed him down the corridor to one of the apartment doors near the front of the building. He didn't know which key on the ring fitted the door, and it took some minutes by the trial and error method to find the right one.

"This is a furnished apartment," he said as the door finally swung open. "Is that what you wanted?"

Enid nodded her head and drew a sharp breath of pleasure as she stepped in and looked around. She stood in a long spacious living room, modeled much in dimensions as the one in the man's apartment. But there all resemblance ended.

This room was furnished in a delicate feminine style. A wide davenport and a wing chair were upholstered in a light floral design against a cool green background. There was a white leather chair and a reading lamp before the radio, and in the opposite wall space a tall carved secretary with another leather chair drawn up before it to balance the room.

The floors were covered with a soft green carpeting, there were the sheerest of ruffled curtains looped back at the windows, and some really good pictures on the walls. There were occasional tables and white lamps, and a low bookcase filled with brightly-bound volumes and colorful pottery. It was the kind of a room she had dreamed about.

She followed the young man into the dining room with its graceful Duncan Phyfe furniture.

"This apartment belongs to an elderly lady who has lived here for years," her guide was explaining. "Her husband died recently and she has to economize now. So she asked us to sublet the apartment while she is away on a trip with a friend. She left all of her furnishing intact, even to her Haviland china, and we'll have to be careful whom we rent to."

His eyes were mischievous as they met Enid's. "I don't suppose you have more than four or five children."

The pale rose that crept up under her transparent smooth skin was very becoming. "No—I'm not married. You see—" she had rehearsed this painstakingly so that is would sound natural, "I only want a place for about a month. I'm a fashion artist and I've come here looking for a position in one of the stores. If I don't get one I'll have to go back home."

He moved through the dining room. "Hadn't you better look the rest of the place over?"

There was a bedroom with gorgeous mirrors, a tiled bath, and a diminutive white and yellow kitchen. Her common sense was vanquished.

"I love it," Enid breathed. "It's just what I want."

But what if the rent was more than she could pay, or what if the young man asked for credentials? She'd look rather silly referring him to the office and having him find out that she was a $20 a week stenographer.

She needn't have worried. As a landlord the young man was extremely lax.

"Well, I guess that's all then. Mrs. Alton said I was to let it for just the rent of the apartment if I could find a suitable couple." Again his eyes twinkled mischievously. "That's $75 a month."

"I'll take it," Enid said quickly. "I'll give you a check now." She'd better hurry before he changed his mind. She sat down at the secretary and took out her bank book and fountain pen. "To whom do I make out the check?"

"I guess it will be all right if you make it out to me. My mother owns this place. And I live here. So I take care of things when Jim's not on the job." Enid supposed Jim was the absent janitor. "Henry Holliday's the name," he finished cheerfully.

Enid paused with her pen in mid-air. Henry Holliday—she knew now why he looked so familiar to her. That was the name of the doctor she had read about in the paper, the man whose face she had admired. She felt her color coming again as she hastily wrote and handed him the check.

He didn't bother to glance at it. "When will you be moving in?"

"Over the week-end, if that's all right."

"Certainly. Well, here's your key—and I hope you like it."

Enid lay awake for hours after she went to bed that night. She was too excited to sleep. And when at last her eyes closed, she sank into a mad welter of dreams in which new apartments and blond young men with toothbrush mustaches were hopelessly mixed.

LEGION GROUPS ARE INSTALLED

Winnsboro Post And Auxiliary Conduct Ceremonials Friday

WINNSBORO, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—The American Legion post and its Auxiliary held a joint meeting Friday at 8 p.m., when officers were installed as follows: Legion—J. A. Holmes, commander; George D. McKnight, adjutant; John Langford, chaplain; W. T. Lambright, vice-commander; Dr. R. E. Applewhite, service officer.

Officers for the Auxiliary installed were: Mrs. George D. McKnight, president; Mrs. J. A. Holmes, vice-president; Mrs. Kirby King, secretary; Mrs. Aubrey Scott, chaplain; Mrs. Milton Dailey, historian; Mrs. A. D. Meyer, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. W. A. Butler, color bearer.

After the introduction of guests, short talks were made by Mrs. Flood Madison, fifth district president, and Ed Apperson, fifth district commander.

Auxiliary members were installed after the group had retired from the joint assembly.

Following the installation, a barbecue supper was enjoyed by the entire assemblage. Tables were centered with flowers in red, white and blue colors. During the course of the meal, an inspiring talk was given by Miss Amelia Greenwald of Eunice, World war nurse, who spent two years overseas in World war No. 1.

There were 75 present for the occasion and out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Apperson, Mrs. Madison, Monroe; Leonard Jackson, past fifth district commander; Bill Thomas, Clarks, La., and Miss Greenwald.

CROWDS INCREASING AT SWARTZ REVIVAL

The Swartz Baptist church revival, being conducted by Rev. Burton A. Miley, pastor of the Arcadia Baptist church, has been drawing increasingly large crowds and the event will continue through Friday of this week with services twice daily.

Services today will begin at 10:45 a. m. and 8 p. m. Week-day sermons start at 9 a. m. and 8 p. m.

Rev. Miley will also appear on the program of the Twin City Baptist Pastors' conference here tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Central Baptist church.

ACCIDENTS HALT WAR PROGRESS

Red Cross Urges Conserving Man Power Of Entire Country

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 22.—(Special)—To aid in conserving manpower for the war effort, the American Red Cross this year will give added emphasis to its home and farm accident prevention educational program.

Although home accidents decreased by three per cent in 1941, they resulted in 31,500 fatalities and injury to 4,650,000 persons, and cost $400,000,000 in wage losses, medical expenses and insurance overhead.

Pointing out that such a toll seriously cripples the nation's manpower when it is most needed, Harold F. Enlows, national director, Red Cross First Aid, Water Safety and Accident Prevention Service, said the figures were proof that further extension of the home and farm accident prevention program was necessary.

"The Red Cross for a number of years has been stressing the importance of home and farm accident prevention," he said. "Without doubt the greatest contribution made to home safety in this country has been in the number of homemakers who within the past six months or a year have completed Red Cross first aid classes. The awakening of so many men and women in urban and rural communities to the peril of accidents and the possibility of the correction of habits and conditions that lead to them, may well be the point of crystallization for home accident prevention in this country. At this time, every accident which takes a mechanic from his machine, an agricultural worker from the field, or a housewife from the job of caring for the needs of her family impedes the war effort."

Instead of designating a special home and farm accident prevention week this year, emphasis will be placed on organized instruction courses and year-round and seasonal projects. Red Cross chapters throughout the country will be asked to give attention to all phases of a continuous accident prevention program, distribute check lists showing home and farm accident hazards through schools and youth organizations, and sponsor adult courses in home and farm accident prevention wherever possible.

CAPTAIN GOZA AIDS SOLDIER PROGRESS

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Captain R. J. Goza, police and prison officer at Camp Claiborne, former Monroe police officer, is displaying with just pride a letter recently received from a soldier who was at one time in his custody at the camp stockade. This man, who is with an engineering unit is outside the continental limits of the United States, is now a sergeant, and is in line for promotion to technical sergeant. He holds a responsible position as chief clerk in the rail transportation office.

A quotation from the letter which speaks volumes for the excellent work being done by Captain Goza in rehabilitating the men placed in his custody follows: "I want to state here, sir, that I do now think you are not only the P. and P. officer but a moral builder as well, for the way you handle your men they just think lots of you and I want to give you all the credit for my rehabilitation."

Announcement Made Of Engagement Of Louise Gray To Harry Marion Lemert

Prominent Local Girl To Wed In Early Fall

Bride-Elect Is Former President Of Charity League And Is Officer Of Spinsters' Club

Claiming special interest throughout Louisiana, is the announcement made today by Dr. and Mrs. Courtland Prentice Gray of Monroe of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Louise Russell, to Harry Marion Lemert, of the United States army air corps, and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lemert of Millsboro, Ind.

The bride-elect's family has been prominent in the civic, religious and social life of the state, where Mrs. Gray's family has lived since 1830. Dr. Gray, who has practiced in this city for several years, is past president of the Louisiana Medical Society, and now is superintendent of the Conway Memorial Hospital here.

Miss Gray attended Northeast Junior College and Brenau College, and graduated with the B. A. degree in library science from Louisiana State University, where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta social sorority, and Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary forensic fraternity. She has been assistant librarian at the local college and was on the Louisiana Polytechnic Institute faculty this summer. She has been active in the Monroe Junior Charity League and holds the office of treasurer of the Spinsters club. Her only brother is Major Courtland Prentice Gray, Jr., who is stationed at San Diego, Calif.

Mr. Lemert is a graduate of the American Conservatory of Music in Chicago, and was a member of the music faculty of the local college at the time he enlisted in the army.

Mrs. W. E. Dantzler and little daughter, Patsy Ann, have returned to Texas after an extended visit in Virginia with Sergeant W. E. Dantzler of the United States marine corps, and Mr. and Mrs. William Dantzler of West Monroe. Patsy Ann is the only grandchild of the late W. E. Dantzler, Sr., and also the only great grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. William Dantzler.

RECENTLY MARRIED . . .

Mrs. James Wilson, formerly Miss Faye Britt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Britt of West Monroe, whose recent marriage to Mr. James Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wilson of Monroe, was of interest to a wide circle of friends. Both are employed in Monroe.

Miss Faye Britt And James Wilson Married

Of interest to a wide circle of friends is the marriage of Miss Faye Britt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Britt, of West Monroe, and Mr. James Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wilson, of Monroe, which was solemnized Friday, August 7, at the First Baptist church, Monroe, with Rev. C. E. Autrey officiating in the double-ring ceremony. Only a few friends and relatives were present.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an advanced model of black and white with corsage of sweetheart roses and gardenies. Her only attendant, Miss Dorothy Keller, wore a smart tailleur of moss green, with pecan brown accessories, and a corsage of talisman roses. Mr. Jack Pittman, of Little Rock, served as best man. Immediately following the ceremony, the bride changed to a traveling suit of brown with white accessories, after which the couple left for a short honeymoon.

Mrs. Wilson is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High school and Northeast Junior college. Mr. Wilson is a graduate of Winn High school and he also attended the local college. The former is associated with the Motor Supply Company of this city and the latter is employed by the Louisiana Tractor Company.

New Novels Of Wide Appeal Now At Library

Entertaining new novels of wide appeal at the Ouachita Parish Public library are: "Mud on the Stars," William Huie; "Copper Pot," Oliver La Farge; "Hour Before the Dawn," Somerset Maugham; "Gay Sisters," Stephen Longstreet; "Free as the Wind," Atwood; "Walk into My Parlor," Margaret Lane; "A Little Lower than the Angels," Sorensen; "Fire in Summer," Robert Ramsey; "Drivin' Woman," Elizabeth Chevalier; "From This Day Forward," Elswyth Thane; "Pink Camellia," Temple Bailey; "Only One Storm," Granville Hicks; "Commandos," Elliott Arnold; "Island Noon," Mabel Robinson; "Tap Roots," James Street; "Castle on the Hill," Elizabeth Goudge; and "Air Force Girl," Renee Shann.

"Mud on the Stars" by William Bradford Huie is the story of an American soldier of World War II, who, as he celebrated New Year's Eve in a Louisiana honkytonk, looked back beyond Pearl Harbor into his past. Eager to fight for his country, he wonders why it took so final a challenge to make the values of American life clear to him.

The French Quarter in New Orleans is the colorful background for Oliver La Farge's new book, "Copper Pot." The main character is Tom Hartshorn, Harvard graduate, with a modest but adequate income, who takes up painting as a career.

Another appealing novel is Somerset Maugham's "The Hour Before the Dawn." In this book he unfolds the story of a typical English family in war time. The Henderson family consists of the general and his son, Roger; a younger boy, Jim; a conscientious objector; his wife; an Austrian refugee; and May, Roger's wife, in love with another man. Thus Somerset Maugham pictures a landed English family working out individual problems under war time stress.

Fannie Gene Robertson Marries Sidney M. Wall

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Becton, Jr., announce the marriage of their sister, Fannie Gene Robertson, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Robertson of Pineville, La., to Mr. Sidney Meredith Wall, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Wall of Monroe, in the home of Rev. T. W. Gayer, Saturday evening, August 15, with Rev. Gayer of Monroe officiating. Only relatives and close friends were present.

Miss Elaine Swayze, wearing a model of pink sheer with accessories of white, served as the bride's only attendant. Mr. Joe House was best man. The bride was lovely in blue alpaca and lace with accessories of white. She wore a white turban and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, an informal reception was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kelso, after which the couple left for a short honeymoon.

Mrs. Wall graduated from Ouachita Parish High school, after which she attended the local college where she was an active member in various organizations, including the French club and Glee club. She has gained recognition in this part of the state for her lovely voice. Mr. Wall also is a graduate of O. P. H. S.

Mrs. Wall is employed at the Virginia hotel and Mr. Wall is an employee of the Palace department store. The couple are at home at 200 Coleman avenue, West Monroe.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY . . .

Years are nothing to worry over thinks little Miss Kay Steele Lewis, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Steele Lewis of Monroe, who celebrated her fourth birthday anniversary last Sunday with a party at Bernstein park. About 70 friends enjoyed the occasion.

Kay Steele Lewis Celebrates Birthday

It was a gay occasion when little Miss Kay Steele Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Steele Lewis, celebrated her fourth birthday celebration last Sunday at 5 o'clock at Bernstein Park. About seventy guests enjoyed the occasion marked by games, colorful favors, and the entrance of the big pink birthday cake topped with a candy doll in an old-fashioned blue frock.

The color scheme of pink and blue was stressed in the trays and individual boxes decorated in pink crepe paper and containing all kinds of confections, including individual cakes embossed with pink flowers. Blue napkins printed with Kay's name, added color to service.

As gifts were presented to the hostess, she gave varicolored packages, filled with candy and tied with bright ribbons, balloons, and noise-making toys as favors. The zoo and swings in the park gave special entertainment.

In addition to the children, several mothers attended the party and assisted in serving. Mrs. J. C. Steele assisted in extending courtesies.

Business and a social hour marked the last regular monthly meeting of the Euzelian class of the First Baptist church, Monroe, with Mrs. A. D. Tisdale as hostess.

After the devotional and brief business session, interesting games were played. Delectable refreshments were served to: Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Black, Dr. A. D. Tisdale, and Mesdames L. T. Hastings, E. H. Murrell, J. L. Wise, Sr., J. L. Wise, Jr., Earl Rothermel, T. L. Jones, H. L. Tolbert, Olan Wilson, E. J. Aggerton, W. O. Webb, T. J. Norris, Sam Holstead, R. C. Stokes, Carl Moore, J. W. Webster, and M. L. Causey.

Mrs. Walter Smith of Shreveport is to spend some time here as the guest of her mother, Mrs. T. T. Webb.

Miss Janet Hixon And Dr. R. C. Green Marry

Wedding Of Social Prominence Is Solemnized At Bride's Home At Mangham

A wedding of social prominence and claiming the interest throughout the entire community, was that of Miss Janet Hixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hixon of Mangham, La., and Dr. R. O. C. Green of Alexandria, La., formerly of Bloomfield, Ky. The marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday afternoon, August 19, at four o'clock, with Rev. C. W. Jones, pastor of the Mangham Baptist church, rendering the impressive ceremony. Only immediate members of the family and close friends were present.

The living room was attractively decorated in white and green, with white gladioli and carnations against a background of clematis and fern. Mrs. S. H. Wood, presiding at the piano, played Lohengrin's "Wedding March" for the entrance of the bridal party. "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" was played softly during the ceremony.

The bride given in marriage by her father, was becomingly attired in black crepe trimmed in white with black accessories. Her picture hat was a becoming model of black straw. For sentiment she wore a lovely cameo pin that belonged to her mother.

The brides attendant, Mrs. Edwina R. Freshwater, was lovely in a rose silk crepe model with black and white picture hat and matching accessories. She wore a string of pearls. Dr. C. E. McConnell served as best man.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was lovely with a lace cover and attractive decorations of flowers and greenery. Presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. E. E. Randall, Mrs. S. H. Wood, and Mrs. A Preston.

The bride attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston, La., and Louisiana State university, Baton Rouge, La. For the past several years she has been a member of Mangham High school faculty. She has been very active in federated club work, and at the time of her marriage was president of the Mangham Junior Literary club.

The groom received the B. S. degree in engineering from the University of Kentucky, and the degree in medicine from Vanderbilt university. He was director of the Richland Parish Health unit for several years and is now director of the Rapides Health department.

Guests who attended the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Judd, Mrs. J. W. DeMoss, Sr., Mrs. E. T. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Randall, Mrs. Janie Wright, Dr. C. E. McConnell, Mrs. M. D. Preston and Miss Ada A. Preston, all of Mangham. Out-of-town guests were: Mrs. H. R. Clements, Mrs. Edwina R. Freshwater, Mrs. Frank Odom, Miss Betty Ann Odom, Mrs. Mattie Gauldon, and Miss Joyce Lacey, all of Baton Rouge, Mrs. S. H. Wood of St. Joseph, La., and Mrs. John A. Hemler of Rayville, La.

After a trip to the Gulf coast, the couple will make their home in Alexandria.

Miss Carolyn Brown, Lieut. Kell Married

A wedding which claimed the interest of many friends in North Louisiana was that of Miss Carolyn Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loddie Kenneth Brown, of Tallulah, La., and Lieutenant David Mandeville Kell, also of Tallulah. The marriage was solemnized in the Methodist church in San Francisco, Calif., August 1, with Dr. L. K. Brown, brother of the bride and pastor of the Methodist church of Sonoro, Tex., performing the impressive double-ring ceremony.

Large baskets, filled with white gladioli and clusters of white dahlia and stock with ferns, were used as decorations. The bride had as her only attendant, Miss Cornella Kell, sister of the groom, who wore a suit of pastel green with a white turban and black accessories. Her flowers were peach begonia.

The bride wore a tailored suit of beige with a hat of cinnamon brown and accessories to match. Her bouquet was of gold and purple orchids. The bridegroom and his best man, Lieutenant R. H. Hartey, wore navy dress uniforms of blue.

The bride attended Hendrix College, Arkadelphia, Ark., and the University of Texas where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Kappa sorority. She is a young woman of unusual charm. Mr. Kell is a graduate of the school of commerce of Tulane University and a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity. Previous to entering the service, he was secretary-manager of the Tallulah Production Credit Association.

The couple will make their home in Tibuton, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rushing announce the birth of a son, Jack Ronald, their first child, August 17, at the St. Francis sanitarium. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Johnston and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Rushing. Mrs. Rushing will be remembered as Miss Lila Johnston.

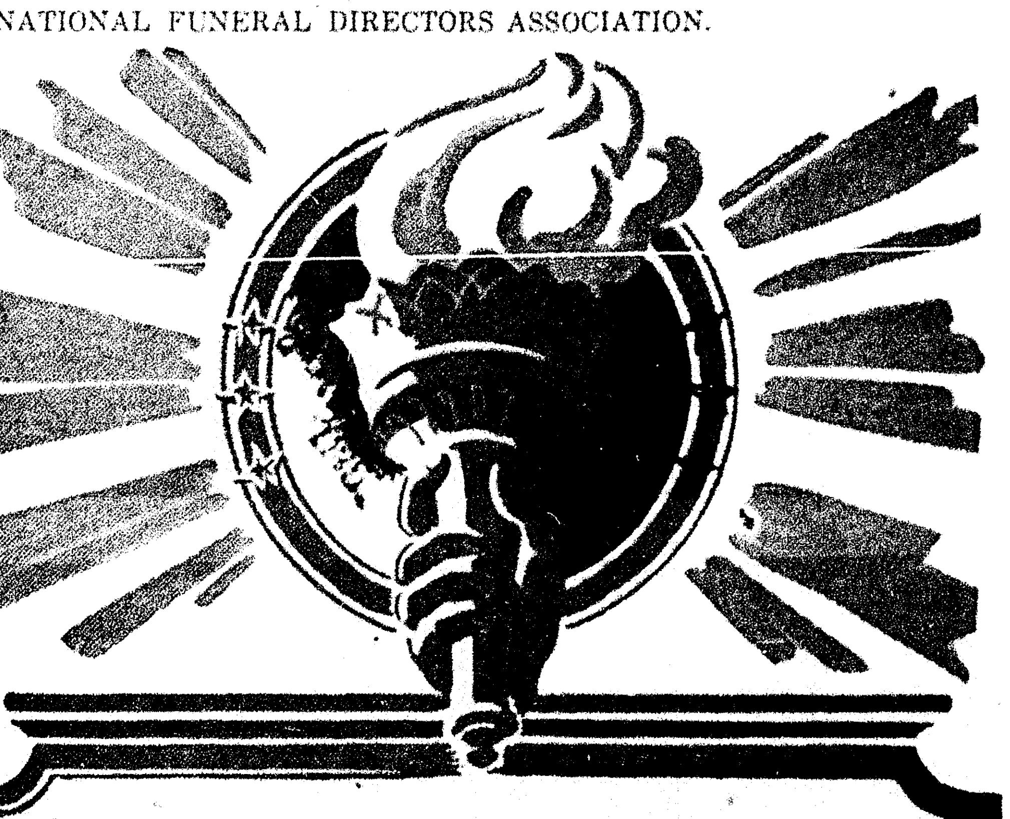
TRUE MEASURE
The public has many safeguards in the selection of a funeral director—to assure both "TRUE MEASURE" in the merchandise offered as well as the service to be rendered.
Outlined below is the CODE OF ETHICS for the guidance of every funeral director in the United States. It is the SPECIAL OBLIGATION of EVERY MEMBER of the NATIONAL FUNERAL DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION.



1. Ethical conduct by a funeral director involves obligations to different groups of people, namely, clients and the general public, competitors and employes.
2. The funeral director is under obligation to be fair with his clients as to quality of merchandise, freedom of choice, excellence of service, reasonableness of price, and integrity as to all representations made. He is under obligation to the public to safeguard public health, to make honest offerings if he advertises; and not to discriminate as between clients in price or other ways.
3. The funeral director is under obligation to be fair with his competitors as to respecting the contracts they have made with clients, refraining from soliciting cases directly or through agents or through the offering of free services, acting equitably in forwarding cases, respecting their customary or contractual arrangements with their employes, and observing the rules of competition without disparagement or defamation as to price, service, merchandise or professional standing. This particularly applies to statements made in advertisements and bids on indigent contracts.
4. The funeral director is under obligation to be fair, not seeking unfair advantage, nor misrepresenting merchandise to his clients nor tampering with labels.
5. The funeral director is under obligation to his employees to pay a fair living wage and fix reasonable hours, healthful and safe working conditions, government regulations and such agreements as he enters into with his employes.
6. The funeral director should be very mindful of the sacredness of the confidence reposed in him by his clients.
7. The funeral director, finally, is under obligation not only to live up to this code of ethics, but to help NFDA to make it a reality for all funeral directors and to assist in constantly elevating existing standards so that the funeral profession may continue to progress. This includes individual conduct, association, effort, legislative advance and further improvement in public relations.
The funeral director's fulfillment of the above obligations is your guidance in obtaining "TRUE MEASURE" in making the selection of your funeral director in your time of need.
It has been our humble privilege to dedicate ourselves to the task of serving you in your hour of sorrow. We are subject to your call day or night.

Engagement Of Martha Jane Hill To Captain Hugh Glasgow Is Announced Here

Popular Monroe Girl To Marry Alabaman

Approaching Wedding To Be Interesting Social Event; Captain Glasgow At Livingston

Of paramount interest throughout the south is the announcement made today by Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. John Bridger Thornhill of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Martha Jane Hill, to Captain Hugh Gordon Glasgow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gordon Glasgow of Birmingham, Ala.

Miss Hill is a great favorite in social circles here where she has many friends who will regard her engagement with a great deal of interest. After graduating from the Ouachita Parish High school, she entered Stevens College, Columbia, Mo., where she participated actively in student affairs. One of the responsible positions which she held was that of secretary-treasury of the administrative council of student government. She was among the group that was privileged to enjoy a special trip made by students at Stevens through various sections of the United States.

Later Miss Hill entered the Louisiana State University from which she was graduated. There she was secretary of Kappa Delta and president of the organization in Annie Boyd hall. Her summers usually have been spent at camps in Alabama, Texas and North Carolina, where she served as counselor at various times.

Captain Glasgow attended high school in Birmingham, then entered Alabama Polytechnic Institute where he was vice-president of Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Following his graduation from that institution, he was employed by the Birmingham Southern Railroad Company. He resigned his position to enter military service, and is stationed now with the tank destroyer battalion of the field artillery at Camp Livingston, La.

W. T. Roberts Observes His 77th Anniversary

It was a happy reunion for Mr. W. T. Roberts, his family, relatives and friends who gathered at his home in Chatham, La., August 16, to celebrate his seventy-seventh birthday anniversary. Lunch enjoyed under the large pine trees on his lawn, was followed with an impromptu program of sacred harp singing by a group and a medley of the honoree's favorite numbers sung by the entire gathering.

Those present on this occasion besides Mr. Roberts, were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Roberts and children, Geneva, Duvalle and Orline, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Roberts and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Miss Cora Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Griggs and family, Mr. Jim Hordon, Mr. Baskin Carrell, Mr. Jim Pankey and son, Mr. Russell Hatten, Miss Ida Hatten, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Brooks and son, Miss Barbara Gene Cox, Mr. J. T. Simons, all of Chatham; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Works, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Robinson, Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Johnson, Bay; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thigpen and sons, Sikes.

Carrying out the program topic, "Give Substance to the Dreams of Better Things for Youth," at Tuesday's meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, First Methodist church, Monroe, Mrs. N. E. Jackson discussed the problem, "The World Faced by Youth and Adults." She also gave the scripture reading. Miss Frances Baldwin spoke on "How We Can Defend Democracy," and Mr. Luther Howell, Jr., discussed the pertinent question, "What Kind of a World Do We Want?"

Musical numbers included two sacred one, "O Young and Fearless Prophet" and "Are Ye Able?" with Mrs. John Sholars as accompanist.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Giestrap announce the arrival of a daughter, Marjorie Carolyn, August 6, at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic. Mrs. Giestrap was Miss Carolyn Walker. The maternal grandmother is Mrs. Carl Walker of Monroe and the paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Giestrap of Winnfield, La.

Mrs. Louis K. Turner has as her house guests, Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Gorman and Dr. and Mrs. John Atkinson of Louisville, Ky., who arrived Saturday. A number of informal parties will comprise part of their entertainment here.

Miss Veronica Wilds and her guest, Miss Jeanne Moriarity of Chicago, left Wednesday for New Orleans and the Gulf coast for a stay of several days. Miss Ida Pavey of Opelousas joined them in New Orleans. They will go later to Opelousas to be the guests of Miss Pavey for several days.

Mary O'Neal Clifford Weds William Robinson

Miss Mary O'Neal Clifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Clifford of Oklahoma City, Okla., became the bride of Corporal William Edward Robinson, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Robinson of Winnsboro, La., Thursday evening, June 30, in the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. John C. Blackman of the Pilgrim Congregational church, Oklahoma City, officiating. Only relatives and close friends of the bride were present.

Mrs. John Simpson, cousin of the bride, was her matron of honor. Her costume was of rose georgette, with basque waist, short sleeves, and a long full skirt. She wore a matching bandeau and a corsage of gardenias. The bride's sister, Miss Betty Bruce Clifford, was bridesmaid. She wore a pastel model of pink and blue net with a short jacket and a corsage of gardenias. The candles were lighted by Mrs. J. E. Warner in an organdy dress, with blue and rose figures, cut in lines similiar to the gowns worn by the other attendants. Her corsage was of gardenias. Mr. Robert Carnes of Fort Sill, Okla., was best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of light blue georgette, made with a long shirred bodice in basque effect, with short sleeves and sweetheart neckline. She wore a double strand of pearls and a corsage of white orchids.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford were hosts at a reception given in their home. Centering the bride's table was a three-tiered wedding cake resting on a mound of fern and rose petals. Three-branched candelabra, holding white candles tied with white ribbons, added a pretty note to the decorations on the table. After the bride cut the cake, her aunt, Miss Nell Bruce, served. Presiding at the punch bowl was another aunt, Mrs. Robert L. Mills, assisted by Miss Kathryn Cochran, Miss Betty Bruce Clifford, and Mrs. Warner. Mrs. Robert Henderson had charge of the guest book.

Following the reception, the couple left for a brief wedding trip, after which they will be at home in Lawton, Okla., where Corporal Robinson is stationed.

MISS DOROTHY CALVERT . . .

A painting of Miss Calvert, just completed by Mr. Roy Henderson, art instructor at Northeast Junior college, which has caused widespread interest, shows her in a soft green velvet gown against a background of white drapery. The artist has caught successfully the lovely coloring of Miss Calvert's hair and eyes which are so interesting in the original. The portrait was shown first to a group of the Monroe Little Theatre members with whom Miss Calvert had worked.

INTRODUCING . . .

Mrs. Virgil Lee Perry, the former Lena Cascio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Cascio of Monroe, whose marriage to Private Virgil Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Perry of Monroe, was an interesting event. Mrs. Perry will make her home with the groom's parents while Private Perry is stationed at Camp Swift, Texas.

Miss Mary Harkey And William Scriber Wed

Prominent Couple United In Beautiful Ceremony At Bride's Home In Texas

Of paramount interest is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Virginia Harkey, daughter of Mr. Monroe Harkey and the late Mrs. Harkey, of San Antonio, Tex., to Mr. William Buie Scriber, son of Mrs. Harry Scriber and the late Mr. Scriber, of Winnsboro, La. The wedding was solemnized in the bride's home August 4, with Rev. Albert P. Shirkey officiating.

An improvised altar was arranged from an arch covered with ivy and white queen's crown and banked with palms. Baskets of white dahlias and fern stood on either side, and white tapers burned in wrought iron candelabras. Mrs. Allen W. Turner of Dallas, Tex., sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. M. Ward at the organ.

Miss O'Cile Pugh of Kilgore, Tex., was the bride's only attendant. She wore a Dutch blue crepe model with wine accessories. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses. Mr. Claude B. Harkey, uncle of the bride, of San Antonio, Tex., served as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an attractive two-piece moss green crepe with brown trimming. Her accessories were brown, and she carried a white Bible with an orchid and a shower of stephanotis.

An informal reception was held immediately after the ceremony. The bride's table was overlaid with a handsome cut work cover, centered with an attractive arrangement of white dahlias and queen's crown, flanked with crystal candelabra. Mrs. L. M. Harkey, grandmother of the bride, served the white ring-shaped wedding cake, and Miss Martha Grayson served iced frappe. She was assisted by Mrs. C. B. Harkey. Miss Fay Crozier was in charge of the bride's book.

The bride chose for her traveling suit a pin-checked gray and white model with which she wore green accessories and a corsage of orchids. After a trip to Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Scriber will be at home in Winnsboro.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Martha Grayson of Fort Necessity, La., Mrs. Conger Poage of Austin, Tex., Miss O'Cile Pugh of Kilgore, Tex., and Mrs. Allen Turner of Dallas, Tex.

Miss Emma Boughton Marries A. G. Hicks

In a double-ring ceremony marked by lovely simplicity, Miss Emma Boughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Boughton, of Bastrop, La., became the bride of Mr. Aylmer Grayson Hicks, son of the late Rev. and Mrs. John L. Hicks, of Bastrop, at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening, August 15, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brothers, on Park avenue, with Rev. Selby Aswell, local Baptist minister, officiating. Only close friends and relatives were present.

The bride's attendant was Mrs. J. E. Braley, of this city, who wore a white eyelet embroidered dress, white hat, and navy blue accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Mr. H. A. Corbin, of Monroe, served as best man. The bride was dressed in an attractive navy blue sheer with white trimmings, and navy hat. She used white accessories and a corsage of sweetheart roses and tube roses tied with pink ribbons.

Following the wedding, an informal reception was held with Mr. and Mrs. Brothers as hosts. The dining room was decorated in attractive arrangements of giant zinnias, golden glow, and clematis. From the bride's table that was centered with a low bowl of mixed flowers, coffee and cake were served by the hostess and Mrs. S. H. Williams.

Mrs. Grayson graduated from the Mangham High school and was employed in Monroe at the time of her marriage. The couple will make their home at 507 North Sixth street, West Monroe.

Miss Wilds Entertains For Miss Moriarity

Miss Veronica Wilds entertained Tuesday night aboard the Brown Kraft for her charming house guest, Miss Jeanne Moriarity of Chicago, a classmate of hers at Maryville college, St. Louis, Mo. This delightful occasion proved to be an interesting one for the honoree, who was making her first trip to the deep South. She declared that she had never viewed a river as beautiful as the Ouachita.

A barbecue, so tantalizing after an outing on the river, was served to the following: Misses Moriarity, Dottie White, Carolyn Husted, Mary Lavinia Inabnet, Adelaide Parker, Gay Noe, Jarry Kelso, Betty Middleton, Frances Raby, Veronica Wilds, Dodie Hart, Mary Ann Wilds, Helen Wilds, Evelyn Middleton, Barbara McKenzie, Betty Jane Wilds, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilds.

Mrs. Walter Adams of Marshall, Tex., who has been the house guest of Mrs. L. O. Harkness, was accompanied by Mrs. Harkness when she returned to her home this week.

RECENT BRIDE . . .

Mrs. Aylmer Grayson Hicks, the former Emma Boughton of Monroe, whose marriage last week was of interest to many persons in this section of the state. The couple will make their home in this city where Mr. Hicks is employed.

Portrait Of Dorothy Calvert Is Unveiled

Members Of Cast, Crew And Directors Of Little Theater View Henderson's Painting

The cast and crew of "Out of the Frying Pan," Little Theatre production of last season, had become accustomed to solving sudden problems that were frequent in putting on the play. But when they received from Miss Dorothy Calvert, a member of the cast, invitations to an unveiling at her home, they were dubious, perplexed, and confounded. Nothing in stagecraft, directing, or stage business gave any indication as to what should be done under such circumstances.

Carrying out the suggestions of Little Theater Director Lorenzo Smith, they accepted the invitation and were present at the appointed hour. After the guests were greeted by Miss Calvert, wearing a white jersey evening dress and gardenias, they were ushered into the living room, still unaware of the evening's surprise. Suddenly, they were returned to a scene from "Out of the Frying Pan." This time, however ,there were only two members of the cast. Roy Henderson was attempting to convince Miss Calvert of her great possibilities as a subject for a portrait. The lady was so thoroughly converted to the idea that she consented to sit for her portrait. But the clever skit, written by Miss Calvert and read by Miss Mary Louise Fudickar, tells the story of the unveiling of the lovely work done by Mr. Henderson.

It was a tense moment when Miss Beverly Russell turned off the lights. Then Mrs. Henry Mayo unveiled the portrait and switched on special lights to display effectively the finished work. The audience agreed that it was a lovely likeness. The artist has caught the beautiful coloring of Miss Calvert's hair and eyes. The graceful lines of her arms and hands call the observer's attention. One misses in the printed picture the dull green of Miss Calvert's velvet dress, the beauty of the gardenias, and many lovely features that can be appreciated only by seeing the original.

After the unveiling, guests were served iced lime frappe and individual cakes embossed in green, from a table centered with a beautiful arrangement of gardenias. Mrs. Tom Davenport, in a long black frock and antique jewelry, poured. She was assisted by Mrs. Henry Mayo, who wore black and white jersey with a corsage of red gladioli.

Guests included the cast and crew of "Out of the Frying Pan," the directors, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Smith, and the board of directors of the Monroe Little Theater, who enjoyed the clever skit written by the hostess.

Summer Ball Held By Beta Delta Sorority

Members of the younger social group gathered in gay spirit for the Beta Delta sorority end-of-the-summer ball Friday night, August 14. The dance was given at the Frances hotel on the Cherokee terrace where large replicas of the Beta Delta crest were used for decorations.

Just before intermission, the grand march was led by Miss Martha McManus, outgoing president, and Mr. Harold Cornett, with sorority members and their escorts participating. Then the incoming president, Miss Jackie Warren, was presented. She, in turn, introduced the new sponsors and presented gifts to them and the outgoing sponsors.

New sponsors include: Mr. Louis Whitfield, replacing Mr. Bill McDowell of Delta Sigma; Mr. Jack Fluke, replacing Mr. Douglas Smith of Sigma Phi Omega; Mr. Bob Carter, replacing Mr. Paul Keller of Phi Kappa, and Mr. George and Bobby Holt, non-fraternity sponsors. Mrs. C. H. McManus will serve as sorority mother, and Mrs. J. L. Warren, Mrs. Meredith, and Miss Lallange Feazel will act as sponsors of the organization.

P.-T. A. Programs Are Now Being Formulated

Work Sheets Containing Numerous Pamphlets Being Received By Local Organizations

Plans for the P.-T. A. program to be put into effect this year, are being received by presidents of Local organizations. The broad scope of work is based on the aim of far-reaching activities as suggested in the Parent-Teacher manual, published by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

This week work kits were sent from the state office to unit leaders throughout Louisiana. These contain numerous pamphlets containing information along all lines of study and activity considered in P.-T. A. programs. One of these is the Parent-Teacher manual, a compilation of valuable material dealing with the complete set-up of the organization as to structure of the national congress, local organizations, duties of officers, program procedure and community activities.

The summer round-up for children, high school service, juvenile protection, mental hygiene, visual education, radio, parent education, and international relations are some of the vital topics included in the work of such an organization that are treated in the manual.

It also contains valuable suggestions dealing with the procedure in organizing study groups, qualifications and functions of leadership, and methods of conducting study groups and practical ideas for group projects.

A pamphlet, which discusses plans for a program of activities engaged in by a P.-T. association, outlines the objects of the Parent-Teacher program. Included are suggestions as to possibilities of making the program fit the local situation in an effort to enhance the value of the organization. A suggested outline includes a broad choice of subjects for each month of the year.

The kit includes a report made by Mrs. William Kletzler, president of the national congress, in which she gives evidence of results obtained and suggestions made by the association in curricula, child labor, juvenile protection and the problem of readjustment of economic and industrial life during the last few months in American homes.

The P.-T. A. wartime pledge stipulates that the association include the clauses: "To continue with zeal and devotion our efforts to secure and preserve the good life for all children even in the face of war and disaster;

"To protect our children against all the dangers of war, whether these dangers be physical, mental or spiritual."

A systematic procedure was effected by the local P.-T. A. under the sponsorship of Mrs. Fagan Cox, state president, when new officers prepared themselves for service by meeting last May for a school of instruction. This gave opportunity to incoming officers and chairmen to be informed of their duties so that they would be prepared to begin work in September. Almost two hundred in the Twin Cities participated in this program.

Mrs. W. S. Vincent, principal of the Sherrouse Elementary school and president of the Twin Cities' Parent-Teacher association, will be assisted by the following leaders of local units: Mrs. Roy Buce, Mitchell; Mrs. C. K. Crandall, Neville; Mrs. S. E. Morris, Ouachita; Mrs. W. A. Massett, St. Matthews; Mrs. W. W. Stevens, Sherrouse; Mrs. J. C. Fisher, Ransom; Mrs. Harry Black, Barkdull Faulk; Mrs. George Cole, Central; Mrs. L. L. Overton, Crosley; Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Georgia Tucker; Mrs. Percy Marine, Lida Benton, and a leader at the Millsaps school.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service held the monthly program meeting at the Methodist church on Monday afternoon under the leadership of Mrs. G. L. Garrison. An impressive devotional service on the subject, "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place," was given in the form of a candle light service with the theme, "The Church as a Light Through the Ages." Mrs. W. E. Regenold lighted the five candles representing the early sanctuary, Jesus and the Synagogue, the early Christian church, the Methodist church of today and the church of my dreams as an appropriate reference was given for each candle. This was followed by a litany.

Mrs. Dave Kaufman, Mrs. W. H. Erickson and Mrs. J. W. Huckabay then gave talks on the Woman's Society of Christian Service and its work in the community and what other churches are doing in this connection. Mrs. A. C. Thompson brought a challenging message on the importance of Spiritual Life. A short business session followed the program.

West Monroe Branch Of Library Is Popular

Many Books On International Situation, As Well As Fiction, Are Available

The West Monroe branch of the Ouachita parish library, on Wood street, has a complete and interesting collection of volumes. To keep abreast of the times, as well as the demands of the reading public, the library has a special collection of new books dealing with the international situation.

Some of the interesting titles include: Burma Road, Meet the South Americans, The Caribbean Danger Zone, Why England Slept, Berlin Diary, Not Peace But a Sword, The Bond Between Us, The American Premier, You Can't Do Business With Hitler, Winston Churchill and Blood, Sweat and Tears. In addition, there is much valuable information concerning the United States army, navy and marine corps.

On another shelf can be found some of the newest and most widely discussed novels of the day. Everyone wants to read: Until the Day Break, Dragon Seed, Behind the Rising Sun, And Ten Tomorrow, All That Glitters, The Heart Remembers, Keys of the Kingdom, Master of the Mississippi, Girl Without Credit, Lonely Parade and numerous other delightful or dramatic volumes.

The library has a varied and unique collection of children's books. Titles range from a list suitable for children not yet in school to those interesting to seventh and eighth graders.

A magazine section includes periodicals and popular magazines which have attracted the interest of many readers.

The library is doing its bit to aid the men in service by displaying patriotic posters and pamphlets around a large box in which books for soldiers at the local navigation school are gathered and delivered. The atmosphere created by these posters, the large collection of books and the pleasing personality of the librarian, Mrs. Mitchell Barry, all tempt readers to make additional use of such an interesting place.

WELD WITHOUT HEAT--NEW PROCESS BY HEARN

Better Method Of Welding Blocks Castings, Etc. In Use

The Hearn Piston Ring Sales has the most up to date equipment that money can buy. They are now welding without heat. The new and improved method of repairing cracks in motor blocks, cylinder heads and other metal castings, is proving to be the best way to assure perfect welds. Mr. Hearn says that regardless of size he is able to turn out a perfect weld job without using heat. Some of the work performed at the plant are repairs to heavy gas engine cylinders and heavy pump seats, domes of all sizes, loose seats in valve seat cracks V8 blocks, and Deisel cylinder heads for levee and road contractors.

Koetherizing is another new method used by Mr. Hearn.

Koetherizing is an exclusive, patented process that expands piston to recommended factory clearances—accurately and permanently. Thousands of repairmen are Koetherizing every pulled piston—making every ring job a better job.

Koetherizing adds to your profits and shop prestige—yet costs no more than ordinary skirt expanders. Bring in a set of pistons today and let us prove what Koetherizing will do for you.

A new Tobin-Arp Line Boring Machine was installed recently, to give the factory finish and perfect alignment when rebuilding motors.

The most important dimension in the rebuilding of an internal combustion motor is the alignment. Alignment is the factor that permits smooth operation and long life. For the same reason misalignment causes vibration, knocks, rapid wear and excessive oil consumption.

The crankshaft is the backbone of any motor and if the crankshaft does not run true the motor will not perform efficiently. The main bearings in which the crankshaft rotates must be in perfect alignment and have the proper clearance so that the oil will be equally distributed between the crankshaft and the bearings, thus preventing metal to metal contact.

The Tobin-Arp machine is consistently accurate because the accuracy of set-up and operation is built into the machine. There is absolutely no chance for the finished job to be out of alignment once the job is set in the machine.

These are only a few of the many new machines and new processes used by Mr. Hearn.

Mr. Hearn states that he is always on the lookout for anything new that will help in doing a perfect job. As all work is guaranteed at Hearn's.

HAYES COOPERATES IN DRIVE FOR NEW APTS.

Now in its 14th year of service in the worthy cause of helping to build Monroe and West Monroe, the Hayes Lumber company is today cooperating in the drive just inaugurated to provide apartments for hundreds of defense workers coming into the Twin Cities.

T. A. Sanders, manager of the Hayes firm, is hopeful that local home owners, who can possibly provide space for one or more of these families, will cooperate in the efforts to give these workers homes.

During its 14 years of service the Hayes Lumber company has played a big part in home building in the Twin Cities. Today the firm, as usual, is carrying a complete stock of everything needed in the building line.

With thousands of satisfied customers, acquired through its 14 years of service, the Hayes Lumber company has built up a strong position in the business life of the Twin Cities.

Mr. Sanders urges you to consult him or his staff of experienced co-workers when you plan anything in remodeling, repair or repainting.

TIN MINE

RIVERSIDE, Calif.—(AP)—A promise to show government officials an actual bar of tin produced from the Temescal mine, 55 miles east of Los Angeles, has been made by Walter Pittman, county supervisor. With America's principal source of the strategic metal cut off with the loss of Malaya, the government is relying on reclaimed tin and ore from Bolivia. The Riverside supervisors thought well enough of the Temescal source to appropriate funds for a test run of 100 tons of ore in a metallurgical laboratory.

Ninety per cent of our foot troubles and ailments are due to improperly fitting footwear.

DIXIE FUNERAL HOME IS SERVING WIDE TERRITORY

With little more than four years passed since C. A. Hall took over the management of the Dixie Funeral Home, that substantial Monroe institution has expanded the territory it serves until today it has friends in all sections of northeast Louisiana.

Modern equipment, a trained, sympathetic personnel, a commodious building, and a fair, live-and-let-live policy of doing business has brought an increasing number of friends to this Twin City institution.

The Dixie Burial Insurance company, a subsidiary of the Dixie Funeral Home, offering a liberal, convenient way to pay burial policy, today numbers among its clients thousands of families all over this section of the state.

Mr. Hall, now owner-manager of the Dixie Funeral Home, is proud of the record his home has made and is grateful to its many friends for the confidence they hold for him.

M'CAIN-RICHARDS ARE KEEPING FORDS GOING

With one of the best equipped and best staffed automobile sales and service staffs in this section of Louisiana, the McCain-Richards company, 1201-1205 Louisville, are doing a good job in keeping the Fords performing at top notch during the duration.

In their new home, only recently completed, the McCain-Richards company not only has a building that is adding much to the scenic attractiveness of that section of Louisville avenue, but with a full stock of parts, the latest service equipment and the best trained personnel, that firm is giving the best in automotive repair and service work.

Even Fords, Mr. Richards points out, will in time show the effects of hard service, and he urges car owners to bring their automobiles in for check-up and minor adjustments to prevent major trouble later. With genuine Ford parts, the car owner is assured of the peak of performance when McCain-Richards does the service job.

Visit the new McCain-Richards plant and see one of the largest, most complete and best stocked automobile agencies in this section of the state.

SWEDEN SECOND

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—A total of 990,000 telephones were in use in Sweden at the end of 1941, an increase of 70,000 over 1940. This represents 153 telephones per thousand population, a density of telephone use second only to the United States.

SPOT CLUB OFFERS GOOD FOOD, SERVICE

For an evening of enjoyable dancing, or for the best food, served just as you like it, C. A. "Hildy" Hildabridle, manager of the Spot Club, 1909 Louisville, invites you to come to his place.

Since taking over the management of the Spot Club, Mr. Hildabridle has greatly improved the service, enlarged the menu and in every other way made his place more enjoyable to the greater number of patrons now frequenting his club.

A well-kept, smooth dance floor with a choice of the country's leading song "hits" on the nicklelodeon, awaits the visitors to the Spot Club who enjoy dancing.

Choice foods, featuring well-prepared western steaks and fried chickens, are highlights at Mr. Hildabridle's place.

COMMERCIAL INDUSTRIAL and BUILDING DIGEST

Better Method Of Welding Blocks Castings, Etc. In Use

The Hearn Piston Ring Sales has the most up to date equipment that money can buy. They are now welding without heat. The new and improved method of repairing cracks in motor blocks, cylinder heads and other metal castings, is proving to be the best way to assure perfect welds. Mr. Hearn says that regardless of size he is able to turn out a perfect weld job without using heat. Some of the work performed at the plant are repairs to heavy gas engine cylinders and heavy pump seats, domes of all sizes, loose seats in valve seat cracks V8 blocks, and Deisel cylinder heads for levee and road contractors.

Koetherizing is another new method used by Mr. Hearn.

Koetherizing is an exclusive, patented process that expands piston to recommended factory clearances—accurately and permanently. Thousands of repairmen are Koetherizing every pulled piston—making every ring job a better job.

Koetherizing adds to your profits and shop prestige—yet costs no more than ordinary skirt expanders. Bring in a set of pistons today and let us prove what Koetherizing will do for you.

A new Tobin-Arp Line Boring Machine was installed recently, to give the factory finish and perfect alignment when rebuilding motors.

The most important dimension in the rebuilding of an internal combustion motor is the alignment. Alignment is the factor that permits smooth operation and long life. For the same reason misalignment causes vibration, knocks, rapid wear and excessive oil consumption.

The crankshaft is the backbone of any motor and if the crankshaft does not run true the motor will not perform efficiently. The main bearings in which the crankshaft rotates must be in perfect alignment and have the proper clearance so that the oil will be equally distributed between the crankshaft and the bearings, thus preventing metal to metal contact.

The Tobin-Arp machine is consistently accurate because the accuracy of set-up and operation is built into the machine. There is absolutely no chance for the finished job to be out of alignment once the job is set in the machine.

These are only a few of the many new machines and new processes used by Mr. Hearn.

Mr. Hearn states that he is always on the lookout for anything new that will help in doing a perfect job. As all work is guaranteed at Hearn's

HAYES COOPERATES IN DRIVE FOR NEW APTS.

Now in its 14th year of service in the worthy cause of helping to build Monroe and West Monroe, the Hayes Lumber company is today cooperating in the drive just inaugurated to provide apartments for hundreds of defense workers coming into the Twin Cities.

T. A. Sanders, manager of the Hayes firm, is hopeful that local home owners, who can possibly provide space for one or more of these families, will cooperate in the efforts to give these workers homes.

During its 14 years of service the Hayes Lumber company has played a big part in home building in the Twin Cities. Today the firm, as usual, is carrying a complete stock of everything needed in the building line.

With thousands of satisfied customers, acquired through its 14 years of service, the Hayes Lumber company has built up a strong position in the business life of the Twin Cities.

Mr. Sanders urges you to consult him or his staff of experienced coworkers when you plan anything in remodeling, repair or repainting.

TIN MINE

RIVERSIDE, Calif.—(AP)—A promise to show government officials an actual bar of tin produced from the Temescal mine, 55 miles east of Los Angeles, has been made by Walter Pittman, county supervisor. With America's principal source of the strategic metal cut off with the loss of Malaya, the government is relying on reclaimed tin and ore from Bolivia. The Riverside supervisors thought well enough of the Temescal source to appropriate funds for a test run of 100 tons of ore in a metallurgical laboratory.

Ninety per cent of our foot troubles and ailments are due to improperly fitting footwear.

DIXIE FUNERAL HOME IS SERVING WIDE TERRITORY

With little more than four years passed since C. A. Hall took over the management of the Dixie Funeral Home, that substantial Monroe institution has expanded the territory it serves until today it has friends in all sections of northeast Louisiana.

Modern equipment, a trained, sympathetic personnel, a commodious building, and a fair, live-and-let-live policy of doing business has brought an increasing number of friends to this Twin City institution.

The Dixie Burial Insurance company, a subsidiary of the Dixie Funeral Home, offering a liberal, convenient way to pay burial policy, today numbers among its clients thousands of families all over this section of the state.

Mr. Hall, now owner-manager of the Dixie Funeral Home, is proud of the record his home has made and is grateful to its many friends for the confidence they hold for him.

M'CAIN-RICHARDS ARE KEEPING FORDS GOING

With one of the best equipped and best staffed automobile sales and service staffs in this section of Louisiana, the McCain-Richards company, 1201-1205 Louisville, are doing a good job in keeping the Fords performing at top notch during the duration.

In their new home, only recently completed, the McCain-Richards company not only has a building that is adding much to the scenic attractiveness of that section of Louisville avenue, but with a full stock of parts, the latest service equipment and the best trained personnel, that firm is giving the best in automotive repair and service work.

Even Fords, Mr. Richards points out, will in time show the effects of hard service, and he urges car owners to bring their automobiles in for checkup and minor adjustments to prevent major trouble later. With genuine Ford parts, the car owner is assured of the peak of performance when McCain-Richards does the service job.

Visit the new McCain-Richards plant and see one of the largest, most complete and best stocked automobile agencies in this section of the state.

SWEDEN SECOND

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—A total of 980,000 telephones were in use in Sweden at the end of 1941, an increase of 70,000 over 1940. This represents 153 telephones per thousand population, a density of telephone use second only to the United States.

SPOT CLUB OFFERS GOOD FOOD, SERVICE

For an evening of enjoyable dancing, or for the best food, served just as you like it, C. A. "Hildy" Hildabridle, manager of the Spot Club, 1909 Louisville, invites you to come to his place.

Since taking over the management of the Spot Club, Mr. Hildabridle has greatly improved the service, enlarged the menu and in every other way made his place more enjoyable to the greater number of patrons now frequenting his club.

Choice foods, featuring well-prepared western steaks and fried chickens, are highlights at Mr. Hildabridle's place.

Ample parking space afforded, the public is invited to drive by the Spot Club, night or day, and enjoy this service.

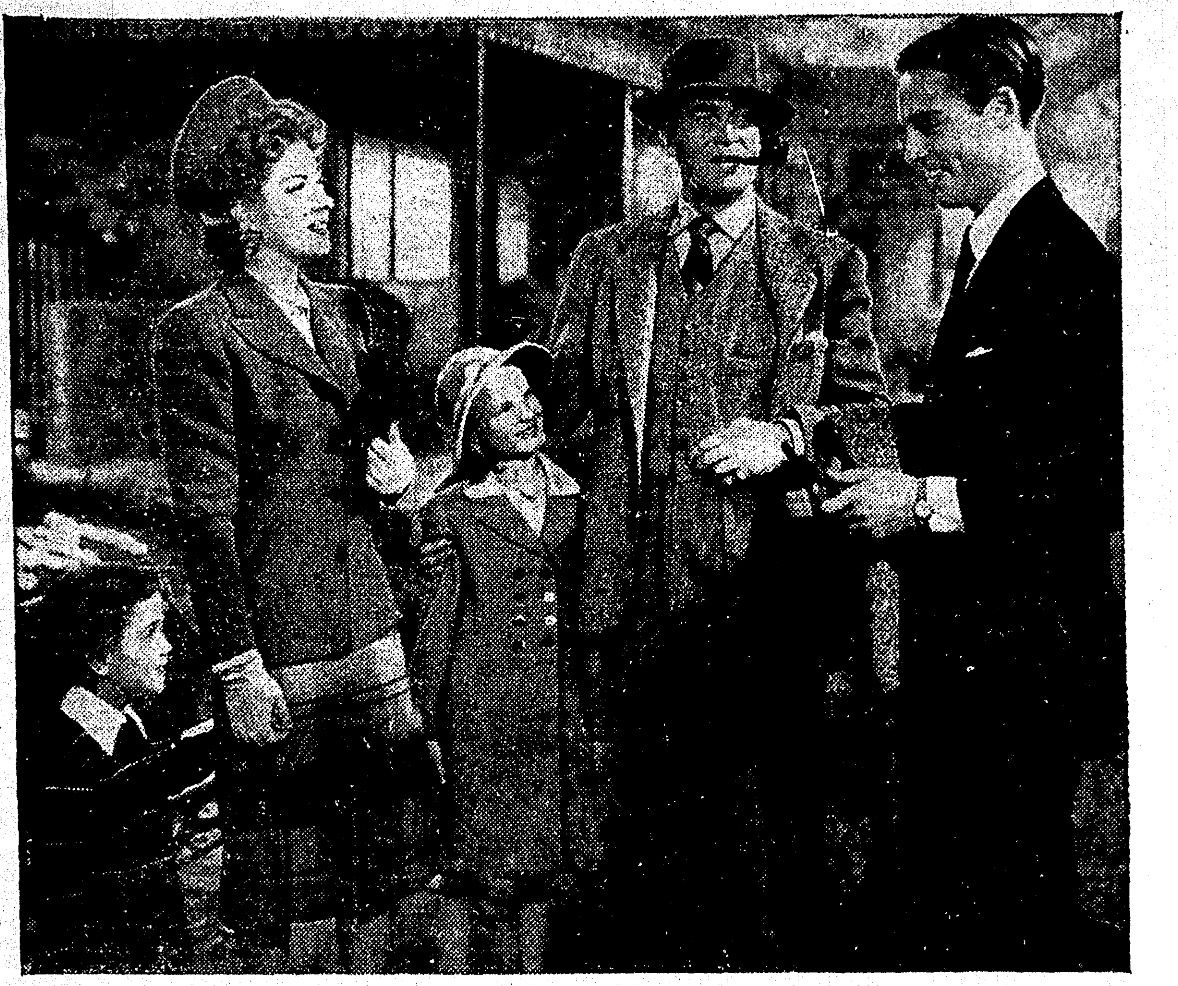
'Mrs. Miniver' Coming To Paramount On Wednesday



This outstanding trio composed of Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Colman are all together in "The Talk of the Town" playing today through Tuesday at the Paramount theater. Glenda Farrell and Tom Tyler are important supporting players.

Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, noted stars who scored such a terrific success in "Blossoms in the Dust," return to the Paramount theater to portray the principal characters of Jan Struther's celebrated novel, "Mrs. Miniver," opening Wednesday for four days. At the left is the Miniver family, an average middle class English family living an average, peaceful existence before war overtakes them. At right, Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, the lovable Minivers whose wartime courage rivals that of the bravest soldiers.

IT'S TRUE! By Wiley Padan

"Gone With the Wind" opens a three days showing at the Joy Tuesday.

Hilarity and homicide are combined in one of the fastest and funniest comedy thrillers, "Night in New Orleans," starring Preston Foster, Patricia Morison and Albert Dekker, and playing at the Capitol theater Friday and Saturday.

Another great novel becomes a great hit as Barbara Stanwyck, George Brent and Geraldine Fitzgerald bring to life "The Gay Sisters," the feature playing as the midnight show at the Paramount theater next Saturday night.

'Blondie For Victory' Is At Capitol

Latest Of Series Shows Effects Of War On Famous Comic Family

THE war is affecting every family in America, one way or another. The Bumstead Family, of screen, radio and comic strip fame, is no exception.

In Columbia's "Blondie for Victory," which opens today at the Capitol Theater, the Bumsteads go all-out for defense of America's right to laugh and be happy, thereby providing themselves with more than their usual quota of hectic trouble and "Blondie" fans with more-than-usual hilarity, according to Hollywood report.

Penny Singleton continues as "Blondie," who currently is enlisting for the duration . . . of Dagwood's patience! She organizes The Housewives of America, a band of patriotic women who devote so much time to war activities that they can't be bothered with domestic morale. Thus, Dagwood is forced to shift for himself, Alexander (erstwhile Baby Dumpling), the new baby, Cookie, Daisy and her litter of six puppies. Similarly, in other homes, men who are doing important war work—building planes, drafting battleship designs, etc.—are so absorbed in domestic routine that their war work suffers.

The net result is edifying, and highly entertaining. "Blondie" eventually is brought to a true realization of just how the housewives of America can do their bit for victory, enthusiastically and effectively. The process of teaching "Blonde" a lesson is said to result in one of the most delightful of all the comedies.

In addition to the blonde star, Arthur Lake again is seen as the bewildered Dagwood, and Larry Simms appears as Alexander. Stuart Erwin heads the supporting cast, as the army's loneliest soldier who is always being kissed by such lovelies as Rita Hayworth, Betty Grable, Ann Sheridan and Ginger Rogers. He hates it!

"Blondie for Victory" was directed by Frank R. Strayer.

To maintain health, about 2,000 cubic feet of air is required every hour.

Garson And Pidgeon In Star Roles

Outstanding Film Made Of One Of Most Gripping Stories Of War

JAN STRUTHER'S best-seller, "Mrs. Miniver," heart-warming story of an average English woman, has been brought to the screen as a timely and significant motion picture, dealing as it does with the heroic courage of the British middle classes on the home front during the present war. It comes Wednesday to the Paramount theater.

The story, simply, honestly and graphically told as it might be in a dispatch from a bombed English village, is woven around the Minivers and their family. Greer Garson as Mrs. Miniver and Walter Pidgeon as her husband, Clem, are starred in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture. The film happily reunites them as the public demanded, after their outstanding performances in "Blossoms in the Dust."

Principal locales of the picture are London shortly before the war and a nearby village on the Thames, where the Minivers live in solid middle class fashion with their three children. While the picture has several spectacular wartime sequences, the rescue at Dunkirk and the bombing of the village, emphasis is placed on the reactions of these everyday people going through the horrors of war in their own homes, rather than the tragic events themselves. The Dunkirk sequence, for example, shows the non-combatant British men of the village collecting their fleet of tiny boats to rescue trapped fathers, sons and brothers across the turbulent and dangerous channel.

Teresa Wright, bright Hollywood newcomer from the New York stage success, "Life With Father," and who recently scored in "The Little Foxes," plays Carol Beldon, granddaughter of the village aristocrat. She is romantically teamed with Richard Ney, also from "Life With Father," who has the role of Vin Miniver, son of the Minivers and an R. A. F. pilot. Lady Beldon, benevolent ruler of the village, who looks down her nose at the middle classes, is portrayed by Dame May Whitty, noted English character actress. In other leading featured roles are Henry Travers as the station master and Henry Wilcoxon as the village vicar.

William Wyler, who recently gave the screen another hit in "The Little Foxes," directed, and Sidney Franklin produced.

DR. BAUR GOING TO VETERINARY MEET

Dr. H. H. Baur, local veterinarian, will attend the 79th annual meeting of the American Veterinary Medical Association held in Chicago, August 24 to 27. Headquarters will be in the Palmer House there.

An excellent program has been prepared in which science and entertainment will be featured.

Dr. Baur states that he began in 1932 to attend these annual meetings and that he has missed but one year since then of being present.

LOCAL PEOPLE TO ATTEND MEETING

A group of Twin City Kiwanians and their wives are planning to attend the Louisiana-Mississippi-West Tennessee district convention at Jackson, Miss., beginning September 6 and lasting for two days, according to plans being perfected here.

District Governor George A. Meadows, of Shreveport, has announced that it has been decided to make the program a streamlined one and to eliminate all organized or paid entertainment.

The United States, during May, 1941, exported 6,387,000 pounds of cheese to Great Britain.

'RED' KELLY MAKING GOOD IN MARINES

Of interest to a wide circle of friends locally is the news from Corporal Willard C. (Red) Kelly, who enlisted last February in the United States marine corps. He was first stationed in San Diego and he made such grades that he was selected for an advanced course as airial gunner in the aviation branch of the service in Jacksonville, Fla. He was graduated from this course the past week and his promotion and record is given as most commendable.

Mrs. I. O. Alexander, receiving this word, expects to see him shortly in Monroe on a brief furlough before he leaves for combat service.

Kelly was formerly on the staff of the Monroe Drug Company here.

GREER GARSON WALTER PIDGEON STARTING WEDNESDAY in "MRS. MINIVER"

'Mrs. Miniver' Coming To Paramount On Wednesday

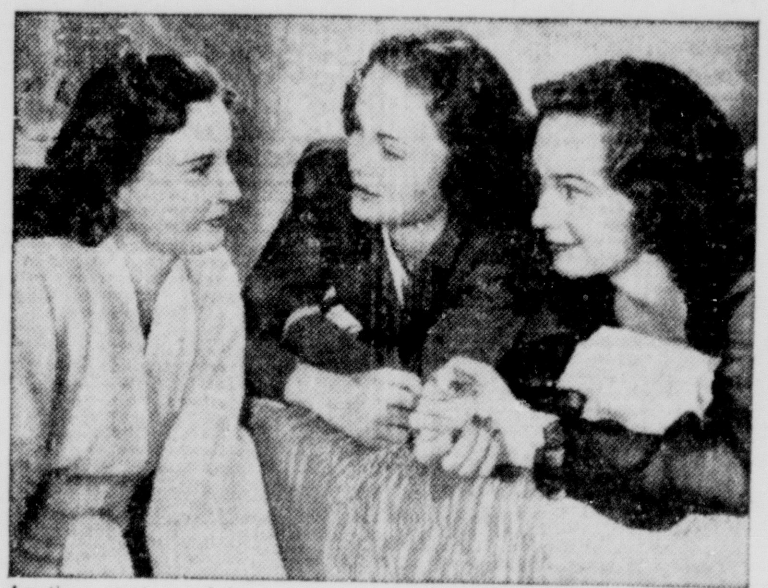
This outstanding trio composed of Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Colman are all together in "The Talk of the Town" playing today through Tuesday at the Paramount theater. Glenda Farrell and Tom Tyler are important supporting players.

Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, noted stars who scored such a terrific success in "Blossoms in the Dust," return to the Paramount theater to portray the principal characters of Jan Struther's celebrated novel, "Mrs. Miniver," opening Wednesday for four days. At the left is the Miniver family, an average middle class English family living an average, peaceful existence before war overtakes them. At right, Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, the lovable Minivers whose wartime courage rivals that of the bravest soldiers.

IT'S TRUE! By Wiley Padan

"Gone With the Wind" opens a three days showing at the Joy Tuesday.

Hilarity and homicide are combined in one of the fastest and funniest comedy thrillers, "Night in New Orleans," starring Preston Foster, Patricia Morison and Albert Dekker, and playing at the Capitol theater Friday and Saturday.



Another great novel becomes a great hit as Barbara Stanwyck, George Brent and Geraldine Fitzgerald bring to life "The Gay Sisters," the feature playing as the midnight show at the Paramount theater next Saturday night.

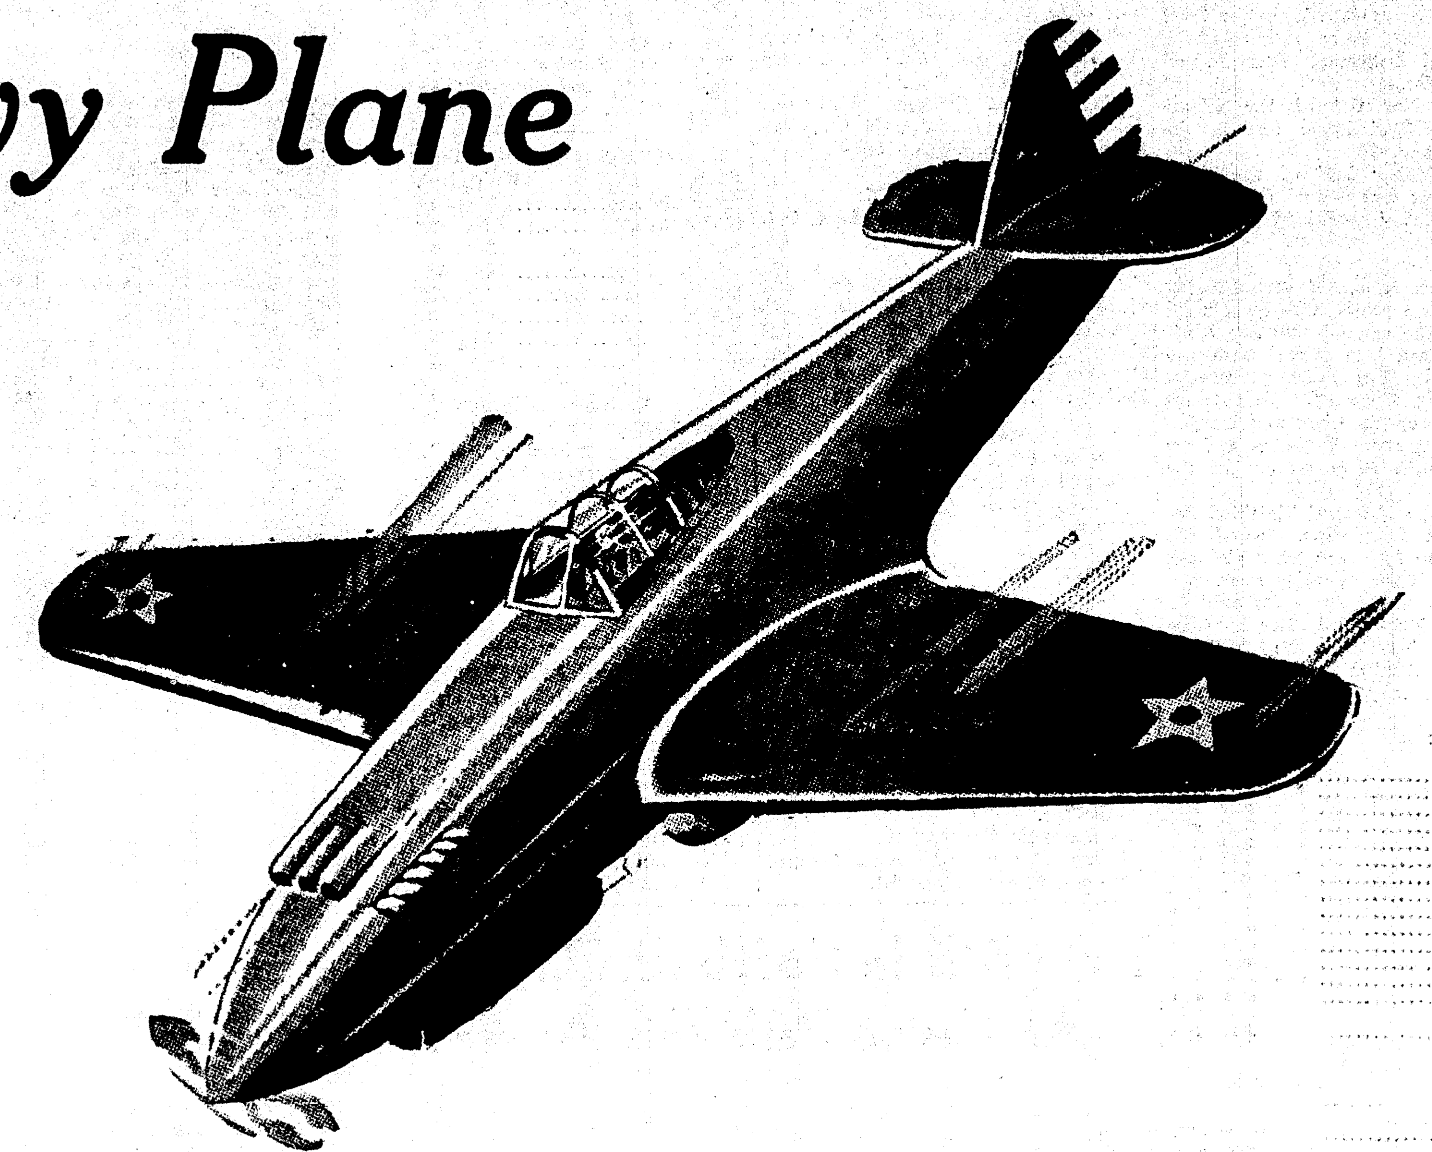
A CHALLENGE...

To Young Men Who Want To Fight For Their Country In A Navy Plane



HIGH SCHOOL GRADS ELIGIBLE

Under the navy's new program high school graduates who are between their 18th and 27th birthdays, unmarried, and in good physical condition are now eligible to apply for naval flight training. This training leads to a commission as ensign in the Naval Reserve or as second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve. Pay, with allowances, upon being commissioned amounts to approximately $300 a month. To serve your country in America's FIRST LINE OF ATTACK, and to equip yourself for a career in one of the greatest fields the world has ever known, JOIN THE NAVAL AIR CORPS TODAY!

NAVAL OFFICERS HERE

Lieutenant Guss Orr and Ensign Al Liska, members of the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board in New Orleans, arrived in Monroe late Saturday to remain until after the Flight Classification Test is given Thursday. They are anxious to answer questions pertaining to the Naval Flight Training Program and invite all interested young men to contact them at the United States Navy Recruiting Station located in the Post Office Building.

FLIGHT CLASSIFICATION TEST TO BE GIVEN

The unusual opportunity of being able to take the Flight Classification Test right here in Monroe is being offered young men of this vicinity. High school graduates who are 18 to 27, unmarried, and in good physical condition, should by all means take advantage of this opportunity. A candidate is not obligated in any way and appointment is not necessary. THE TEST WILL BE GIVEN AT THE OUACHITA PARISH HIGH SCHOOL ON THURSDAY, AUGUST 27, commencing at 10 a.m.

The test will also be given elsewhere according to the following schedule:

INDIANS WILL PLAY EIGHT-GAME SCHEDULE

DODGERS TROUNCE GIANTS, 10 TO 5, IN ABBREVIATED TILT

Game Called In Eighth; Cards Down Bucs For Eighth Win In Row

BROOKLYN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—In a game filled with heavy hitting and threatened fisticuffs, the Brooklyn Dodgers walloped the New York Giants, 10-5, today, weather bringing hostilities to an end in the top half of the eighth inning.

Kirby Higbe of the Dodgers started on the mound with Fiddler Bill McGee as his opponent, but both were chased to the showers early. The Dodgers, who scored in every inning except one, routed McGee in the third and continued their 16-hit attack against Bill Lohrman, Tom Sunkel and Ace Adams.

Manager Mel Ott of the Giants blasted his 22nd home run in the opening frame.

In the Dodger half of the sixth, Dixie Walker was retired on a sacrifice and Ott complained that the Brooklyn player attempted to knock the ball out of Mickey Witek's hands at first base. A heated verbal battle ensued but no blows were struck.

Later in the same frame Joe Medwick slid hard into second base and was retired by Witek, who was knocked sprawling. Players of both teams swarmed around the bag and Umpire Al Barlick prevented Medwick from mixing it with Billy Werber of the Giants.

McGee, who absorbed his third defeat against four wins, turned the game over to Lohrman after yielding five hits good for as many runs. The Dodgers tapped Lohrman for another run in the fourth and after he gave way to a pinch hitter in the fifth, they teed off on Sunkel in the following round when they got five hits and three runs.

Twin Bill In Softball On Tap At Casino Park This Afternoon

Softball fans of Monroe and West Monroe will be treated to a double header at Casino park this afternoon when the Kiwanis and Lions clubs clash in their annual frolic and the Seven-Up Bottlers meet Hunt and Whitaker in the first game of the twice-delayed Twilight softball league championship series.

While the Kiwanis-Lions battle may be a close game, a runaway for one club or turn into a comic farce, the Twilight battle between the Bottlers and Sports will be a dead serious affair. Both games promise to be widely different and jammed with variety.

The feuding civic clubs open the show at 4 o'clock, and the Twilight game will follow immediately after.

Both games are being played for the benefit of the United Service Organization and it was for this reason that both events were billed as a double feature with hopes of drawing a record softball crowd. Servicemen in uniform will be admitted free.

The Lions' club, boasting of never having been beaten by the Kiwanis or any other civic organization of Monroe, has not decided on a lineup but A. R. Wisenbaker, spokesman for the club, declared every member of his organization was a potential player and that it would be a rough afternoon for the Kiwanis regardless of whom the Lions used.

The Lions club roster was announced as M. G. Moore, Shelby Cage, R. L. Wood, J. C. Loftin, P. E. Massey, L. F. Landry, A. B. Clarkson, W. H. Anders, R. O. Ware, Tom Monk, J. Norman Coon, Owen McCleary, E. W. Cruse, A. T. Givens, S. W. Davis, Howard Griffin, E. C. Gibson, L. E. Mathis, G. L. Mahoney, Wisenbaker, George Holland, B. B. Logan, A. N. Robinson, P. M. Edwards, E. F. Kenny, Bernard Levi, F. Strauss, Roy Q. Cole, Allen Ritter, W. D. Ross, F. P. Cerniglia, O. E. Gilcrease, Edgar Masur, C. R. Tidwell, Ed Pierce, E. R. Norton, Sam Campbell, Travis Shannon, C. J. Moseley, Joe Combs, F. J. Cox, W. C. Oliver, H. B. Ryland, Rev. R. T. Watson, H. R. Arlig, C. P. Brogan, William McCain, P. A. Poag, Allen West, A. G. Olcott, T. H. Woods, W. W. Chapman, Lee Hodges, J. W. Keene, Bobby Pappas, Ed Apperson, Bob Ellington, E. F. Jones, Joe Kusin, Dwight Petty, Dan Mingledorff, Dr. P. L. Perot and Bob Burns.

Others listed as Kiwanis talent are Doneel Weil, Armand Breard, Jack Russell, H. J. Barham, "Buddy" Madison, Seymour Solomon, Ray Updegraff and Bill Webb.

The Seven-Up and Hunt and Whitaker game will be the first battle of a five-game series to determine the Twilight titlist. The first team winning three games will win the crown held last year by United Gas. The game scheduled today has been postponed twice because of rain.

Probable lineups are:

LEAVE TO JOIN TEAM

YANKEES SQUEEZE OUT 1-TO-0 VICTORY OVER WASHINGTON

Borowy Takes Twelfth Mound Triumph; Red Sox In Double Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The New York Yankees squeezed out a 1-0 decision over the Washington Senators today as Fordham Hank Borowy shaded Alejandro Carrasquel in an airtight pitching duel to hank up his 12th victory of the season against only two setbacks.

Borowy, however, needed the halp of a perfect throw by Joe DiMaggio to choke off a ninth inning rally in which the Senators loaded the bases on a walk and two of their three hits of the day.

Carrasquel, only Venezuelan hurler in the majors, tossed a four-hitter at the American league leaders and snapped their home run streak at 13 straight games, during which they blasted 17 four-baggers.

The South American watched his own five-game winning streak come to an end when the Yanks pushed over the only tally in the second frame without getting the ball out of the infield.

Coaching Profession Taking Annual Pre-Season Weep, But Prospects Of Banner Year At The Ticket Window Good Despite The Auto Situation

By Romney Wheeler

ATLANTA, Aug. 22.—(AP)—While the coaching profession takes time out for its annual pre-season weep, you will pardon the business office for a whoop of delight. And here is why:

Gasoline and tire rationing notwithstanding, the ticket wicket looks for a football boom this season in the Deep South, with gates probably exceeding 1941, when 12 Southeastern conference schools drew a total of 1,072,098 paid customers.

Georgia, which last season drew 68,000 fans in four home games, reports advance ticket sales well ahead of 1941 for its home games and prospects of sell-outs on the road. The Orange Bowl champions meet Furman at Athens October 3, Tulane October 17, Georgia Tech November 28, and Alabama in Atlanta October 31. Sell-outs with from 14,000 to 22,000 are expected for the Georgia-Jacksonville naval air station game at Macon September 26, the Georgia-Florida engagement in Jacksonville November 7, and the Georgia-Auburn go at Columbus Nov. 21. At Louisville a sell-out is likely for the Georgia-Kentucky opener September 19, with probably 18,000 persons in Manual stadium.

Fireball Frankie Sinkwich, Georgia's All-American from Ohio, is expected to boost the gate when the Bulldogs play at Cincinnati October 24, and a booming attendance is certain when Georgia and Mississippi collide at Memphis October 10.

Alabama, where advance ticket sales have been delayed by schedule revisions, says 1942 attendance "should be as good, if not better, than last season" when the Crimson Tide played to 85,000 in six home stands. This year the Cotton Bowl champions play seven games for Alabamians, meeting Southwestern Louisiana institute at Montgomery the night of September 26, Pensacola naval air station at Mobile October 19, Tennessee at Birmingham October 17, Vanderbilt at Birmingham November 21, the Aathens (Ga.) naval pre-flight school at Birmingham November 28, Mississippi State at Tuscaloosa October 3 and South Carolina at Tuscaloosa November 7.

'Bama officials look for sell-outs when the Tide and Georgia meet at Grant field, Atlanta, and when 'Bama plays Kentucky at Lexington October 24.

Jack Meagher, head coach and athletic director of Auburn, says ticket requests for the Tigers' home games are greater than at this time last year, and looks for an attendance boom if the 1942 team lives up to advance rating as one of the best developed at The Plains. Auburn, which last season played to 67,945 in six games, opens against Chattanooga at Montgomery, Ala., the night of September 18; plays Villanova at Montgomery October 23 in another night game; meets Mississippi State at Birmingham October 31, Athens pre-flight school at Columbus November 7, Louisiana State at Birmingham November 14, Georgia at Columbus November 21, and Clemson at Auburn November 28.

Florida, which drew 74,505 paid customers at six home games in 1941, reports advance orders off 20 per cent, but hopes to boost its attendance with two games this year at Jacksonville—the Jacksonville naval air station September 19, and the University of Georgia November 7. The 'Gators meet Randolph-Macon at Gainesville September 26, Auburn October 10, and Mississippi State in homecoming October 24.

SEEK TO ARRANGE MORE RING BOUTS

Greenville, Barksdale, Camp Polk Teams Sought For Monroe Mittmen

Monroe's amateur boxers, who polished off the 628th Tank Destroyers of Camp Livingston, 5 to 3, here Friday night, may have another match ready for them next Friday if present plans materialize.

Committeemen handling promotion of the local fistic cards for the benefit of the United Service organization's recreation fund last night said negotiations were underway with the Greenville Army Flyers of Greenville, Miss., Barksdale's Flyers of Shreveport, and Camp Polk battlers.

Efforts are also being made to schedule another meeting with the Camp Livingston aggregation which gave local battlers one of the most impressive performances seen in a boxing ring here for some time.

Major William P. Davis, former Princeton athlete, and First Lieutenant John S. Wright, who made possible the visit of the Camp Livingston aggregation here, were commended yesterday by local USO committeemen for the type of athletic teams they have sent here under the supervision of Corporal Joseph Ryan, morale officer.

"If the baseball and boxing teams sent here by Major Davis and Lieutenant Wright are anything near a sample of the Tank Destroyers as a whole then we'll welcome any member of that outfit here any day in the week," Matchmaker Herbert Fink stated. "The Camp Livingston athletes have proved themselves good, clean sportsmen."

Matchmaker Fink said it was hoped that the Tank Destroyers could be back in Monroe for another boxing card on the night of Labor Day, September 7. The locals also wish to visit army camps of this area and said it was hoped Major Davis and Lieutenant Wright would be able to find a date for them at Livingston before manuevers stop some of their present activities.

Meanwhile the local mitt squad will continue its workouts with hopes of attaining the best condition possible and any boys of Monroe or West Monroe desiring to try for the team are welcome to meet with Trainer Sam Jones in workouts at Neville High school.

The team at the present includes E. B. Peddy, 118; Tom King, 126; Harold Cornett, 135; "Shady" Wall, 145; Ben Davis, 145; Lawrence Hunnicutt, 150; Milas Roy, 155; and Vaughan Payne, 175.

Committeemen handling affairs of the team on a non-profit basis are Walter Kellogg, D. S. Silverstein, A. N. Wisenbaker, George V. Lofton, W. D. Ross and Guy Corley. With the exception of the deduction of traveling expenses for visiting teams, all proceeds of matches here go to the USO recreation fund. The local boxers are fighting "for fun" and all, with the exception of one of two instances, have had previous ring experience as high school boxers.

SEGURA TO MEET MULLOY IN GRASS COURT FINALS

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Little Francisco Segura of Ecuador, gained the first important grass court final of his tennis career today when he overwhelmed unseeded Harrison Everett of Jacksonville, Fla., 6-2, 6-0, 7-5 in the 48th Longwood Bowl tournament.

The South American will engage the top-seeded Gardner Mulloy of Miami in tomorrow's final.

LOUEY WHITMAN NEW COACH OF BULLDOGS

Takes Place At Southwestern Vacated By Mitchell

LAFAYETTE, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Southwestern Louisiana institute announces the appointment of Coach Louey Whitman as head football coach for the duration of the war, filling the place left vacant by Coach John Cain, who is now a lieutenant in the naval reserve, and Line Coach George "Gee" Mitchell, who succeeded Coach Cain and who is now in the army.

Coach Whitman played football at Louisiana Tech and at the University of Wyoming and has been coach at Lafayette High school for the past 14 years. He takes over his duties immediately.

Announcement is also made of the appointment of Coach Bill Stevenson as line coach, succeeding Mitchell. Stevenson, a former Southwestern player, was mentioned as a Little All-America player, and was All-S. I. A. A. guard for two years while at Southwestern. He received the B. A. degree from Southwestern in 1939. Since that time he has been coach at Slidell, La. He will take over his duties Sunday.

PURITY CODE INVOKED AGAINST U. OF IDAHO

MOSCOW, Idaho, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Because coaches visited them in their homes before they enrolled as students, 11 University of Idaho athletes have been declared ineligible for Pacific Coast conference competition this season.

Commissioner Edwin N. Atherton of the conference disclosed the ruling yesterday. George W. Greene, University of Idaho athletic director, said the purity code was invoked because "we were too enthusiastic."

The coaches overlooked a point in the code when they visited prospective students during a tour of the state in 1941, he explained. He said the school will not protest the ruling.

Miss Padgett Is Defeated In Meet

GRIFFIN, Ga., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Florence Camp, of Atlanta, defending state champion, advanced to the semi-finals in the upper bratket of the woman's singles in the Georgia State Tennis tournament here today.

She defeated Louise Fowler, of Covington, 6-0, 2-6, 6-4.

Miss Camp is scheduled to meet Mrs. Gladys Atkinson of Atlanta, who advanced to the semi-finals by eliminating Miss Charlotte Padgett, of Monroe, La., 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Finals in the tournament are scheduled for Sunday afternoon at municipal courts here.

TRIBESMEN SLATE SEVEN OF TILTS ON BROWN FIELD

Coach Malone Seeks To Land All Games Here; Twelve Lettermen Back

Northeast Junior college of L. S. U. will begin production of its twelfth edition of its football team here September 1, and Coach James L. Malone last night announced an eight-game schedule with Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas teams which will open September 25 with Kilgore Junior college here.

The Indian schedule was to have been a nine-game affair, but the Redskins lost one prospective foe when the Keesler Field Flyers last week cancelled their entire grid schedule that included games with Ole Miss, Mississippi State, Pittsburgh, Oklahoma and Davidson.

The game with Keesler field had been slated for October 16 at Biloxi, Miss. Whether or not the date will be filled by some other eleven is uncertain.

The schedule as announced by Coach Malone:

Sept. 25—Kilgore college, here.
Oct. 3—Henderson State at Arkadelphia, Ark.
Oct. 9—Copiah-Lincoln, here.
Oct. 16—Open.
Oct. 23—Southeastern Louisiana, here.
Oct. 31—Tulane freshmen, here.
Nov. 6—Lamar college, here.
Nov. 13—Open.
Nov. 20—Sunflower Jr. college, here.
Nov. 27—East Mississippi Jr. college, here.

Seven of the eight scheduled games will be played in Monroe and there is a possibility that the Tribe will play all its games at Brown field. The game at Arkadelphia, Ark., with the Henderson State Teachers is the only skirmish on tap away from home, and Coach Malone said efforts were being made to bring that date here also.

Centenary Frosh, Hinds Junior college, Northwest Mississippi, East Central Mississippi and the United States Naval Flyers of Pensacola are missing from the slate this year but their places are well filled by Tulane freshmen, Lamar college, Sunflower college and East Mississippi.

Candidates for the 1942 eleven have already been notified to report to training September 1. Prospects have also been advised to report in good physical condition with regard to legs, arms and wind as Coach Malone plans

DODGERS TROUNCE GIANTS, 10 TO 5, IN ABBREVIATED TILT

Game Called In Eighth; Cards Down Bucs For Eighth Win In Row

BROOKLYN, Aug. 22.—(AP)—In a game filled with heavy hitting and threatened fisticuffs, the Brooklyn Dodgers walloped the New York Giants, 10-5, today, weather bringing hostilities to an end in the top half of the eighth inning.

Kirby Higbe of the Dodgers started on the mound with Fiddler Bill McGee as his opponent, but both were chased to the showers early. The Dodgers, who scored in every inning except one, routed McGee in the third and continued their 16-hot attack against Bill Lohrman, Tom Sunkel and Ace Adams.

Manager Mel Ott of the Giants blasted his 22nd home run in the opening frame.

In the Dodger half of the sixth, Dixie Walker was retired on a sacrifice and Ott complained that the Brooklyn player attempted to knock the ball out of Mickey Witek's hands at first base. A heated verbal battle ensued but no blows were struck.

Later in the same frame Joe Medwick slid hard into second base and was retired by Witek, who was knocked sprawling. Players of both teams swarmed around the bag and Umpire Al Barlick prevented Medwick from mixing it with Billy Werber of the Giants.

McGee, who absorbed his third defeat against four wins, turned the game over to Lohrman after yielding five hits good for as many runs. The Dodgers tapped Lohrman for another run in the fourth and after he gave way to a pinch hitter in the fifth, they teed off on Sunkel in the following round when they got five hits and three runs.

Twin Bill In Softball On Tap At Casino Park This Afternoon

Softball fans of Monroe and West Monroe will be treated to a double header at Casino park this afternoon when the Kiwanis and Lions clubs clash in their annual frolic and the Seven-Up Bottlers meet Hunt and Whitaker in the first game of the twice-delayed Twilight softball league championship series.

While the Kiwanis-Lions battle may be a close game, a runaway for one club or turn into a comic farce, the Twilight battle between the Bottlers and Sports will be a dead serious affair. Both games promise to be widely different and jammed with variety.

The feuding civic clubs open the show at 4 o'clock, and the Twilight game will follow immediately after.

Both games are being played for the benefit of the United Service Organization and it was for this reason that both events were billed as a double feature with hopes of drawing a record softball crowd. Servicemen in uniform will be admitted free.

The Lions' club, boasting of never having been beaten by the Kiwanis or any other civic organization of Monroe, has not decided on a lineup but A. R. Wisenbaker, spokesman for the club, declared every member of his organization was a potential player and that it would be a rough afternoon for the Kiwanis regardless of whom the Lions used.

The Lions club roster was announced as M. G. Moore, Shelby Cage, R. L. Wood, J. C. Loftin, P. E. Massey, L. P. Landry, A. B. Clarkson, W. H. Anders, R. O. Ware, Tom Monk, J. Norman Coon, Owen McCleary, E. W. Cruse, A. T. Givens, S. W. Davis, Howard Griffin, E. C. Gibson, L. E. Mathis, G. L. Mahoney, Wisenbaker, George Holland, B. B. Logan, A. N. Robinson, P. M. Edwards, E. F. Kenny, Bernard Levi, F. Strauss, Roy Q. Cole, Allen Ritter, W. D. Ross, F. P. Cerniglia, O. E. Gilcrease, Edgar Masur, C. R. Tidwell, Ed Pierce, E. R. Norton, Sam Campbell, Travis Shannon, C. J. Moseley, Joe Combs, F. J. Cox, W. C. Oliver, H. B. Ryland, Rev. R. T. Watson, H. R. Arlig, C. P. Brogan, William McCain, P. A. Poag, Allen West, A. G. Olcott, T. H. Woods, W. W. Chapman, Lee Hodges, J. W. Keene, Bobby Pappas, Ed Apperson, Bob Ellington, E. F. Jones, Joe Kusin, Dwight Petty, Dan Mingledorff, Dr. P. L. Perot and Bob Burns.

Others listed as Kiwanis talent are Doneel Weil, Armand Breard, Jack Russell, H. J. Barham, "Buddy" Madison, Seymour Solomon, Ray Updegraff and Bill Webb.

The Seven-Up and Hunt and Whitaker game will be the first battle of a five-game series to determine the Twilight titlist. The first team winning three games will win the crown held last year by United Gas. The game scheduled today has been postponed twice because of rain.

Probable lineups are:

LEAVE TO JOIN TEAM

YANKEES SQUEEZE OUT 1-TO-0 VICTORY OVER WASHINGTON

Borowy Takes Twelfth Mound Triumph; Red Sox In Double Win

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—The New York Yankees squeezed out a 1-0 decision over the Washington Senators today as Fordham Hank Borowy shaded Alejandro Carrasquel in an airtight pitching duel to hank up his 12th victory of the season against only two setbacks.

Borowy, however, needed the halp of a perfect throw by Joe DiMaggio to choke off a ninth inning rally in which the Senators loaded the bases on a walk and two of their three hits of the day.

Carrasquel, only Venezuelan hurler in the majors, tossed a four-hitter at the American league leaders and snapped their home run streak at 13 straight games, during which they blasted 17 four-baggers.

The South American watched his own five-game winning streak come to an end when the Yanks pushed over the only tally in the second frame without getting the ball out of the infield.

SEEK TO ARRANGE MORE RING BOUTS

Greenville, Barksdale, Camp Polk Teams Sought For Monroe Mittmen

Monroe's amateur boxers, who polished off the 628th Tank Destroyers of Camp Livingston, 5 to 3, here Friday night, may have another match ready for them next Friday if present plans materialize.

Committeemen handling promotion of the local fistic cards for the benefit of the United Service organization's recreation fund last night said negotiations were underway with the Greenville Army Flyers of Greenville, Miss., Barksdale's Flyers of Shreveport, and Camp Polk battlers.

Efforts are also being made to schedule another meeting with the Camp Livingston aggregation which gave local battlers one of the most impressive performances seen in a boxing ring here for some time.

Major William P. Davis, former Princeton athlete, and First Lieutenant Joan S. Wright, who made possible the visit of the Camp Livingston aggregation here, were commended yesterday by local USO committeemen for the type of athletic teams they have sent here under the supervision of Corporal Joseph Ryan, morale officer.

"If the baseball and boxing teams sent here by Major Davis and Lieutenant Wright are anything near a sample of the Tank Destroyers as a whole then we'll welcome any member of that outfit here any day in the week," Matchmaker Herbert Fink stated. "The Camp Livingston athletes have proved themselves good, clean sportsmen."

Matchmaker Fink said it was hoped that the Tank Destroyers could be back in Monroe for another boxing card on the night of Labor Day, September 7. The locals also wish to visit army camps of this area and said it was hoped Major Davis and Lieutenant Wright would be able to find a date for them at Livingston before manuevers stop some of their present activities.

Meanwhile the local mitt squad will continue its workouts with hopes of attaining the best condition possible and any boys of Monroe or West Monroe desiring to try for the team are welcome to meet with Trainer Sam Jones in workouts at Neville High school.

The team at the present includes E. B. Peddy, 118; Tom King, 126; Harold Cornett, 135; "Shady" Wal', 145; Ben Davis, 145; Lawrence Hunnicutt, 150; Milas Roy, 155; and Vaughan Payne, 175.

Committeemen handling affairs of the team on a non-profit basis are Walter Kellogg, D. S. Silverstein, A. N. Wisenbaker, George V. Lofton, W. D. Ross and Guy Corley. With the exception of the deduction of traveling expenses for visiting teams, all proceeds of matches here go to the USO recreation fund. The local boxers are fighting "for fun" and all, with the exception of one of two instances, have had previous ring experience as high school boxers.

The South American will engage the top-seeded Gardner Mulloy of Miami in tomorrow's final.

Business Office Whoops: S'east Loop In For Boom At Box Office

By Romney Wheeler

ATLANTA, Aug. 22.—(AP)—While the coaching profession takes time out for its annual pre-season weep, you will pardon the business office for a whoop of delight. And here is why:

Gasoline and tire rationing notwithstanding, the ticket wicket looks for a football boom this season in the Deep South, with gates probably exceeding 1941, when 12 Southeastern conference schools drew a total of 1,072,098 paid customers.

Georgia, which last season drew 68,000 fans in four home games, reports advance ticket sales well ahead of 1941 for its home games and prospects of sell-outs on the road. The Orange Bowl champions meet Furman at Athens October 3, Tulane October 17, Georgia Tech November 28, and Alabama in Atlanta October 31. Sell-outs with from 14,000 to 22,000 are expected for the Georgia-Jacksonville naval air station game at Macon September 26, the Georgia-Florida engagement in Jacksonville November 7, and the Georgia-Auburn go at Columbus Nov. 21. At Louisville a sell-out is likely for the Georgia-Kentucky opener September 19, with probably 18,000 persons in Manual stadium.

Fireball Frankie Sinkwich, Georgia's All-American from Ohio, is expected to boost the gate when the Bulldogs play at Cincinnati October 24, and a booming attendance is certain when Georgia and Mississippi collide at Memphis October 10.

Alabama, where advance ticket sales have been delayed by schedule revisions, says 1942 attendance "should be as good, if not better, than last season" when the Crimson Tide played to 85,000 in six home stands. This year the Cotton Bowl champions play seven games for Alabamians, meeting Southwestern Louisiana institute at Montgomery the night of September 26, Pensacola naval air station at Mobile October 19, Tennessee at Birmingham October 17, Vanderbilt at Birmingham November 21, the Aathens (Ga.) naval pre-flight school at Birmingham November 28, Mississippi State at Tuscaloosa October 3 and South Carolina at Tuscaloosa November 7.

'Bama officials look for sell-outs when the Tide and Georgia meet at Grant field, Atlanta, and when 'Bama plays Kentucky at Lexington October 24.

Jack Meagher, head coach and athletic director of Auburn, says ticket requests for the Tigers' home games are greater than at this time last year, and looks for an attendance boom if the 1942 team lives up to advance rating as one of the best developed at The Plains. Auburn, which last season played to 67,945 in six games, opens against Chattanooga at Montgomery, Ala., the night of September 18; plays Villanova at Montgomery October 23 in another night game; meets Mississippi State at Birmingham October 31, Athens pre-flight school at Columbus November 7, Louisiana State at Birmingham November 14, Georgia at Columbus November 21, and Clemson at Auburn November 28.

Florida, which drew 74,505 paid customers at six home games in 1941, reports advance orders off 20 per cent, but hopes to boost its attendance with two games this year at Jacksonville—the Jacksonville naval air station September 19, and the University of Georgia November 7. The 'Gators meet Randolph-Macon at Gainesville September 26, Auburn October 10, and Mississippi State in homecoming October 24.

LOUEY WHITMAN NEW COACH OF BULLDOGS

Takes Place At Southwestern Vacated By Mitchell

LAFAYETTE, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Southwestern Louisiana institute announces the appointment of Coach Louey Whitman as head football coach for the duration of the war, filling the place left vacant by Coach John Cain, who is now a lieutenant in the naval reserve, and Line Coach George "Gee" Mitchell, who succeeded Coach Cain and who is now in the army.

Coach Whitman played football at Louisiana Tech and at the University of Wyoming and has been coach at Lafayette High school for the past 14 years. He takes over his duties immediately.

Announcement is also made of the appointment of Coach Bill Stevenson as line coach, succeeding Mitchell. Stevenson, a former Southwestern player, was mentioned as a Little All-America player, and was All-S. I. A. A. guard for two years while at Southwestern. He received the B. A. degree from Southwestern in 1939. Since that time he has been coach at Slidell, La. He will take over his duties Sunday.

PURITY CODE INVOKED AGAINST U. OF IDAHO

MOSCOW, Idaho, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Because coaches visited them in their homes before they enrolled as students, 11 University of Idaho athletes have been declared ineligible for Pacific Coast conference competition this season.

Commissioner Edwin N. Atherton of the conference disclosed the ruling yesterday. George W. Greene, University of Idaho athletic director, said the purity code was invoked because "we were too enthusiastic."

The coaches overlooked a point in the code when they visited prospective students during a tour of the state in 1941, he explained. He said the school will not protest the ruling.

Miss Padgett Is Defeated In Meet

GRIFFIN, Ga., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Florence Camp, of Atlanta, defending state champion, advanced to the semi-finals in the upper bracket of the woman's singles in the Georgia State Tennis tournament here today.

She defeated Louise Fowler, of Covington, 6-0, 2-6, 6-4.

Miss Camp is scheduled to meet Mrs. Gladys Atkinson of Atlanta, who advanced to the semi-finals by eliminating Miss Charlotte Padgett, of Monroe, La., 3-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Finals in the tournament are scheduled for Sunday afternoon at municipal courts here.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Coming around on the outside in the stretch, Ella K. Bryson's Mercury won the $5,000 Walt Whitman handicap for two-year-olds at Garden State Park today.

TRIBESMEN SLATE SEVEN OF TILTS ON BROWN FIELD

Coach Malone Seeks To Land All Games Here; Twelve Lettermen Back

Northeast Junior college of L. S. U. will begin production of its twelfth edition of its football team here September 1, and Coach James L. Malone last night announced an eight-game schedule with Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas teams which will open September 25 with Kilgore Junior college here.

The Indian schedule was to have been a nine-game affair, but the Redskins lost one prospective foe when the Keesler Field Flyers last week cancelled their entire grid schedule that included games with Ole Miss, Mississippi State, Pittsburgh, Oklahoma and Davidson.

The game with Keesler field had been slated for October 16 at Biloxi, Miss. Whether or not the date will be filled by some other eleven is uncertain.

The schedule as announced by Coach Malone:

Sept. 25—Kilgore college, here.
Oct. 3—Henderson State at Arkadelphia, Ark.
Oct. 9—Copiah-Lincoln, here.
Oct. 16—Open.
Oct. 23—Southeastern Louisiana, here.
Oct. 31—Tulane freshmen, here.
Nov. 6—Lamar college, here.
Nov. 13—Open.
Nov. 20—Sunflower Jr. college, here.
Nov. 27—East Mississippi Jr. college, here.

Seven of the eight scheduled games will be played in Monroe and there is a possibility that the Tribe will play all its games at Brown field. The game at Arkadelphia, Ark., with the Henderson State Teachers is the only skirmish on tap away from home, and Coach Malone said efforts were being made to bring that date here also.

Centenary Frosh, Hinds Junior college, Northwest Mississippi, East Central Mississippi and the United States Naval Flyers of Pensacola are missing from the slate this year but their places are well filled by Tulane freshmen, Lamar college, Sunflower college and East Mississippi.

Candidates for the 1942 eleven have already been notified to report to training September 1. Prospects have also been advised to report in good physical condition with regard to legs, arms and wind as Coach Malone plans

All-Stars In Shape For Tilt With Bears

Fans Who Picked College Team Did A Pretty Fair Job In The Opinion Of Zuppke's Coaching Staff

By Dave Hoff

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 22—(AP)—"These all-stars," said Head Coach Bob Zuppke today, "came here in the best of condition—and look at the pep they've got. Now in the short time left we're giving them the plays they need to arm themselves for the Bears."

He looked admiringly around the mass of talent and strength trotting up and down Northwestern university's Dyche stadium practice field, preparing for Friday's game against the National Football league champions.

"Sure, we've got new plays for the Bears," Zuppke declared. "Mostly they're new variations of old formations. You can't teach a whole new system to a bunch of boys in three weeks."

By now it appears the fans who picked the college all-star starting lineup did a pretty fair job, considering they were in no position to know whether their favorites would be in shape to perform.

Of the 11 starters chosen in the nation-wide balloting, at least five are also the No. 1 selections of the coaching staff.

The remainder, while measuring up pretty well to the others, are apt to be withdrawn shortly after the kick-off in favor of reserves who have come along pretty fast.

First choice of coaches and fans alike are Guards Bernie Crimmins of Notre Dame and Bob Jeffries of Missouri, Tackle Al Blozis of Georgetown, and Halfbacks Bruce Smith of Minnesota and Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame.

Others ordered into the starting line up by command of the voting fans are Ends Mal Kutner of Texas and Charles Ringer of Minnesota, Tackle Jim Daniell of Ohio State, Center Vince Banonis of Detroit, Quarterback Dick Erdlitz of Northwestern and Fullback Jack Graf of Ohio State.

But here's what has happened:

Henry Stanton of Arizona and Holt Rast of Alabama have come along so fast at the flank positions that it looks like the greater share of those duties will fall on their shoulders.

Alf Bauman, the Northwestern strong man, may crowd Daniell out of his tackle berth once the game gets hot.

Vic Lanskog, the Stanford boy, and Bob Ingalls of Michigan have shown so much that Banonis may have a scrap convincing the coaches he should remain in the lineup.

Tom Farris of Wisconsin, living up to the faith of his college coach, Harry Stuhldreher, placed in him, is giving Erdlitz a run for his money at quarterback.

And Pounding Bob Westfall of Michigan has won favor from the coaches, periling Graf's claim on the fullback position.

HERTENBERGER TO AID MEAGHER WITH TIGERS

AUBURN, Ala., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Lou Hertenberger, former assistant football coach under Jack Meagher at Rice university, was named today as assistant coach at Auburn.

"I have been fortunate enough to obtain one of my former assistants," announced Meagher, athletic director and head football coach at Auburn. "Lou Hertenberger was one of my greatest linemen and thoroughly understands my system of play. He is in business but consented to come to Auburn for the football season and help out."

Hertenberger was a star guard under Meagher at St. Edward's university in Austin, Tex., and Meagher took him along as assistant line coach when he was named head coach at Rice university in 1928.

Meagher moved on to Auburn in 1934 but Hertenberger remained at Rice through 1940. The new Auburn coach is a native of Buckholts, Tex., and is now in the automobile business in Navasota, Tex.

TAG TEAM MATCH FEATURED ON MAT PROGRAM TUESDAY

Two Preliminary Bouts Also Will Be Presented At Local Arena

A tag team match, featuring Jack Curtis, United States light heavyweight champion; Herbie "Dutch" Schultz, the Milwaukee meanie; Rene LaBelle, speedy little French-Canadian; and Mike Fraley, the Nebraska bad man, has been slated as the main event on Tuesday night's regular wrestling card at the Monroe Wrestling arena, Promoter Gus Kallio announced last night.

The tag battle, always an action producer, will have a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

Two preliminary bouts in which LaBelle will meet Fraley and Curtis will tangle with Schultz are scheduled to open the show. Both preliminaries will be one-fall affairs, each with a 15-minute time limit.

Tag team partners in the past have been decided here in the preliminaries by matching the loser of one with the winner of the other, but regardless of how the prelims come out Tuesday the main brawl will see Curtis and LaBelle, always favorites of mat customers here, taking on Fraley and Schultz.

Tag team rules specify that only one member of a team can be in action at a time and that he steps outside the ropes each time he tags his partner in. However, it is not infrequent to have all four battlers in action at once and the most unexpected often happens in such scraps.

Schultz, the Flying Dutchman, with quite a reputation as a master of rough-and-tumble, is making his first showing here in over a year but he is well known to the mat public here. LaBelle, Montreal's flashy little man, is also back after an absence of nearly three months.

Promoter Kallio also announced last night that the "Red Mask," local amateur who issued a challenge to any amateur wrestlers within 50 miles of Monroe and weighing not more than 150 pounds, had not been matched. The Mask, who has chosen to keep his identity a secret, last week issued a challenge for an opponent for tonight. Promoter Kallio said anyone wanting to accept the challenge could do so Tuesday night and a date would be fixed for a bout in the near future

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(Wide World)—One thing the war hasn't changed is the pre-season moaning of football coaches. . . . Here's a sample from Notre Dame's Frank Leahy, as relayed by tub-thumper Joe Petritz: "If we can get past Wisconsin in the opener, we may have another representative season. We'll consider it an excellent year if we can win six or seven out of our 11 games.". . . And in compiling his new Clemson grid brochure, Joe Sherman put the data on Coach Frank Howard and his staff on perforated sheets so they could be torn out easily. . . . Sounds like a vote of no-confidence. . . But Jim Crowley, safe at the North Carolina pre-flight school, doesn't hestitate to nominate Fordham, along with Penn and Boston college, as the class of the East this Fall.

Today's Guest Star

Dale Stafford, Detroit Free Press: "Before they go too far, the 1942 crop of Detroit promoters should look up the definition of the noun probation. That's what they're on."

Jimmy Hatcher likely will fight Sammy Angott at New Orleans either September 14 or 28. . . . Saverio Turiello, another of Al Weill's scrappers, who meets Fred Apostoli on the Norfolk police fight card Monday, has had battles the last four Mondays at Richmond, New Haven, Springfield and Providence. Jackie figures he'll be in shape about September 10 and there'll be plenty of work waiting for him. . . . The guy with the big load of books down at the Norfolk naval training station is Bob Feller, who is in gunnery school now. . . . Lot of American league batters thought Bob was using a gun all along. . . . He has played in the Orange Bowl—strike one—he has played in the Rose Bowl—strike two—and he has played in the Sugar Bowl—strike three.". . . The fans loudly suggested that Maxie had better return to football.

DILDY AND DAVIDSON ARE NEW OLE MISS COACHES

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Athletic Director Harry Mehre announced today the appointment of Joe Dildy, former Alabama center, as line coach, and J. W. (Wobble) Davidson as end coach of the Mississippi Rebels.

Dildy, who played at Alabama in 1932-34, has been coach of the Blytheville (Ark.) team for the past five years. He replaces Weems O. Baskin, on leave for naval service.

Davidson, co-captain of the Rebs last season, takes the place of Vernon "Catfish" Smith, who is on army duty. Davidson's home is in Memphis, Tenn.

It was announced also that Marvin Hutson, Rebel captain in 1936, and now assistant supervisor of buildings and grounds at the university, has been named trainer and equipment manager in place of Jack Stuart, who is in the navy.

Backfield Coach Chuck Jaskwhich, also in the navy, is not expected to be replaced.

TO MEET ARCHER

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Reuben Shank, Denver welterweight, knocked out in the second round at Madison Square Garden last night by Ray Robinson, will meet Freddie Archer in Newark August 31, his manager, George Knorr, announced today. Shank also will go against Cosby Linson in New Orleans September 14.

RECORD-BREAKING 'TAKE' IS SEEN FOR ARMY-NAVY EVENT

Yankee-Senator Twin Bill Is Expected To Draw 80 Thousand Fans

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Baseball figures to make its biggest contribution to the war effort tomorrow when the World Champion New York Yankees and the Washington Senators clash in a double-header at the Yankee stadium.

Nothing has been overlooked by President Ed Barrow of the Yankees to make this the biggest ever and it wouldn't be surprising to see 80,000 fans pack the triple-decked stands and the army and navy relief funds benefit by approximately $90,000.

Like all of the major leagues' games for the armed services, not one cent will go to private enterprises. Neither ball club will get a nickel as the players, umpires, writers, ushers, etc., will join with the fans in planking down an admittance fee. The army and navy will split the proceeds 50-50.

Aiding once again to pack a stadium which his home-run power helped to build will be 47-year-old Babe Ruth, back in a Yankee uniform for the first time since 1934. He'll shoot for the right-field bleachers, his favorite parking spot in the days when he was setting home run records, between games with the great Walter Johnson doing the hurling. Billy Evans, American league umpire when Ruth and Johnson were at their peak, will be behind the plate.

And as if a double-header and the appearance of Ruth and Johnson were not enough to pack 'em in, despite a double bill at Ebbets field between the Giants and Dodgers, there'll be several field events. Rival pitchers will match slugging abilities in a fungo-hitting contest; the catchers will throw in an accuracy test and other players will match strides in a 60-yard dash and relay race.

Managers Joe McCarthy and Bucky Harris will trot out their best pitching attractions. Ernie Bonham and Sid Hudson will tangle in the first game and Veterans Red Ruffing and Bobo Newsom in the nightcap.

PINE BLUFF ASSISTANT TAKES GREENWOOD JOB

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Aug. 22.—(AP)—John Wolly, assistant coach at Pine Bluff high school last year, resigned today to become head football coach at Greenwood, Miss.

Wolly, a graduate of Hendrix college at Conway, came here at the start of the 1941 season from Altheimer, where he had considerable success with six-man football. He was an All-Arkansas collegiate basketball player in 1937 and 1938 while at Hendrix.

All-Stars In Shape For Tilt With Bears

By Dave Hoff

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 22.—(AP)—"These all-stars," said Head Coach Bob Zuppke today, "came here in the best of condition—and look at the pep they've got. Now in the short time left we're giving them the plays they need to arm themselves for the Bears."

He looked admiringly around the mass of talent and strength trotting up and down Northwestern university's Dyche stadium practice field, preparing for Friday's game against the National Football league champions.

"Sure, we've got new plays for the Bears," Zuppke declared. "Mostly they're new variations of old formations. You can't teach a whole new system to a bunch of boys in three weeks."

By now it appears the fans who picked the college all-star starting lineup did a pretty fair job, considering they were in no position to know whether their favorites would be in shape to perform.

Of the 11 starters chosen in the nation-wide balloting, at least five are also the No. 1 selections of the coaching staff.

The remainder, while measuring up pretty well to the others, are apt to be withdrawn shortly after the kick-off in favor of reserves who have come along pretty fast.

First choice of coaches and fans alike are Guards Bernie Crimmins of Notre Dame and Bob Jeffries of Missouri, Tackle Al Blozis of Georgetown, and Halfbacks Bruce Smith of Minnesota and Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame.

Others ordered into the starting line up by command of the voting fans are Ends Mal Kutner of Texas and Charles Ringer of Minnesota, Tackle Jim Daniell of Ohio State, Center Vince Banonis of Detroit, Quarterback Dick Erdlitz of Northwestern and Fullback Jack Graf of Ohio State.

But here's what has happened:

Henry Stanton of Arizona and Holt Rast of Alabama have come along so fast at the flank positions that it looks like the greater share of those duties will fall on their shoulders.

Alf Bauman, the Northwestern strong man, may crowd Daniell out of his tackle berth once the game gets hot.

Vic Linskog, the Stanford boy, and Bob Ingalls of Michigan have shown so much that Banonis may have a scrap convincing the coaches he should remain in the lineup.

Tom Farris of Wisconsin, living up to the faith of his college coach, Harry Stuhdreher, placed in him, is giving Erdlitz a run for his money at quarterback.

And Pounding Bob Westfall of Michigan has won favor from the coaches, periling Graf's claim on the fullback position.

HERTENBERGER TO AID MEAGHER WITH TIGERS

AUBURN, Ala., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Lou Hertenberger, former assistant football coach under Jack Meagher at Rice university, was named today as assistant coach at Auburn.

"I have been fortunate enough to obtain one of my former assistants," announced Meagher, athletic director and head football coach at Auburn. "Lou Hertenberger was one of my greatest linemen and thoroughly understands my system of play. He is in business but consented to come to Auburn for the football season and help out."

Hertenberger was a star guard under Meagher at St. Edward's university in Austin, Tex., and Meagher took him along as assistant line coach when he was named head coach at Rice university in 1928.

Meagher moved on to Auburn in 1934 but Hertenberger remained at Rice through 1940. The new Auburn coach is a native of Buckholts, Tex., and is now in the automobile business in Navasota, Tex.

TAG TEAM MATCH FEATURED ON MAT PROGRAM TUESDAY

Two Preliminary Bouts Also Will Be Presented At Local Arena

A tag team match, featuring Jack Curtis, United States light heavyweight champion; Herbie "Dutch" Schultz, the Milwaukee meanie; Rene LaBelle, speedy little French-Canadian; and Mike Fraley, the Nebraska bad man, has been slated as the main event on Tuesday night's regular wrestling card at the Monroe Wrestling arena, Promoter Gus Kallio announced last night.

The tag battle, always an action producer, will have a 90-minute time limit, two falls to win.

Two preliminary bouts in which LaBelle will meet Fraley and Curtis will tangle with Schultz are scheduled to open the show. Both preliminaries will be one-fall affairs, each with a 15-minute time limit.

Tag team partners in the past have been decided here in the preliminaries by matching the loser of one with the winner of the other, but regardless of how the prelims come out Tuesday the main brawl will see Curtis and LaBelle, always favorites of mat customers here, taking on Fraley and Schultz.

Tag team rules specify that only one member of a team can be in action at a time and that he steps outside the ropes each time he tags his partner in. However, it is not infrequent to have all four battlers in action at once and the most unexpected often happens in such scraps.

Schultz, the Flying Dutchman, with quite a reputation as a master of rough-and-tumble, is making his first showing here in over a year but he is well known to the mat public here. LaBelle, Montreal's flashy little man, is also back after an absence of nearly three months.

Promoter Kallio also announced last night that the "Red Mask," local amateur who issued a challenge to any amateur wrestlers within 50 miles of Monroe and weighing not more than 150 pounds, had not been matched. The Mask, who has chosen to keep his identity a secret, last week issued a challenge for an opponent for tonight. Promoter Kallio said anyone wanting to accept the challenge could do so Tuesday night and a date would be fixed for a bout in the near future.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(Wide World)—One thing the war hasn't changed is the pre-season moaning of football coaches. . . . Here's a sample from Notre Dame's Frank Leahy, as relayed by tub-thumper Joe Petritz: "If we can get past Wisconsin in the opener, we may have another representative season. We'll consider it an excellent year if we can win six or seven out of our 11 games." . . . And in compiling his new Clemson grid brochure, Joe Sherman put the data on Coach Frank Howard and his staff on perforated sheets so they could be torn out easily. . . . Sounds like a vote of no-confidence. . . . But Jim Crowley, safe at the North Carolina pre-flight school, doesn't hestitate to nominate Fordham, along with Penn and Boston college, as the class of the East this Fall.

Today's Guest Star

Dale Stafford, Detroit Free Press: "Before they go too far, the 1942 crop of Detroit promoters should look up the definition of the noun probation. That's what they're on."

Among the fliers aboard those Flying Fortresses that raided Rouen last Monday were Lieutenant Tom Borders, tackle on Alabama's 1938 Rose Bowl team, Sergeant Kent R. West, former West Blocton, Ala., high school backfield man, and Captain William B. Musselwhite, former Mississippi State tackle. . . Are ya listenin' Gene Tunney?. . . Jimmy Hatcher likely will fight Sammy Angott at New Orleans either September 14 or 28. . . . Saverio Turiello, another of Al Weill's scrappers, who meets Fred Apostoli on the Norfolk police fight card Monday, has had battles the last four Mondays at Richmond, New Haven, Springfield and Providence. And a week after the Apostoli bout he goes against Ralph Zannelli at Provindence again. . . . Lou Novikoff, who'll try anything Russian, slampled vodka just once. "Then I thought I had made a mistake and had drained my kerosene lamp," he explains.

Because training facilities at Mitchell Field, N. Y., are more for fliers than fighters, California Jackie Wilson had to tell Mike Jacobs he wouldn't be ready to fight Cocoa Kid at the Garden next week. Jackie figures he'll be in shape about September 10 and there'll be plenty of work waiting for him. . . . The guy with the big load of books down at the Norfolk naval training station is Bob Feller, who is in gunnery school now. . . . Lot of American league batters thought Bob was using a gun all along. . . . Georgie Kochan, the coast guard middleweight from Akron, O., will celebrate his 21st birthday Tuesday by fighting Vinnie Rossano of Brooklyn in New York's Queensboro arena. . . . When seaman 2nd class, Max Steiner, former Tennessee footballer who now is learning radio at the navy's training school at Colorado U., went to bat in a softball game the other night, the announcer gave out this way: "The boy batting now is Maxie Steiner of the University of Tennessee. He has played in the Orange Bowl—strike one—he has played in the Rose Bowl—strike two—and he has played in the Sugar Bowl—strike three." . . . The fans loudly suggested that Maxie had better return to football.

DILDY AND DAVIDSON ARE NEW OLE MISS COACHES

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Athletic Director Harry Mehre announced today the appointment of Joe Dildy, former Alabama center, as line coach, and J. W. (Wobble) Davidson as end coach of the Mississippi Rebels.

Dildy, who played at Alabama in 1932-34, has been coach of the Blytheville (Ark.) team for the past five years. He replaces Weems O. Baskin, on leave for naval service.

Davidson, co-captain of the Rebs last season, takes the place of Vernon "Catfish" Smith, who is on army duty. Davidson's home is in Memphis, Tenn.

It was announced also that Marvin Hutson, Rebel captain in 1936, and now assistant supervisor of buildings and grounds at the university, has been named trainer and equipment manager in place of Jack Stuart, who is in the navy.

Backfield Coach Chuck Jaskwhich, also in the navy, is not expected to be replaced.

TO MEET ARCHER

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Reuben Shank, Denver welterweight, knocked out in the second round at Madison Square Garden last night by Ray Robinson, will meet Freddie Archer in Newark August 31, his manager, George Knorr, announced today. Shank also will go against Cosby Linson in New Orleans September 14.

RECORD-BREAKING 'TAKE' IS SEEN FOR ARMY-NAVY EVENT

Yankee-Senator Twin Bill Is Expected To Draw 80 Thousand Fans

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Baseball figures to make its biggest contribution to the war effort tomorrow when the World Champion New York Yankees and the Washington Senators clash in a double-header at the Yankee stadium.

Nothing has been overlooked by President Ed Barrow of the Yankees to make this the biggest ever and it wouldn't be surprising to see 80,000 fans pack the triple-decked stands and the army and navy relief funds benefit by approximately $90,000.

Like all of the major leagues' games for the armed services, not one cent will go to private enterprises. Neither ball club will get a nickel as the players, umpires, writers, ushers, etc., will join with the fans in planking down an admittance fee. The army and navy will split the proceeds 50-50.

Aiding once again to pack a stadium which his home-run power helped to build will be 47-year-old Babe Ruth, back in a Yankee uniform for the first time since 1934. He'll shoot for the right-field bleachers, his favorite parking spot in the days when he was setting home run records, between games with the great Walter Johnson doing the hurling. Billy Evans, American league umpire when Ruth and Johnson were at their peak, will be behind the plate.

And as if a double-header and the appearance of Ruth and Johnson were not enough to pack 'em in, despite a double bill at Ebbets field between the Giants and Dodgers, there'll be several field events. Rival pitchers will match slugging abilities in a fungo-hitting contest; the catchers will throw in an accuracy test and other players will match strides in a 60-yard dash and relay race.

Managers Joe McCarthy and Bucky Harris will trot out their best pitching attractions. Ernie Bonham and Sid Hudson will tangle in the first game and Veterans Red Ruffing and Bobo Newsom in the nightcap.

PINE BLUFF ASSISTANT TAKES GREENWOOD JOB

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Aug. 22.—(AP)—John Wolly, assistant coach at Pine Bluff high school last year, resigned today to become head football coach at Greenwood, Miss.

Wolly, a graduate of Hendrix college at Conway, came here at the start of the 1941 season from Altheimer, where he had considerable success with six-man football. He was an All-Arkansas collegiate basketball player in 1937 and 1938 while at Hendrix.

BUSINESS OFFICE SEES GOOD YEAR

118,000 persons in six home contests last season, reports advance sales 20 per cent below 1941 but 25 per cent ahead of 1940. The Yellowjackets, opening here against Auburn September 26, meet Chattanooga on Grant Field October 10, Davidson October 17, Kentucky November 7, Alabama November 14 and Florida November 21. The traditional Tech-Georgia game this year is to be played at Athens November 28, with a probable draw of 20,000.

Kentucky, playing to a disappointing 45,242 in five home games a year ago, is jubilant over 1,000 season tickets sold already this fall against none at the same date a year ago. In addition, approximately 1,000 pasteboards have been sold by the Louisville Junior Chamber of Commerce and University of Kentucky faculty for the Georgia game at Louisville September 19. The Wildcats play Washington and Lee at Lexington, Ky., October 3, Vanderbilt October 15, Alabama October 24, asd West Virginia November 14, this season—all games which are sure to draw creditable gates.

Louisiana State's eight games at Baton Rouge attracted 147,745 fans last season, and although only six games will be played in the Tigers' home stadium this year, the business office is encouraged by the fact that the season's traditional wind-up against Tulane this year will be at L. S. U. Advance tickets are not yet on sale, but demand is expected to be brisk for contests matching L. S. U. against the Texas Aggies September 26, Mississippi State October 10, Mississippi October 17, the Athens pre-flight school October 24, and even the season's opener against Louisiana Normal September 19.

Mississippi State, unofficial champion of the conference, played one conference and two breather games at Starkville last season with a total attendance of 24,100 (including 2,100 for the Millsaps game when it poured buckets all day). This year with one of the South's top teams and three major games in addition to a warm-up opener, the Maroons look for a heavier cash-box. After meeting Union university September 26, State plays six road games and then comes home to engage Dequesne, November 21, the University of Mississippi (always a sellout) November 28, asd the University of San Francisco at Memphis, December 5. Advance sales "compare favorably" with this time last year.

Mississippi drew 33,500 in two home games, including 26,000 for the Ole Miss-Mississippi State game when the two played for the conference crown. This year the Rebels meet four rivals in home games at Memphis, including Georgia October 10, Arkansas October 24, Vanderbilt November 7, and Tennessee November 14. In addition they play Memphis State Teachers at Oxford October 31. Advance tickets go on sale September 1.

Tennessee despite an up-and-down season in 1941, drew 72,188 in six home games and looks for even better attendance this year with an outstanding team matched against South Caroline September 26, Fordham October 3, Furman October 10, Dayton October 24, Louisiana State October 31, Ciscinnati November 7, and Kentucky November 21. Advance sales to date are equal to 1941. The Carolina game will be played at Columbia, S. C.

Tulane, with a new coach and prospects of a brilliant team, looks for zooming attendance as result of New Orleans' defense industries and rapidly increasing population. Six home games last season drew 262,541, and the Green Wave this year is to meet Auburn at Tulane stadium October 3, Rice September 10, North Carolina October 24, Vanderbilt October 31, Mississippi State November 7 and the Athens pre-flight school November 14. Advance sales have been inconclusive, starting March 15 last year and July 1 this season.

At Vanderbilt Athletic Director Henry (Red) Sanders says advance sales are barely one-sixth below last year, and gate prospects good. The Commodores drew 73,332 in six games last season, and this year meet Tennessee Tech at Nashville September 26, Purdue October 3, Mississippi State October 17, Centre October 24, and Tennessee November 28.

BRETT PROMISES ONLY HARD WORK

Says 'No Glory And Glamor' In Store For New Ground Officers

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Lieutenant General George H. Brett, leader of the army aviation forces that are smashing at the Japanese in the Australian area, promised only hard work, headaches and thanklessness to an officers training class which graduated from the air forces technical training school here today.

The presence of General Brett, second in command to General MacArthur in the Southwest Pacific, was a closely guarded military secret until the moment he stepped on the platform to address the graduates.

"I am here to visit my family and to get a few days' rest," he said.

Mrs. Brett and their two daughters, Mrs. B. A. Schriever and Miss Lucille Brett, have made their home at Miami Beach since the war started. His son-in-law is serving overseas, and his son, Devol Brett, is attending West Point.

"No glory and no glamor" is in store for the new ground officers, said General Brett, yet "the man who is lucky enough to come into combat with the enemy is luckier if he has a good ground crew behind him."

One glum, monroe ground officer can "do more damage than 25 cases of malaria," he added.

"The fighting is absolutely dependent upon the ground," said the erect, strongly built officer. "You carry the load. It is a thankless job with no glory and no glamor. You will be met by a confused mass of inefficiency in some of the theaters to which you may be assigned.

"Australia has four different-gauge railroads in traveling a distance of 1,600 miles. The difficulty of supply increases many fold when you consider that your source is 6,000 miles away and the receipt of the average shipment takes from a month to six weeks."

TRIBESMEN SLATE 8 GRID CONTESTS

Coach Malone, who will be launching his ninth season here, last night said prospects for the coming campaign were "uncertain" but that he had about 25 good freshman prospects coming up and felt he would have a fairly good team.

Only a dozen lettermen from the past season are due to report. They are Ed Rhodes, end; Tommy Sands and Bill Edgar, guards; Cecil Sinclair and William Short, tackles; James Ouessenberry, center, and backs, S. E. "Shadow" Holloway, Harold Coyle, Roy Barron, Bedford Smith, Clayton "Red" Brown and Jack Bishop.

At least two brother combinations are expected to perform here this fall.

Coach Malone has had success with his brother acts in the past and is expecting to prosper with his newest hopefuls. Twin Brothers John and Sam Provenza, Mississippi All-State tackle and guard respectively, are expected here from Greenville, Miss., and the brothers Woodard and Prentiss Boyle, All-State backs last year for the Class B Talco, Tex., eleven, will be here from Jonesville where they are now making their home. The Provenza twins each weighs 200 pounds and stand six feet tall.

First brother combinations turned out by Coach Malone here were Otha and H. Cagle of El Dorado, Ark., and Frankie and Sammy Bono of Lake Charles, members of the undefeated 1935 eleven. Last year Malone had his brother act on the basketball floor, featuring Carl and Cecil Gunn of Manifest.

DEAN ALFRANGE IS A. L. P. CANDIDATE

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Opposed to the Democratic choice of Attorney General John J. Bennett for governor, the American Labor party tonight nominated Dean Alfrange, Greek-born lawyer-author, as its candidate for chief executive of New York.

The nomination by acclamation came after a protracted session during which it was reported the convention was "awaiting word from Washington."

Entrance of a third ticket in the field was assured last Thursday when Bennett, choice of State Chairman James A. Farley, was nominated over U. S. Senator James M. Mead at the Democratic state convention. Mead, described as the president's candidate, was endorsed by the ALP.

Former District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey is expected to be named the Republican candidate at that party's convention at Saratoga Springs on Monday.

Chicago: Wheat—Cent lower; hedging sales. Corn—1 1-14 to 1 3-4 lower; excellent crop weather. Cattle—Nominally steady. Hogs—Steady; quotable top $15.10.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Selected stocks continued to reach for higher levels in today's brief market proceedings although many leaders lacked recovery animation.

Aiding buying sentiment to some extent was the cheerful war news from the Pacific and the growing belief in financial circles that the united nations were getting ready for a real blast at the Nazis in Europe. In addition, broadening earnings for many companies despite taxes and other heavy costs drew attention to individual issues.

Low-priced stocks, most of which were unchanged to up a shade, came out in sizeable blocks and helped expand the two-hour volume at around 200,000 shares, one of the largest Saturday turnovers for the year to date.

Carrier bonds tilted upward and commodities were lower.

DEATHS

HARVEY MURPHY

Funeral services for Harvey Murphy, 23, who died at his home near Swartz Thursday morning, will be held some time Tuesday, pending the arrival of two brothers in military service.

Mr. Murphy is survived by his mother, Mrs. Maudie Murphy of Swartz; seven brothers, Lee, James, William, Harold, Frank, Jack and Lawrence Murphy, all of Swartz, and four sisters, Hazel, Margaret, Elsie and Cordie Murphy, all of Swartz.

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Dixie Funeral home of Monroe.

MRS. MARANDA COLE SUDDETH

Last rites for Mrs. Maranda Cole Suddeth, 68, of 405 Linderman avenue, West Monroe, who died in a local sanitarium Friday morning, were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Dixie Funeral chapel with Rev. L. T. Hastings, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Monroe, officiating. Interment followed in Riverview Burial park.

Mrs. Suddeth is survived by her husband, J. R. Suddeth; a daughter, Mrs. D. R. Pine of Monroe; three sisters, Mrs. George Guy and Mrs. J. W. Brewer of McComb, Miss., and Mrs. R. P. Epperson of Memphis, Tenn.; three brothers, J. R. Andrews of Natalbany, La., and Floyd Andrews and Emmett Andrews of McComb, and one grandchild, Mrs. R. E. Rout of New Orleans.

Pallbearers were H. J. Waller, O. A. Guess, John Bailey, N. O. Freeman, E. G. Rout and M. Frierson.

STEVE G. PHILLIPS

TALLULAH, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Funeral services for Steve G. Phillips who died at a Vicksburg hospital Wednesday night were held from the Baptist church here Friday afternoon with the Rev. Clarence Crow officiating. Burial was in Silver Cr[eek] cemetery here.

Mr. Phillips, who had resided in Tallulah for a number of years was employed at the Chicago Mill and Lumber Company as a locomotive engineer. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Surviving are his widow, two daughters, Dortha of Tallulah, and Mildr[ed] of Pine Bluff, Ark., and a son, Ste[ve] Phillips also of Pine Bluff. Th[ree] brothers, Dick of Beaumont, Jeff [of] Conroe, Tex., and Charles of Paducah, Ky., and a sister, Mrs. P. F. Mas[on] of Paducah also survive.

Pallbearers were C. F. Hobson, J. Fray, Walter Holbert, Sam Whittington of Vicksburg, Charlie Curl and H. Fisher.

118,000 persons in six home contests last season, reports advance sales 20 per cent below 1941 but 25 per cent ahead of 1940. The Yellowjackets, opening here against Auburn September 26, meet Chattanooga on Grant Field October 10, Davidson October 17, Kentucky November 7, Alabama November 14 and Florida November 21. The traditional Tech-Georgia game this year is to be played at Athens November 28, with a probable draw of 20,000.

Kentucky, playing to a disappointing 45,242 in five home games a year ago, is jubilant over 1,000 season tickets sold already this fall against none at the same date a year ago. In addition, approximately 1,000 pasteboards have been sold by the Louisville Junior Chamber of Commerce and University of Kentucky faculty for the Georgia game at Louisville September 19. The Wildcats play Washington and Lee at Lexington, Ky., October 3, Vanderbilt October 15, Alabama October 24, asd West Virginia November 14, this season—all games which are sure to draw creditable gates.

Louisiana State's eight games at Baton Rouge attracted 147,745 fans last season, and although only six games will be played in the Tigers' home stadium this year, the business office is encouraged by the fact that the season's traditional wind-up against Tulane this year will be at L. S. U. Advance tickets are not yet on sale, but demand is expected to be brisk for contests matching L. S. U. against the Texas Aggies September 26, Mississippi State October 10, Mississippi October 17, the Athens pre-flight school October 24, and even the season's opener against Louisiana Normal September 19.

Mississippi State, unofficial champion of the conference, played one conference and two breather games at Starkville last season with a total attendance of 24,100 (including 2,100 for the Millsaps game when it poured buckets all day). This year with one of the South's top teams and three major games in addition to a warm-up opener, the Maroons look for a heavier cash-box. After meeting Union university September 26, State plays six road games and then comes home to engage Dequesne, November 21, the University of Mississippi (always a sellout) November 28, asd the University of San Francisco at Memphis, December 5. Advance sales "compare favorably" with this time last year.

Mississippi drew 33,500 in two home games, including 26,000 for the Ole Miss-Mississippi State game when the two played for the conference crown. This year the Rebels meet four rivals in home games at Memphis, including Georgia October 10, Arkansas October 24, Vanderbilt November 7, and Tennessee November 14. In addition they play Memphis State Teachers at Oxford October 31. Advance tickets go on sale September 1.

Tennessee despite an up-and-down season in 1941, drew 72,188 in six home games and looks for even better attendance this year with an outstanding team matched against South Caroline September 26, Fordham October 3, Furman October 10, Dayton October 24, Louisiana State October 31, Ciscinnati November 7, and Kentucky November 21. Advance sales to date are equal to 1941. The Carolina game will be played at Columbia, S. C.

Tulane, with a new coach and prospects of a brilliant team, looks for zooming attendance as result of New Orleans' defense industries and rapidly increasing population. Six home games last season drew 262,541, and the Green Wave this year is to meet Auburn at Tulane stadium October 3, Rice September 10, North Carolina October 24, Vanderbilt October 31, Mississippi State November 7 and the Athens pre-flight school November 14. Advance sales have been inconclusive, starting March 15 last year and July 1 this season.

At Vanderbilt Athletic Director Henry (Red) Sanders says advance sales are barely one-sixth below last year, and gate prospects good. The Commodores drew 73,332 in six games last season, and this year meet Tennessee Tech at Nashville September 26, Purdue October 3, Mississippi State October 17, Centre October 24, and Tennessee November 28.

BRETT PROMISES ONLY HARD WORK

Says 'No Glory And Glamor' In Store For New Ground Officers

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Lieutenant General George H. Brett, leader of the army aviation forces that are smashing at the Japanese in the Australian area, promised only hard work, headaches and thanklessness to an officers training class which graduated from the air forces technical training school here today.

The presence of General Brett, second in command to General MacArthur in the Southwest Pacific, was a closely guarded military secret until the moment he stepped on the platform to address the graduates.

"I am here to visit my family and to get a few days' rest," he said.

Mrs. Brett and their two daughters, Mrs. B. A. Schriever and Miss Lucille Brett, have made their home at Miami Beach since the war started. His son-in-law is serving overseas, and his son, Devol Brett, is attending West Point.

"No glory and no glamor" is in store for the new ground officers, said General Brett, yet "the man who is lucky enough to come into combat with the enemy is luckier if he has a good ground crew behind him."

One glum, morose ground officer can "do more damage than 25 cases of malaria," he added.

"The fighting is absolutely dependent upon the ground," said the erect, strongly built officer. "You carry the load. It is a thankless job with no glory and no glamor. You will be met by a confused mass of inefficiency in some of the theaters to which you may be assigned.

"Australia has four different-gauge railroads in traveling a distance of 1,600 miles. The difficulty of supply increases many fold when you consider that your source is 6,000 miles away and the receipt of the average shipment takes from a month to six weeks."

to buckle down to hard work almost from the start.

Coach Malone, who will be launching his ninth season here, last night said prospects for the coming campaign were "uncertain" but that he had about 25 good freshman prospects coming up and felt he would have a fairly good team.

Only a dozen lettermen from the past season are due to report. They are Ed Rhodes, end; Tommy Sands and Bill Edgar, guards; Cecil Sinclair and William Short, tackles; James Ouessenberry, center, and backs, S. E. "Shadow" Holloway, Harold Coyle, Roy Barron, Bedford Smith, Clayton "Red" Brown and Jack Bishop.

At least two brother combinations are expected to perform here this fall.

Coach Malone has had success with his brother acts in the past and is expecting to prosper with his newest hopefuls. Twin Brothers John and Sam Provenza, Mississippi All-State tackle and guard respectively, are expected here from Greenville, Miss., and the brothers Woodard and Prentiss Boyle, All-State backs last year for the Class B Talco, Tex., eleven, will be here from Jonesville where they are now making their home. The Provenza twins each weighs 200 pounds and stands six feet tall.

First brother combinations turned out by Coach Malone here were Otha and H. Cagle of El Dorado, Ark., and Frankie and Sammy Bono of Lake Charles, members of the undefeated 1935 eleven. Last year Malone had his brother act on the basketball floor, featuring Carl and Cecil Guinn of Manifest.

DEAN ALFRANGE IS A. L. P. CANDIDATE

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Opposed to the Democratic choice of Attorney General John J. Bennett for governor, the American Labor party tonight nominated Dean Alfrange, Greek-born lawyer-author, as its candidate for chief executive of New York.

The nomination by acclamation came after a protracted session during which it was reported the convention was "awaiting word from Washington."

Entrance of a third ticket in the field was assured last Thursday when Bennett, choice of State Chairman James A. Farley, was nominated over U. S. Senator James M. Mead at the Democratic state convention. Mead, described as the president's candidate, was endorsed by the ALP.

Former District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey is expected to be named the Republican candidate at that party's convention at Saratoga Springs on Monday.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Stocks—Steady; low price issues active. Bonds—Even; rails fractionally higher. Cotton—Easy; increased hedge selling.

Chicago: Wheat—Cent lower; hedging sales. Corn—1 1-14 to 1 3-4 lower; excellent crop weather. Cattle—Nominally steady. Hogs—Steady; quotable top $15.10.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Selected stocks continued to reach for higher levels in today's brief market proceedings although many leaders lacked recovery animation.

Aiding buying sentiment to some extent was the cheerful war news from the Pacific and the growing belief in financial circles that the united nations were getting ready for a real blast at the Nazis in Europe. In addition, broadening earnings for many companies despite taxes and other heavy costs drew attention to individual issues.

Low-priced stocks, most of which were unchanged to up a shade, came out in sizeable blocks and helped expand the two-hour volume at around 200,000 shares, one of the largest Saturday turnovers for the year to date.

Carrier bonds tilted upward and commodities were lower.

MANY BILLIONS OF SEEDS SENT

Tiny Clover Seeds Flowing Out Of Oregon Into Deep South

CORVALLIS, Ore., Aug 22.—(AP)—Tiny seeds—billions upon billions of them, ready to sprout new life into fading farmlands—flowed out of Oregon today into the deep South.

Before this stream trickles out at season's end, farmers in the Southern red soil belt will have 2,300 carloads—enough to make almost 33 seventy-car freight trains—of cover crop seed rich in fertilizing nitrogen and powerful in combatting erosion.

Uncle Sam sold the Southern farmer on the idea of using cover crops primarily to curb winter erosion. But this year there's an even bigger payoff.

Commercial nitrates on which the Southern farmer depended for fertilizer are being used in war production. His domestic and foreign supply is virtually cut off.

But Oregon seeds will do the job for him. In fact, with cover crops he gains more nitrogen than if he had bought chemicals—and in better form. In addition, more widespread use of these crops means more protection from erosion.

There's more to this big deal than building up the South's land and encouraging a profitable Oregon agricultural industry this year.

Every pound the farmers in the South—Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi are the biggest users—plant means more bombs to drop on Hitler and Hirohito.

Agricultural experts say that every 35 pounds of cover crop seeds planted in the South produces a crop which, when plowed under, equals 150 pounds of commercial nitrates.

On the basis of planting Oregon's 1942 yield of 154,000,000 pounds of winter legumes, not counting rye grass, Southern farmers will be saving millions of pounds of nitrate of soda. That's enough to make a lot of bombs.

Making Southern farmers self-sufficient, restoring worn-out croplands, preventing soil erosion and contributing to the war effort go hand-in-hand this year.

The AAA engineers this vast movement of soil-saving and soil-enriching seeds between the nation's most widely separated croplands—and with mutually satisfactory results at both ends.

It guarantees good prices to Oregon farmers for raising the seed. It distributes them to Southern farmers for planting and deducts the price from their benefit payments.

In the few years since the agricultural adjustment administration started the cover crop movement, production of these seeds for the Southern states has become a major industry in Oregon.

This year's crop is the biggest ever. The legume yield is estimated at 75,000,000 pounds of Austrian winter pea seed, 36,000,000 pounds of hairy vetch, 16,000,000 pounds of common vetch, 12,000,000 pounds of Hungarian vetch, 8,000,000 pounds of Willamette (Oregon) vetch and 7,000,000 pounds of crimson clover.

On top of that, there's 30,000,000 pounds of common rye grass seed, used for clover cropping alone or in combination with the legumes.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS

Real estate transfers recorded yesterday at the office of the clerk of court of Ouachita parish were:

The Monroe Building and Loan association sold to James Allen Norris the east half of lots 7, 9 and 9, block 22, of a subdivision of T. E. Flournoy's first addition to West Monroe, for $2,500.

George Gunby sold to Scott Bradshaw lot 4, block 4, N. G. Tippit's subdivision of lot 1, section 3, township 17 north, range 3 east, for $75.

The Peoples Homestead and Savings association sold to James H. Cloyd lot 4, block 104, McHenry's part of Lea Avenue addition to Monroe, for $2,400.

H. R. Hayes sold to the Peoples Homestead and Savings association a certain plot of ground in lot 5 of the Planters Bank and Trust company's resubdivision of lot 5 and part of lot 4 of the Sanders lots in West Monroe for $2,700 and the property in turn was deeded to W. F. Lafferty for the same consideration.

● ANSWERS TO WAR QUIZ

1. It is the insignia of the 31st division.
2. O. D. (in capitals) stands for officer of the day. In small letters it means olive drab, used in connection with army clothing, paints, etc.
3. This is navy slang for a gelatine dessert with cream.

ALCOHOL DEATH RATE GIVEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Deaths from alcoholism averaged 1.9 per cent every 100,000 population in 1940, the census bureau reported today. The figure was nearly twice as great as the record low of 1920, when only one death for every 100,000 population was attributed to alcoholism, and less than half the high mark of four deaths per 100,000 in 1927 and 1928.

Long staple cotton, both domestic and foreign, has been placed under tight restrictions. Used normally in production of high-strength cotton fabrics such as balloon cloth, airplane fabrics, and typewriter ribbons, long staple cotton will be used in military fabrics such as barrage balloons, life rafts and parachute shroud lines.

MANY BILLIONS OF SEEDS SENT

Tiny Clover Seeds Flowing Out Of Oregon Into Deep South

CORVALLIS, Ore., Aug 22.—(AP)—Tiny seeds—billions upon billions of them, ready to sprout new life into fading farmlands—flowed out of Oregon today into the deep South.

Before this stream trickles out at season's end, farmers in the Southern red soil belt will have 2,300 carloads—enough to make almost 33 seventy-car freight trains—of cover crop seed rich in fertilizing nitrogen and powerful in combatting erosion.

Uncle Sam sold the Southern farmer on the idea of using cover crops primarily to curb winter erosion. But this year there's an even bigger payoff.

Commercial nitrates on which the Southern farmer depended for fertilizer are being used in war production. His domestic and foreign supply is virtually cut off.

But Oregon seeds will do the job for him. In fact, with cover crops he gains more nitrogen than if he had bought chemicals—and in better form. In addition, more widespread use of these crops means more protection from erosion.

There's more to this big deal than building up the South's land and encouraging a profitable Oregon agricultural industry this year.

Every pound the farmers in the South—Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi are the biggest users—plant means more bombs to drop on Hitler and Hirohito.

Agricultural experts say that every 35 pounds of cover crop seeds planted in the South produces a crop which, when plowed under, equals 150 pounds of commercial nitrates.

On the basis of planting Oregon's 1942 yield of 154,000,000 pounds of winter legumes, not counting rye grass, Southern farmers will be saving millions of pounds of nitrate of soda. That's enough to make a lot of bombs.

Making Southern farmers self-sufficient, restoring worn-out croplands, preventing soil erosion and contributing to the war effort go hand-in-hand this year.

The AAA engineers this vast movement of soil-saving and soil-enriching seeds between the nation's most widely separated croplands—and with mutually satisfactory results at both ends.

It guarantees good prices to Oregon farmers for raising the seed. It distributes them to Southern farmers for planting and deducts the price from their benefit payments.

In the few years since the agricultural adjustment administration started the cover crop movement, production of these seeds for the Southern states has become a major industry in Oregon.

This year's crop is the biggest ever. The legume yield is estimated at 75,000,000 pounds of Austrian winter pea seed, 36,000,000 pounds of hairy vetch, 16,000,000 pounds of common vetch, 12,000,000 pounds of Hungarian vetch, 8,000,000 pounds of Willamette (Oregon) vetch and 7,000,000 pounds of crimson clover.

On top of that, there's 30,000,000 pounds of common rye grass seed, used for clover cropping alone or in combination with the legumes.

ALCOHOL DEATH RATE GIVEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Deaths from alcoholism averaged 1.9 per cent every 100,000 population in 1940, the census bureau reported today. The figure was nearly twice as great as the record low of 1920, when only one death for every 100,000 population was attributed to alcoholism, and less than half the high mark of four deaths per 100,000 in 1927 and 1928.

Long staple cotton, both domestic and foreign, has been placed under tight restrictions. Used normally in production of high-strength cotton fabrics such as balloon cloth, airplane fabrics, and typewriter ribbons, long staple cotton will be used in military fabrics such as barrage balloons, life rafts and parachute shroud lines.

NAVAL BOARD IS TO VISIT HERE

Officials Will Contact Prospective Aviation Cadets For Four Days

Two members of the naval aviation cadet selection board of New Orleans will be in Monroe for four days, beginning Monday, August 24, to contact prospective aviation cadets, it was announced here by the local navy recruiting station.

Lieutenant Guss Orr, who heads the traveling flight board, will be accompanied by Ensign Al Liska and Yoeman John L. White. The recruiting staff will arrive here from Ruston.

According to the announcement, the naval aviation cadet selection board is looking for 500 young men in north and central Louisiana who are interested in beginning naval flight training immediately. High school graduates between 18 and 27, who are unmarried and in normal physical condition, are eligible to apply. Under a new program, candidates may take civilian pilot training as naval reservists before entering full naval instruction.

Applicants are assigned to a CPT course a near their homes as possible, with expenses paid by the government. Afterwards they are given three months' training at the University of Georgia, and later are assigned to flight training at a naval air base. The training leads to a commission as ensign in the naval reserve or second lieutenant in the marine corps reserve, with pay and allowances totaling approximately $300 a month.

The officers will interview candidates at the navy recruiting station, postoffice building, Monday through Wednesday, and will conduct flight classification tests at the Ouachita Parish High school on Thursday, August 27. Qualified young men are i vited to get in touch with them there.

PARADISE FOR SAILORS FOUND

Provided With Food, Servants, Horses And Girls To Dance With

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 22.—(AP)—Instead of spending your next shore leave in some crowded city, sailor, why not come to a peaceful estate on the Hudson river and get all the food you can eat, French servants to wait on you, horses to ride and pretty girls to dance with.

All for free! And listen: In the morning a soft-footed maid gently lowers the shades so you can sleep till noon!

A dream? No, matey, it's a dream come true. Ask the 10 bluejackets who've just finished spending such a week as guests of the Duchess of Talleyrand.

All these and more comforts of life were provided last week for the lucky members of a navy gun crew of a merchant ship who were chosen by the Third Naval District to be the first group of such weekly guests whom the Duchess has volunteered to entertain.

Known during World War I for her work in France in behalf of soldiers, the Duchess, daughter of Railroad Pioneer Jay Gould, has thrown open a guest house on the Gould estate where she now lives.

The Duchess provides everything except the dancing partners, but the navy Y. M. C. A. sees to this item.

Do the tars like it?

One day during a softball game a cautious bluejacket warned another that the grass was slippery and he might "fall down and break a leg."

"Well, that wouldn't be such a bad idea." was the prompt reply. "Maybe they'd let a guy spend a couple more months here if he did."

RUSSIAN BALLET MASTER EXPIRES

Michel Fokine, Creator Of 'The Dying Swan,' Dies In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(AP)—Michel Fokine, 64, internationally famous Russian ballet master who created "The Flying Swan" for the late Anna Pavlova, died early today.

Fokine, who was both dancer and choreographer, died in West Side hospital which he had entered Aug. 12 after contracting double pneumonia on a train returning from Mexico City, where he directed his last ballet less than two weeks ago.

One of the most noted founders of the Russian form of ballet dancing, he began his career at the theater school in Petrograd (now Leningrad) and in 1909 took his troupe to Paris where it scored his first major success.

After that he originated many ballets and with perfection of the Russian dance form by him and Sergei Diaghileff they brought it to America for triumph after triumph.

Besides "The Dying Swan," he was choreographer for other of his own ballets including "Prince Igor," "Scheherazadie," "Cleopatra, "Carnival," and "Les Sylphides," the latter another of Mme. Pavlova's great successes.

In New York, Fokine first presented his own company and then directed ballets for the Metropolitan Opera. In 1937 he staged many ballets for the De Basil Ballet Russe and also for the Ballet Russe of Monte Carlo.

Three years later he joined Mikhail Mordkin, Eugene Loring and a group of other noted choreographers in organizing the American ballet theater.

Surviving are his wife, Vera Fokine, the dancer, and their son, Vitale. Fokine lived at 170 Shonnard Terrace, Yonkers, N. Y.

ARMY WORM NOW CAUSING TROUBLE

Reports reaching the parish agent from farmers in Ouachita parish indicate that the cotton leaf worm, commonly spoken of as the army worm, has made its appearance in a number of sections in the parish.

D. L. Bornman, county agent, recommends that close watch be made for the appearance of the insect particularly in young cotton. Early outbreaks of the pest, which strip the leaves from the plants before most of the bolls harden, should be controlled. Late infestations, after the crop is nearly mature, cause little damage and are sometimes helpful by destroying food for boll weevils late in the season—the agent said.

For control—dust with calcium arsenate the same as for boll weevils using 6 to 8 pounds per acre. If a quick kill is necessary for large worms, 7 or 8 pounds of paris green should be added to each 100 pounds of calcium arsenate.

Control may also be effected by use of 7 or 8 pounds of paris green mixed with 100 pounds of slaked lime.

FARMERVILLE MAN TO FOREIGN DUTY

FARMERVILLE, La., Aug. 22.—(Special)—Lieutenant Duke Selig, United States navy reserve, spent a few days here this week before reporting for foreign duty.

After graduating June 15 from the school of indoctrination, naval air station, Quonset Point, R. I., he was assigned to a second school for training as an air combat intelligence officer.

He has now been ordered to the east coast for transportation to his next station.

Rev. R. C. Fletcher Announces Service For Grace Episcopal Church

A special evening service for the deaf will be held in Grace Episcopal church, Tuesday, August 25, at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Robert C. Fletcher, Episcopal missionary to the deaf in the southeastern states, is coming to Monroe especially for this event. Services have been held here in the past, and have proved very beneficial spiritually to the deaf, who are denied full participation in the ordinary church service of worship. Rev. Fletcher preaches in the sign language.

This will be a general service to which all denominations are invited regardless of church affiliation. Rev. Fletcher is from Birmingham, Ala. Being deaf himself he has had wide experience in this type of work.

Rev. Fletcher is a general missionary, stationed in Birmingham, Ala., by the Church Mission to the Deaf, Protestant Episcopal church, Sewanee province. He has visited Monroe in times past and is popular with a wide circle of people who always flock to services which he holds from time to time.

BIT OF BLARNEY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—There's a little bit of blarney in many of the American doughboys in Ireland. One historian computed that one-sixth of the colonial population at the time of the Declaration of Independence was Scotch-Irish. Of the 32 chief executives of the United States, Scotch-Irish ancestry is claimed for 11.

PASTOR CARRIES OUT HIS PURPOSE

Rev. Porter Lazenby, the young preacher who went to Collinston some months ago and set his suitcase down and announced that he had come to town to organize and build a Baptist church in the town, has at last succeeded.

Young Lazenby preached for two or three weeks after arriving and announced a mass meeting for one Sunday afternoon. Only three prospects for membership responded and were present. But this did not affect the morale of the young pastor at all, for he boldly announced to these three and some visitors, that the church would be organized and a building erected. Both have been done in the last weeks.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

TO ALL ELECTRICAL AND PLUMBING CONTRACTORS:

Gentlemen:

In compliance with orders from the War Production Board with respect to restrictions on the use of cooper, piping and other critical materials, no electrical permits or plumbing permits which require extension of the city's lines or which require new or additional service lines will be issued until after approval has been secured from the War Production Board, with proper priority rating.

Anyone desiring such new extensions should submit plans and specifications to the office of Commissioner of Finance and Utilities and this office will make application to the War Production Board. In the case of defense housing, applications should first be made to the Housing Authority by the owner of the property. After approval has been secured from the Housing Authority application will be made by this office for authorization to extend electric, water or sanitary sewerage service.

The above is in compliance with and pursuant to order No. P-46 of the War Production Board, as amended to date.

Trusting your usual courteous cooperation, I am

Yours very truly,

Rev. R. C. Fletcher Announces Service For Grace Episcopal Church

A special evening service for the deaf will be held in Grace Episcopal church, Tuesday, August 25, at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. Robert C. Fletcher, Episcopal missionary to the deaf in the southeastern states, is coming to Monroe especially for this event. Services have been held here in the past, and have proved very beneficial spiritually to the deaf, who are denied full participation in the ordinary church service of worship. Rev. Fletcher preaches in the sign language.

This will be a general service to which all denominations are invited regardless of church affiliation. Rev. Fletcher is from Birmingham, Ala. Being deaf himself he has had wide experience in this type of work.

Rev. Fletcher is a general missionary, stationed in Birmingham, Ala., by the Church Mission to the Deaf, Protestant Episcopal church, Sewanee province. He has visited Monroe in times past and is popular with a wide circle of people who always flock to services which he holds from time to time.

BIT OF BLARNEY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—There's a little bit of blarney in many of the American doughboys in Ireland. One historian computed that one-sixth of the colonial population at the time of the Declaration of Independence was Scotch-Irish. Of the 32 chief executives of the United States, Scotch-Irish ancestry is claimed for 11.

REV. R. C. FLETCHER

PASTOR CARRIES OUT HIS PURPOSE

Rev. Porter Lazenby, the young preacher who went to Collinston some months ago and set his suitcase down and announced that he had come to town to organize and build a Baptist church in the town, has at last succeeded.

Young Lazenby preached for two or three weeks after arriving and announced a mass meeting for one Sunday afternoon. Only three prospects for membership responded and were present. But this did not affect the morale of the young pastor at all, for he boldly announced to these three and some visitors, that the church would be organized and a building erected. Both have been done in the last few weeks.

Whalebone once sold for $10,000 a ton.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

TO ALL ELECTRICAL AND PLUMBING CONTRACTORS:

Gentlemen:

In compliance with orders from the War Production Board with respect to restrictions on the use of cooper, piping and other critical materials, no electrical permits or plumbing permits which require extension of the city's lines or which require new or additional service lines will be issued until after approval has been secured from the War Production Board, with proper priority rating.

Anyone desiring such new extensions should submit plans and specifications to the office of Commissioner of Finance and Utilities and this office will make application to the War Production Board. In the case of defense housing, applications should first be made to the Housing Authority by the owner of the property. After approval has been secured from the Housing Authority application will be made by this office for authorization to extend electric, water or sanitary sewerage service.

The above is in compliance with and pursuant to order No. P-46 of the War Production Board, as amended to date.

Trusting your usual courteous cooperation, I am

Yours very truly,

W. D. H. RODRIGUEZ,

Commissioner Finance and Utilities

SO YOU ARE OUR LITTLE REFUGEE-
YOU MUST BE VERY GLAD TO BE OVER HERE, IN THIS NICE COUNTRY-
I AM VERY HAPPY TO BE HERE, THANK YOU-
AND WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO BE WHEN YOU GROW UP, MY LITTLE MAN?
I'M GOING TO BE A GUERRILLA, BEHIND THE ENEMY LINES, THANK YOU-
HORRORS! WHY, HE'S ONLY A CHILD! WHAT DOES HE KNOW OF SUCH TERRIBLE THINGS?
DID YOU EVER?
WELL, I NEVER-
APPARENTLY HE WAS NOT VERY WELL BROUGHT UP-- DIDN'T YOUR FATHER EVER TELL YOU THAT WAR IS EVIL?
MY FATHER IS DEAD-
OH--I'M SO SORRY--BUT YOUR MOTHER SHOULD HAVE TAUGHT YOU THAT WAR IS WRONG-
MY MOTHER IS ALSO DEAD--AND MY BROTHERS AND SISTERS-- AND MY DOG, CHARLEY-- AND ALL THE OTHER PEOPLE OF OUR VILLAGE- YES--WAR IS WRONG-

SURE, AN' I GOT TO YE IN THE NICK O' TIME. THERE'S A HOLE IN THIS SCOW THE SIZE OF PADDY'S FOOT.
TIGER LILLY KNOCKED THAT HOLE IN THE BOAT, THEN TIED US UP AND PUT US ADRIFT.
TIGER LILLY, EH? FAITH, AND WHO ARE YE, LAD?
I'M JUNIOR TRACY. THERE'S TROUBLE APLENTY OVER AT TIGERREST CLUB. OH, YES — THIS IS MISS FRIZZLETOP.
GLAD TO KNOW YE. I'M DENNIS O'COPPER-OF THE HIGHWAY POLICE.
MEANWHILE, SEVERAL MILES AWAY—
WE MUST HAVE COME FIFTY MILES, TIGER. HOW MUCH FARTHER IS IT?
HEY! THOSE THINGS ARE OUT OF SEASON!
WE'VE GOT TO EAT, HAVEN'T WE?
THIS IS THE LAST PORTAGE, BOYS. THERE'S THE SHACK.
A LOT OF GOOD THAT FIFTY GRAND IS GOING TO DO US UP HERE!
PUT HIM IN THE CANOE. I'LL WALK TO THE SHACK ALONG THE SHORE.
LAD, THAT SOUNDS BAD. I'D BETTER RADIO HEADQUARTERS FOR ANOTHER SQUAD OF MEN.
AND BACK IN TIGER LILLY'S UNDERGROUND DEN, WHERE TRACY AND MR. CHANCE ARE PRISONERS.
KEEP FLAT ON THE FLOOR, MR. CHANCE. THE CARBON MONOXIDE WILL GET DOWN HERE LAST.
TAKING THE CAP OFF THE BOTTOM OF THAT WATER PIPE HAS MADE IT SORT OF A VENTILATOR TO TAKE OFF THESE FUMES.

LIFE, TO BAMBI, SEEMED MORE EXCITING EVERY DAY! HE MARVELED AS THE GREEN LEAVES CHANGED TO CRIMSON AND GOLD... THEN THEY WERE RUSSET ON THE GROUND AND THE TREES WERE GETTING BARE!
HE NESTLED IN THE SOFT LEAVES AT NIGHT AND CHASED THE SWIRLING EDDIES BY DAY.
THEN ONE MORNING HE AWOKE TO A NEW THRILL.
"MOTHER.. LOOK! THE GROUND'S WHITE!"
"YES, BAMBI.. IT'S SNOW! GO RUN AND PLAY IN IT!"
SO BAMBI LEARNED THE FEEL OF CRISP CLEAN SNOW AND FROLICKED WITH HIS FRIEND THUMPER ON THE ICE. IT WAS GREAT FUN... MOSTLY!
BUT AS WINTER WORE ON, HIS JOY GAVE WAY TO HUNGER. THE DEEP SNOW COVERED THE FOREST GROWTH AND FOOD BECAME SCARCER AND SCARCER...
EVEN THE DRY BARK OF THE TREES WAS STRIPPED UNTIL THEY COULD NO LONGER REACH IT
FINALLY, ONE DAY AS WINTER WANED... BAMBI SPRANG UP EXCITEDLY.
"GRASS!" HE CRIED. "MOTHER! COME ON!"
"BAMBI! STOP!"
"BAMBI!"
BUT THE HUNGRY FAWN NEVER HEARD HIS MOTHER'S CRY! HERE WAS FOOD... AND HE DID NOT REALIZE HE HAD RUSHED OUT UPON THE DANGEROUS MEADOW!

HERE COMES THE BRIDE
- HOORAY! THIS IS THE CIRCUS'S HAPPIEST DAY! COOKY IS FREE!!
YOU MEAN HE WAS FREE! DON'T FORGET THAT HE JUST GOT MARRIED!
BOYS, LEONA AND I DON'T KNOW HOW TO THANK YOU FOR ALL YOU'VE DONE--
I GIVE YOU BOTH FAIR WARNING -- I'M GOING TO KISS YOU!!
YOU TWO ARE PUBLIC HEROES! LOOK AT THIS FRONT-PAGE STORY ON HOW YOU SAVED COOKY FROM PAYING FOR A CRIME THAT HE DIDN'T COMMIT!
CLOWN FREED IN CIRCUS KILLING
CIRCUS FOLKS ARE WONDERFUL, CHESTER- AND THEY LEAD SUCH INTERESTING LIVES - I'M GOING TO MISS ALL THIS - YOU'RE GOING TO MISS IT? W-WHAT DO YOU MEAN, COUSIN JUNIPER ?!
YOU HAVE TO BE GETTING BACK HOME TO THE FOLKS, LAD- AND AS FOR ME, WEL-LL---
I'M NOT GETTING ANY YOUNGER - I'D LIKE TO SETTLE DOWN ON A LITTLE FARM SOMEWHERE -AWAY FROM EXCITEMENT-
BUT WE OWN THE CIRCUS, COUSIN JUNIPER!
THAT'S TRUE, LAD- I'VE ARRANGED WITH OUR GOOD FRIEND, MR. MUNRAB, TO HANDLE EVERYTHING FOR US - EVERY ONCE IN A WHILE HE'LL SEND US AN ACCOUNTING - BUT HURRY - WE MUST SAY OUR GOODBYES -
GUS EDSON
SO LONG, SADIE - I'M GOING TO MISS YOU --
--GEE! GOSH, COUSIN JUNIPER -
I KNOW HOW YOU FEEL, LAD - BELAY ME, IF I'M NOT A LITTLE SAD MYSELF - BUT COME NOW - LET'S GET STARTED BACK TO TOWN -
8-23
I'D RATHER NOT BE WALKING AROUND HERE IN THE DARK WITH THIS BULGING MONEY-BELT -
THAT'S RIGHT! I FORGOT YOU WERE CARRYING OUR SHARE OF THE TREASURE!
SHH-H! WE'RE BEING FOLLOWED, CHESTER!!!
